VOTE IN SENATE TO BREAK OPA'S BUROCRAT RULE

Act to Limit Wage and Price Freezes.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Smashing at Roosevelt administration burocrats who defy congress, a rebellious senate voted today to override Economic Stabilizer Vinson and Price Administrator Bowles and take back some of the power congress has delegated to them.

The senate passed the bill extending the OPA price control program with the Bankhead amendment, designed to end the price freeze on cheap cotton goods, which was written into the bill over the protest of Vinson, Bowles, and the senate administration leaders.

Riding high after a 39 to 35 victory on the Bankhead measure, foes of burocratic control of the nation's economy then attempted, in a session that went late into the dinner hour, to break the price ceiling on crude oil, but lost 25 to 41.

OPA Yields on Rent Cases.

A vote on the proposal of Sen. Brooks [R., Ill.] for landlords' relief from the rent freeze was in prospect as the movement to return economic control to congress raged on. But Senators Taft [R., O.] and Butler [R., Neb.] said it wouldn't be necessary.

Yielding to demands that hardship rent cases be decided on their individual merits, the OPA had sent word that it was throwing in the sponge. Taft and Butler said the agency had given assurance that it would ease the situation of landlords victimized by unjustified squeezes thru regulations.

The senators also adopted an amendment by Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] that white collar wages may be raised as high as $37.50 a week by mutual agreement of employer and employe without the approval of any government agency.

Taft Assails Officials.

All the fury of months of indignation over Roosevelt burocratic domination was released when Sen. Taft blasted at the offices of Vinson, Bowles and the war production board in explaining the necessity for congress to take matters into its own hands.

Taft credited Bowles with improving the OPA, but stormed at Bowles' executives and branded Vinson "a very stubborn gentleman, who, having put out an order, won't change it unless congress passes a law."

"Fixing of all prices and wages by the government can only at best be a complicated, arbitrary and oppressive regimentation of the people," Taft said. "It must necessarily limit freedom and choke all initiative. But I believe price control is necessary in war time, much as I deplore it.

Excuses for Use of Power.

MAIL FROM YANKS IN NORMANDY COMING BACK ON EVERY BOAT

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—United States troops in Normandy now are receiving letters from home, and by June 12 will be receiving parcel post packages, headquarters announced today.

As the fighting men marched to boats on D-day there was a box for last minute letters in which they were permitted to say they were going into action. Capt. Dennis Magnetti, Union City, N. J., United States army postal control officer, said nearly every boat leaving the beachhead was carrying mail back and that it would be given "considerable priority."

2d Jury Finds Haupt Guilty; Urges Mercy

After deliberating 28 hours, a federal jury of six women and six men yesterday found Hans Max Haupt guilty of treason; but expressing "only what is in our hearts," the panel recommended mercy in an informal move to save him from a possible death sentence.

Haupt was convicted of shielding and harboring his son, Herbert Hans Haupt, young Nazi saboteur, whose mission to wreck American war plants led him to the electric chair two years ago. It was the elder Haupt's second conviction for treason. He received a death sentence in the first trial, but this was set aside on appeal, and a new trial—the one just ended—granted.

Mercy Plea Not Binding.

The jury's mercy plea for Haupt is not binding upon Judge John P. Barnes, the trial judge. He may sentence him to the electric chair, or to prison for any number of years from five to life, and impose a fine of $10,000. This question may be disposed of next Wednesday when Judge Barnes rules on a motion for a new trial.

Haupt's case was given to the jury at 11:20 a. m. Thursday. The jurors deliberated without sleep thruout the night and yesterday morning. They paused only once to hear the reading of the testimony of three witnesses. At 3:20 p. m. yesterday they agreed on a verdict.

It was read a few minutes later. Haupt heard it with apparent disinterest. Then Joseph M. Callner, 8143 Evans av., the foreman, handed Judge Barnes the jury's petition for mercy, signed by all 12 jurors.

Text of Jury's Plea.

"Realizing fully that our functions terminate with the rendering of our verdict, we, the jury, are moved humbly to beseech your honor's consideration in dealing mercifully with the defendant," the petition read.

"In conformity with your honor's instructions, neither pity nor sympathy has entered into our deliberations. In this plea, we express only what is in our hearts."

Judge Barnes ordered the recommendation made part of the record, and thanked the jury. A formal motion for a new trial then was made by Defense Attys. Paul A. F. Warnholtz and Frederick J. Bertram. Present were Asst. United States Attys. Richard G. Finn and Earle C. Hurley, who with United States Atty. Woll, had prosecuted Haupt.

Report Seven Ballots Taken.

The jury reportedly took seven ballots, voting eight to four for conviction on the first four; 10 to two on the fifth; 11 to one on the sixth, and unanimously on the seventh.

Haupt was the first of six defendants, including his wife, Erna, to go on trial. All six were tried together originally and all convicted, but the Appeals court reversed the conviction and ordered separate trials.

PLANES SINK 4 JAP WARSHIPS OFF BIAK ISLAND

Five Enemy Planes Shot Down.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, June 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur's bombers sank four Japanese destroyers off Manokwari, Dutch New Guinea, it was announced today.

Headquarters reported a fifth destroyer was damaged. A cruiser and a sixth destroyer fled. The attack took place in Geelvink bay, the entrance to which is guarded by Biak and the other Schouten islands.

Ten enemy fighters attempted to prevent the bomber attack, and shot down three American planes. Lightnings escorting the Mitchell bombers destroyed five Japanese aircraft.

Attack at Mast Height.

The enemy naval force was heading eastward, MacArthur's spokesman said, and probably was designed to reënforce garrisons on Biak.

Ten Mitchells flew at mast height to lay their thousand pound bombs right on the decks of four destroyers—and dangerously near a fifth, which was damaged.

It was the first daring venture by an enemy task force into waters near New Guinea in many months. The amount of damage inflicted was perhaps the greatest ever accomplished by such a small bombing formation.

Mop Up on Biak.

The attack followed the bombing by Liberators of a Japanese heavy cruiser near Waigeo Island on June 6, and the probable sinking of two destroyers in waters between Dutch New Guinea and Halmahera Island a few days earlier.

On Biak Island American ground forces were mopping up remaining enemy pockets in the Mokmer area and were preparing an attack upon Borokoe and Sorido dromes west of Mokmer strip.

MacArthur's Liberators again attacked islands in the Truk group, dropping 30 tons upon enemy positions June 7. Three intercepting Zeros were shot down.

Bomb 6 Jap Isles.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, June 9 (AP).—American bombers blasted air fields, runways, and gun positions on a half dozen Central Pacific Islands Wednesday and Thursday, the navy reported today.

Truk, Ponape and adjoining Pakin, Nauru, far to the south, and unidentified enemy positions in the Marshalls all felt American bombs.

At Truk Liberators concentrated their attack upon air fields. Meager and inaccurate anti-aircraft fire was offered by the enemy.

Ponape Air Fields Hit.

Other Liberators attacked Ponape air fields, plantation areas and the settlement. Navy bombers made the attacks on Pakin and Nauru. On Pakin Island anti-aircraft batteries were hit.

In the Marshalls marine and navy planes battered runways and coastal gun emplacements. One marine fighter plane was forced down near Mille and its pilot was rescued.

DETAILS OF GERMANS' DEFENSES ON COAST OF FRANCE REVEALED

HDQ. 21ST ARMY GROUP, June 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—Four types of German obstacles built off the French coasts were described here today.

They included 4 foot high steel pyramids, stakes of 6 inch steel 4 feet high, "hedgehogs" made of three tree trunks driven deep into the sand and coming to a point about 8 feet above the sea bed, and 7 foot steel gates, weighing a ton each, taken from captured Belgian fortifications. All these obstacles were belted with mines.

On shore the defenses consisted not of a real "wall," but of a series of mutually supporting strong points. Sappers disposed of thousands of the submerged obstacles, and pre-invasion bombardments beat down the shore defenses at much less cost than had been anticipated. Only a small fraction of the German batteries on the selected coasts were able to fire when the allied troops came within range.

On the Cherbourg peninsula the German coastal obstacles were in belts 1,000 to 2,000 yards deep, backed up by inundated areas.

Germans See New Threat of South France Landing

MADRID, Spain, June 9 (AP).—Germans' fear that the allies may invade France from Corsica, Sardinia, and Africa increased today when it became known the allies refused a week ago to give navicerts to a Swiss chartered ship seeking to go to Marseille. The Germans since June 7 have halted freight traffic bound for Switzerland at the French-Spanish frontier.

Rommel Leaps Into Ditch, Escapes Plane's Gunfire

New York, June 9 [Special].—Field Marshal Rommel just missed death at the hands of an allied strafing plane two days before the invasion, Brazzaville, the Free French radio, reported today. He was inspecting fortifications behind the Pas de Calais area when the plane attacked his auto. He and his companions piled into a ditch.

Auction Nightshirt Case of Charles II. for $3,780

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 9.—King Charles II.'s embroidered nightshirt case, bearing his coat of arms and dated 1664, sold for $3,780 at an auction in Horsemondon, Kent, today. It was the property of the late Rev. Hugh Smith Marriott, descendant of R. Marriott, sword bearer to King James I.

General Hails U. S. Weapons in Defeat of Germans in Italy

New York, June 9 [Special].—Superiority of American made tanks and other arms, including mortars and field artillery, is held "to be in great part responsible" for allied successes in the Italian campaign in a letter just received by Maj. Gen. Levin H. Campbell, chief of army ordnance in Washington, D. C. The letter was from Lt. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, United States army deputy commander in chief of allied forces in the Mediterranean theater.

The letter praised the efficiency of the ordnance department under Gen. Campbell's leadership and recounted one incident in which an American M-5 tank, because of its greater mobility, was able to knock out a German panther tank with 14 rounds from its 37 mm. gun.

Superior to Germans.

A copy of the letter, which Gen. Campbell forwarded with permission for publication to Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, reads as follows:

"Dear Lev:

"The equipment developed and turned out by the ordnance department under your able leadership is in great part responsible for the successes we are having. It is far superior to any German equipment that I have seen. In fact, most of the German equipment would be obsolescent insofar as we are concerned. It is true, they have guns which shoot projectiles, and that projectiles kill when they hit the right spot. However, for every one projectile they throw over we throw back a hundred. Their counter-attacks are turned back by determined fighting men first, but it is the weapons which they handle that have been slaughtering the Germans.

"For the first time we are using tanks in great numbers. It is all a lot of bunk that the terrain is not suitable for tanks. No terrain is unsuitable for tanks if they can move across country when the ground is dry. They are the boys that take the battle across the minefields and into the machine gun fire, but they must be followed always by well trained, aggressive infantry.

On Front Continuously.

"I have spent most of my time in Italy for the last two months. I have been on the front continuously and I know whereof I speak. Only a few days ago an M-5 tank surprised a German panther tank and knocked it out with 14 rounds from its 37 mm. gun. This was brought about because of the mobility with which the turret could be swung on to the German, and they got their rounds off before the lumbering panther could swing its big gun into action.

"Of course, an alert crew and an excellent gunner were handling the tank but the point I want to make is that the best equipment in the world, improperly handled, is of no value. We lost some tanks in the first day's attack which cracked the German line outside the bridgehead, but it permitted the infantry to get on. Our casualties were few, and well over 80 per cent of the tanks were in action again within the next 48 hours.

"The mortars have done exceptionally fine work, for we have lugged them up the mountains along with our pack artillery, and they have meant the difference in killing and destroying the Germans, for the German was not able to get his equipment to the right places at the right time.

Shells Go Overhead.

"All pieces of artillery are loved, not only by the artilleryman, anti-aircraft and field, but by the infantryman, who cheers as the rounds go over his head.

"The bombs furnished the air force have been a big part in ripping into the Germans all along their lines of communications.

"I just want to let you know that all of us over here appreciate the fine efforts of you and your efficient staff to keep us fully supplied at all times, and to let you know that the equipment furnished the American army is second to none.

"Lots of luck to you. Sincerely,
"JAKE."

Here's Digest of Invasion Facts

LANDINGS—More troops and supplies put ashore in France.

PROGRESS—Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley in field directing Yanks driving 17 miles from Cherbourg; Ste. Mere Eglise captured; main road and rail line cut; British and Canadians join in tank battle at Caen; hurl back Nazis; allies gain ground southwest of Bayeux; continue to expand beachheads; fleet blasts Nazi vessels.

3 Parachuters Wipe Out Nest of 58 Germans

A U. S. 9TH AIR FORCE TROOP CARRIER BASE, June 9 (AP).—Glider pilots returning to this base today reported that Lt. Robert Campbell of Seattle, Wash., and two parachute troopers wiped out 58 Germans with hand grenades and a machine gun and captured a Nazi command post a mile and a half south of Ste. Mere Eglise, which now is in American hands.

Lt. Robert Campbell.

Intelligence officers were piecing together the details and seeking to identify the two troopers.

Get Caught in Battle.

Twenty-seven glider pilots who landed behind enemy lines in the first 48 hours of the invasion were supposed to return immediately to base for more troops, but got caught up in the swirl of battle and fought alongside the troops they had landed.

They were full of stories of the price exacted from the Nazi hordes which infested the fields south of Ste. Mere Eglise and those dropped from the skies in a small scale German parachute troop landing.

Of 200 Nazi parachutists, 13 were taken prisoner. The others died at the hands of American parachutists, who stood in the open firing and shouting defiance into the skies.

U. S. Chutists Take Ste. Mere Eglise; Bradley in Field.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Paris Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 10 (Saturday).—American parachutists and infantrymen have cut the main highway and parallel railroad to the great port of Cherbourg at several places north of captured Ste. Mere Eglise.

These forces, now 17 miles from Cherbourg, have reduced by half the German communication lines supporting the potential landing base. On the other side of the peninsula, secondary roads to Cherbourg also were threatened if not already broken by other parachutists operating near Lessay, German broadcasts intimated.

Gain All Along Front.

The battle for the peninsula, especially in the area of Caen, where the Germans are well equipped with armor, increased in severity, but all along the front advances were being made. One dispatch from the front reported a penetration of 11 miles.

In the battle along the Cherbourg road, the left wing of the American forces was pushing west toward the railway center of Carentan. Beyond this point, on the eastern side of the Vire river, the Americans have formed another beachhead, including the small town of Formigny, which they captured yesterday.

Lt. Gen. Omar Bradley was in the field commanding the American forces.

As more beachheads were linked up and German strong points were reduced, it appeared that it would not be long before allied troops would be facing the Germans along an unbroken front of 60 miles.

Strike Toward St. Lo.

Battleships were standing by along the invasion coast waiting to hurl broadsides into German panzer divisions the moment they counter-attack.

The allied 6th air borne division, northeast of Caen, equipped with light tanks, was putting up a strong battle with Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armor, and British troops were striking down the road southwest of Bayeux toward St. Lo, midway across the base of the peninsula.

Despite bad weather the allies continued to build up their forces. The Germans reported that Gen. Eisenhower now has 16 divisions in France, claiming this is about one-tenth of the allied strength.

Other axis broadcasts said 400,000 men were fighting in Normandy, about 200,000 on each side.

At sea, eight British, Canadian, and Polish destroyers blew up a German destroyer, ran another aground, and damaged two

In another sea action, an American led destroyer force intercepted at least 46 German light craft and drove them off the beachhead area in the vicinity of the St. Marcouf Isles in the Seine bay.

A high sea was running off the beachhead and the channel was choppy. There were intermittent drizzles of rain and visibility over the channel was only a mile, dropping at times to a half mile, with mist as dense as fog rolling in off the sea. The barometer dropped a few points. A ceiling of 1,000 to 1,500 feet prevented full use of the allied air force.

Tell How Destroyer Sank.

Some details were disclosed of the loss of one American destroyer in the early part of the invasion. It was announced on Tuesday that two American destroyers and one landing craft had been lost up to noon of that day.

A German inland battery in repeated fire hit the destroyer while its guns were engaged in clearing a beach for the landing of ground forces. It sank only a few thousand yards off the coast. It is not permitted to identify at this time either the destroyer or its commander, who was among the survivors.

It was learned that the destroyer went out of control before it was hit by the German battery. Officials said they knew what caused this but refrained from making a definite disclosure. They implied, however, that it might have been hit by some type of rocket projectile.

The ship had gone into action before dawn Tuesday. The firing opened 20 minutes ahead of schedule when a German battery spotted the ship. The German battery was silenced and the destroyer then swung back to its assigned targets "when something hit us," the commander recalled.

He said he tried to head the ship out to sea, but she went into a tight circle. Finally she stopped with her engine rooms flooded and orders were given to abandon ship. When all were overboard the commander said, he "just stepped off the bridge into water" which already was neck high. He was picked up by other destroyers which raced in to lower boats on one side while their guns still were firing shoreward on the other side.

Air Force Units Land.

Progress yesterday was sufficient to warrant the prediction that soon allied planes would be landing on air fields in France where gasoline and oil will be awaiting them. Units of the United States 9th air force, composed mostly of engineers and technicians, were landed. Their job is to build air fields.

Between 4,000 and 6,000 Germans already have been taken prisoner, and more than 1,900 of them have been brought to England. It was disclosed that the Nazis manned some shore batteries with Russian prisoners of war. One such battery was reported to have surrendered outright. These men had accepted service on the western front as an alternative to imprisonment.

German broadcasts said that the allied paratroop divisions on the south side of the peninsula between Coutances and Granville were trying to make contact with forces from Bayeux. This would have the effect of cutting off the Cherbourg peninsula.

Claim Chutists Reinforced.

These forces, the Nazis said, already have been reinforced with rifle troops. The strategy behind all the allied thrusts they said, is to join forces, and then push to the gulf of St. Malo, presumably at Avranches. After this has been accomplished an all-out attack for possession of the port of Cherbourg and the entire peninsula would follow.

Considerable importance is attached to the tank battles around Caen. We are deploying there, it was pointed out, because the land around Caen is flat. The allies have the advantage in that they can bring up reinforcements while behind the enemy the country is unfavorable for tank movement. One dispatch described allied tank convoys coming thru in endless columns.

Nazis Concede Gains.

The Germans conceded that one beachhead was nine miles deep along the Orne river to Caen and that a wedge had been driven thru Bayeux and five miles on southwest towards St. Lo—a depth of 10 miles.

They also said in a wireless dispatch to Turkey, that the allies captured Fort Marcouf, on the Island of St. Marcouf, three miles off shore and northeast of Ste. Mere Eglise. The Germans said their garrison surrendered after two and a half days of resistance.

The British and Canadians were disclosed to have landed originally in the region of Berniers Sur Mer, 10 miles west of the Orne river mouth, and to have quickly captured Berniers. The Canadian 3d division was one of those in action.

It was announced that besides Berniers, coastal villages taken by the Canadians and British the first day included Courseulles, St. Aubin, Lion, Luc, Quistreham, and Hangrune.

GERMAN WAR BULLETIN

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—The German high command war bulletin recorded from a Berlin broadcast today said:

"On the coast of Normandy the enemy, altho heavy losses have been inflicted on him by the attacks of German naval forces, and the luftwaffe, succeeded in strengthening his bridgehead.

"East of the Orne our counter-attack gained further ground. Enemy tank forces operating at the landing head west of the Orne made an encircling attack on Bayeux and penetrated farther toward the west and southwest. The enemy was checked roughly 10 kilometers [6 miles] west of the town.

"Our panzer spearhead counter attacking from the Caen area is now engaged in heavy fighting southeast of Bayeux. The enemy pushing toward the north and south from the landing head at Ste. Mere Eglise gained only little ground against our troops which are offering stiff resistance.

Claim 2 Warships Sunk.

"German MT-boats on the night of June 7 sank one enemy cruiser and one enemy destroyer off the east coast of the Cherbourg peninsula. One other enemy destroyer and one tank landing boat were seriously damaged by torpedo hits.

"Last night our MT-boats in the same waters attacked an enemy formation and sank two big landing vessels totaling 9,200 tons. The enemy landing fleet is suffering continuous further heavy losses by our mine barrage.

"The luftwaffe with bomber and battleplane formations continued with good results its attacks on the enemy landing fleet. During the day and night of June 7, the luftwaffe sank six enemy transports totaling more than 30,000 tons and eight special landing ships were damaged.

"One heavy enemy cruiser and two light cruisers received bomb hits. Forty-five enemy aircraft were downed by German fighters and flak."

NAZI PRISONERS INCLUDE MANY OF OTHER LANDS

LONDON, June 9 (AP). — German prisoners are reaching Britain, a dazed, bedraggled, and unimpressive lot. They never thought, they said, the allies would land so much armor and so many cannon so quickly.

Many are in their 'teens. One was a 13 year old Russian boy, wearing a uniform several sizes too big for him, who had been pressed into the German army last year. There were Belgians, Italians, Russians, Poles, French, and even Mongolians who were captured on the Russian front. Many had been in labor battalions. Some foreigners had seized Nazi officers to get better treatment and pay as soldiers.

The Italians refused to have anything to do with the Germans and kept to themselves. Some Nazi officers turned their backs on lunch of tea and crackers with a remark that "if you want us to eat, you'll have to bring us something better than that."

Lt. (J. G.) John Kelsey Takes Part in Invasion

Lt. [j. g.] John Kelsey, of the coast guard, formerly of 1131 Chicago av., Evanston, was one of the Yanks in the van of the French invasion, dispatches stated. He is a son of Fenton Kelsey, publisher at 43 E. Ohio st. Lt. Kelsey, 28, is the skipper of an LCI [landing craft, infantry]. He participated in the invasions of Sicily and Italy. He is a graduate of Evanston Township High school.

LOSES $500 DIAMOND PIN.

Mrs. Phillip Heimlich of Philadelphia reported to police yesterday that while walking in the loop Thursday she lost a diamond lapel pin valued at $500.

NAZIS PREDICT BELGIUM TO BE INVADED SOON

Expect Allied Blow Within Few Days.

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—German broadcasts predicted today that the allies would invade Belgium soon "between Dunkerque and Ostend." The radio said:

"Divisions ready in northeast England and Scotland have not yet been thrown into the fight. It can be assumed a big part of these forces will be thrown into some invasion attempt which should start within the next few days.

"Combined action is being expected somewhere between Dunkerque and Ostend. For this, special Canadian troops are in readiness as well as several air borne and very strong tank divisions. Apart from [Gen.] Montgomery's army, [Gen.] Eisenhower has at his disposal more than 50 divisions, half of which are allocated for the French-Belgian expedition."

Concede Bridgehead Widened.

After asserting yesterday that the allied beachheads were being narrowed by Field Marshal Gen. Erwin Rommel's counter-blows, Nazi broadcasters today conceded the main brideghead had been widened.

They acknowledged three allied advances inland—a five mile wedge driven southwest of Bayeux toward St. Lo; a six mile advance west of Bayeux "where spearheads of German counter-attackers now stand," and an advance of over a mile by Americans from fallen Ste. Mere Eglise toward Valognes.

The German news agency, DNB, said that all three beachheads which the Germans admit the allied hold were reinforced from the sea last night. These are the main one west of the Orne mouth and two smaller ones near Fort en Bessin and Quineville, farther west on the coast. The DNB commentator also said more air borne troops were dropped in key inland sectors of Caen, Bayeux, and Carentan, and one broadcaster said "Carentan is securely in German hands."

Tanks Battle in Caen.

Other enemy reports said a great tank battle was raging to a climax in Caen, "which is still in German hands," while on the other side of Bayeux, the allied advance continued across the neck of the Cherbourg peninsula.

A spokesman emphasized it was the aim of the Nazis to compel the allies to put forward their whole strength and then defeat them, and "development of the fighting should be regarded from this angle."

Ludwig Sertorius, commentator for Transocean, propaganda agency, asserted reinforced allies "only nibbled a small piece out of the Atlantic wall," and that the allies have "not managed to synchornize the fighting from Bayeux inland with that of Americans on the Cherbourg peninsula."

Still another Berlin commentator reported "all enemy troops landed or parachuted from the air outside the beachheads have been annihilated and the French hinterland is consequently free of allied soldiers."

NAZIS SEIZE SON OF IKE'S AIDE, BUT HE FLEES

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—Capt. John C. H. Lee Jr., son of Lt. Gen. Lee, a deputy commander to Gen. Eisenhower, was captured by the Germans on an invasion beach but escaped, Louis Azrael of the Baltimore News-Post said today.

Lee, who was with one of the first companies of engineers to land on D-day, was surprised by the Germans and taken prisoner as he was heading away from the beach, Azrael said.

When the guard nearest him began piling up earth to make an enclosure, Lee knocked him unconscious with his shovel, picked up the German's rifle, and fled. He lay in a foxhole until he saw an opportunity to rejoin his unit.

WE'RE GOING O. K. AT WORST SPOT, SAYS ADMIRAL

Sees Sign That German Morale Is Cracking.

BY JOSEPH DRISCOLL.

IN THE BAY OF THE SEINE, France, June 8 [Delayed]. — Rear Adm. John L. Hall Jr., commanding the amphibious assault force which landed troops in the toughest section of the Normandy invasion front today said that "things are going pretty well, now."

Coming from the white haired admiral, a conservative Virginian, this statement almost approaches optimism regarding a somewhat confused situation.

The admiral cited a case where 60 Germans surrendered after shooting their commanding officer who had refused to surrender. He said it was a good sign of a break in German morale.

Hall, returning from an inspection of the assault armada, said a study of the characteristics of the coastline indicated the hills and cliffs gave the Germans an opportunity to build thick concrete pillboxes.

Many Tanks Got Ashore.

"Because of the angle of fire it was hard for our guns to get these pillboxes, despite reconnaissance photographs," he said.

"We ran into a situation worse than imagined and worse than anything previous in this war.

"We lost men, a lot of tanks were knocked out, but a good many of them got ashore and we are doing all right now."

The admiral said the transports and other ships had advanced farther than he had hoped. At Salerno, he said, he saw his ships hit farther out in darkness than they were here in daylight. He gave the credit for this to the aerial and surface bombardment of the French coast.

He added that he had expected a lot more trouble from mines and that the German air reaction was less than anticipated and less than that experienced at the Salerno and Sicilian landings.

NAZIS HURLED BACK

BY ROSS MUNRO.

[Canadian Press War Correspondent; Distributed by Associated Press.]

WITH CANADIAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, June 9.—Several sharp actions developed on this front today as the Germans increased their pressure along the Bayeux-Caen line.

At one point a German battle group with strong armor broke into the Canadian lines but was thrown out. Gunners of anti-tank and field gun batteries hammered the Panzers and Canadian tanks joined the fight.

Elements of at least two Panzer [armored] divisions are being engaged by British and Canadian forces along this Bayeux-Caen highway. Fiercer fighting is expected when the main forces clash.

During the night German infantry crept up on Canadian positions at one point and until dawn close fighting raged over fields and slopes, with white flares lighting the battleground. The Germans withdrew, after a hammering, toward Caen.

TOUGH FORTS BEATEN

BY EDWARD V. ROBERTS.

[United Press correspondent representing combined American press.]

AN ADVANCED ALLIED COMMAND POST, June 9.—The initial success of the allied landing operations in France represents a penetration by ingenuity and guts of one of the most remarkable fortifications of all time.

This is the view of military experts here, who ridicule reports that the west wall turned out to be myth. They say it was in reality built of steel, reinforced concrete, mines, interlocking fire positions, flooded areas, and every type of land and sea blockade conceivable to the modern military mind.

There was not a single point on any of the landing beaches that was not originally commanded by at least one group of machine guns and also could be blasted by mobile guns or concealed artillery protected by reinforced concrete casements as thick as a house.

2½ Year Watch Over Defenses.

The fact that we cracked the west wall at all was due entirely to the smashing concentrated air and sea bombardment that preceded the D-day operation and to the sheer guts of the men who went ashore in the pile driving front assault.

For 2½ years allied observers maintained a minute scrutiny over the Nazi "crust" defenses. They watched them grow, charted their strengths and defects, and saw them modernized and made tougher.

Delaying Action Planned.

The purpose of the "crust" defenses, despite Nazi home propaganda to the effect that they made landings impossible, was not to prevent landings but to delay them to such an extent that the Germans could concentrate sufficient troops to crush the invading elements.

Returning wounded have told how substantially some of the fortifications withstood the initial bombardment, how mined underwater obstacles blew holes in landing craft, and of beach obstacles, and thick anti-tank walls that had to be breached.

COURAGE, SKILL WIN

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

WITH U. S. FORCES IN FRANCE, June 8 [Delayed]—(AP).—Fighting as American troops did in Tunisia, Sicily, and Italy, doughboys have smashed thru the outer crust of Hitler's fortress in a gallant display of courage and skill.

The beachhead battle has developed into a race to get enough doughboys, guns, and supplies ashore to beat back the enemy attack. It looks as if we are winning.

Soon after the assault troops landed amid heavy machine gun, mortar, and artillery fire, troops, supplies, and vehicles began to pile up on the beach at an alarming rate. The enemy controled the exits with accurate fire and disrupted the time schedule.

But under the urging of a soft-spoken brigadier general the organized enemy positions were silenced and the great surge inland began. In a few hours the engineers had roads built from the beach and the heavy stuff was pouring across.

One unforeseen difficulty here was that three fresh regiments of German infantry moved onto the beach area just before the landing for anti-invasion maneuvers. They were sitting in their positions when the armada arrived offshore.

Along the beaches were under water barriers, barbed wire, gun posts, and concrete block houses with 88 mm. guns covering the beach approaches. The walls of the houses were of reinforced concrete 4 to 6 feet thick.

Along the beach still are the khaki clad bodies of boys who gave their lives in the allies' bid to crush Germany's armed might. But there were not so many as I had expected.

We had waded ashore to the rattle of machine guns and the bursting of shells. Some wounded men lay in gravel with water washing over their legs, shivering and waiting for stretcher bearers.

"O God, let me aboard a boat," whimpered one youth in semi-delirium. Near him a shivering youth dug with bare fingers into the sand.

MEN, AID POUR IN

BY LEWIS HAWKINS.

[Associated Press Correspondent representing the combined American press.]

ON THE NORMANDY BEACH, June 8 [Delayed].—Men and supplies for the final showdown on some European battlefields flowed swiftly in a mounting stream today across the beaches bought and paid for with American lives and skill.

While the army fought its way inland, the navy and engineers had their first real chance to organize supply lines across the shores that were battlegrounds right up to today.

"I think we can put the stuff in as fast as it's needed and can be used," a combat supply officer said.

Most of the beach obstacles have been cleared away, altho demolition charges still are competing with the bang and clatter of the field artillery. In the bluff beyond the beach bulldozers have cut several new exits and the original roads have become more than a dozen so the artillery, tanks, and heavy construction and supply vehicles are able to roll in.

Some Move the Other Way.

The traffic isn't all one way—the wounded come back by litter or on foot to testify to the quality of the German resistance.

Prisoners are coming in in sizeable bunches. Some claim resistance at this point is particularly rough because they knew that we were coming. However, examination of the beach defenses testifies to their newness, as do a concrete mixer and steel rods stacked by the shore, where apparently they had been used to fashion more reënforced pillboxes and casements.

William Levitt, violinist with the W-G-N orchestra, will be the soloist when Ernest Chausson's "Poeme" is played during the broadcast of the Chicago Theater of the Air Symphony hour from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight. The concert will be broadcast before 600 guests in W-G-N's main audience studio over W-G-N, WGNB, and the Mutual Broadcasting system.

Other selections, featuring the orchestra under the direction of Henry Weber, will be the overture to "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn and "Midsummer Wake" by Alfven. The Symphony hour is presented every Saturday night.

PARIS SO CALM OVER INVASION ITS CURFEW IS RELAXED, SAY NAZIS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

A Berlin broadcast yesterday described Paris as so calm over the invasion that the city's curfew, long fixed at midnight, had been relaxed to 1 a. m.

It said that the former French capital was supplied on Thursday with 642 tons of vegetables, 415,000 quarts of milk, 203 tons of fruits, and "bread for all consumers."

News from the invasion front was described as taking up most of the space in the two page newspapers, which the broadcast said were "eaten up like hot cakes."

GEN. MARSHALL IN LONDON WITH KING, ARNOLD

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—America's three top commanders arrived in London today for a close-up review and possible major decisions on the strategy of the grand offensive in Europe.

President Roosevelt, thru his secretary, Stephen Early, announced the arrival in London of Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff; Adm. Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the fleet, and Gen. Henry H. Arnold, chief of the air forces.

The four star officers went to Britain, Early said, to attend a meeting of the combined chiefs of staff which had been planned to be held "as soon as possible after D-day," which was Tuesday.

Confer with President.

The President, Early said, is "happy to announce" that the officers "arrived safely in London."

The trio conferred with President Roosevelt on Tuesday a few hours after the invasion began. Like other military officials here, they are understood to have been extremely well pleased with the progress to date.

that critical decisions affecting the success of the whole operation would have to be made immediately after the first limited beachheads were established.

While the allied strategy remains one of the great secrets of the war, the map of developments to date suggests that one possible question facing the leaders is this:

Whether to concentrate on exploiting the areas already attacked or to make an equally heavy assault at some other position.

There's Supply Question, Too.

This is the question which undoubtedly has the Nazi high command most seriously worried at the moment. Whether allied plans are already fixed or not, the Germans cannot commit their forces until they know where the weight of the attack is directed. On the other hand, a display of enemy weakness would open up opportunities to Gen. Eisenhower for further attack or for exploitation of positions already assaulted. Such major decisions might preferably be passed upon by the chiefs of staff rather than by the invasion commander alone.

Beyond these, moreover, are questions of supply both from England across the channel and from the United States to England and eventually to the coast of France.

AP War Reporter Hurt as He Writes of Invasion

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—Henry B. Jameson, Associated Press correspondent, was injured slightly while aboard a flat bottomed Rhino ferry which spent 14 hours, frequently under heavy German fire, attempting to land on the French coast D-day. He wrote a brief dispatch of how the boat nosed onto shore after being forced back three times and to his story appended a note that he suffered minor shoulder and leg injuries.

TRIBUNE WRITER WATCHES YANKS WIN A VILLAGE

Wipe Out Sharpshooters in Drive Inland.

BY JOHN THOMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE AMERICAN TROOPS IN FRANCE, June 9.—While a steady stream of reinforcements continued to roll in over the bitterly won beachhead, troops in this sector drove inland, capturing several villages in the face of stiffening resistance.

Assault forces moved into high ground dominating the river while waves of allied bombers passed overhead, attacking targets. Allied air domination is so complete that air support is pleading with the ground troops to find them targets. Before noon nearly 600 prisoners, including some impressed Russians and Poles, were evacuated and more were coming back from the front.

After weathering the toughest amphibious landing ever attempted by American troops on this side of the Atlantic, the task force with which I landed slugged its way inland, further enlarging our beachhead.

Village Is Occupied.

Our advance teams pushed against Formigny, 20 miles southeast of Ste. Mere-Eglise on the Caen-Carentan road and miles from where we hit the beach. This town was entered last night by the tired beachhead soldiers and this morning, after bothersome sharpshooters had been eliminated, was fully occupied.

While our task force drove steadily inland we were still awaiting the inevitable German counter-attack. No one here minimizes the enemy's strength nor his desire to fight.

For the first time in any landing against German held territory the allies have been without fear of his air threat during the daylight hours. Not a single German plane appeared over the transport area in the channel or over the beachhead yesterday or today, altho last night several bombers attacked our fleet transports and warships and dropped a few bombs on the beachheads.

Fighting Conditions "Horrible."

Except for the initial resistance on the beaches, which provided fighting conditions as horrible as Americans ever have experienced, the enemy has so far confined his major effort to harassing the beaches with artillery fire from numerous batteries.

Lt. Gen. Omar N. Bradley came ashore today from his command ship to get a first-hand picture of conditions here, but yesterday the gallant men who took this beachhead and made possible this landing were on their own.

Now that we are inland some miles and holding a bridge, it may be possible to describe our fighting during these daylight hours when our mighty armada assembled and disgorged its fleet of small craft toward the beaches.

There WAS a wall here.

Row on row of formidable beach obstacles met the first waves of infantry. Machine gun fire supported by 88 mm. positions and pillboxes pinned them there behind a tiny shale ridge for hours. This I can attest, having, as the first correspondent in this group to touch France, lain there with them while men fell on all sides. The Germans were ready for us, but not wholly ready.

The French men and women were more concerned at the moment with what the battle might do to their small farms and villages than with being freed from German domination.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 9 (AP).—Allied war bulletin No. 8 from supreme headquarters tonight said:

"American troops are across the Carentan-Valognes road in several places and have cut the broad gauge railway to Cherbourg.

"Further gains have been made west and southwest of Bayeux.

"Fighting is severe in the area of Caen, where the enemy is making a determined effort to stem the advance.

"The weight of armor on both sides is increasing and heavy fighting continues in all areas.

"Enemy strongpoints previously by-passed have now been eliminated.

"The weather has deteriorated, but our beachheads are being steadily developed.

"During the 24 hours to 8 a. m. this morning [Friday] 46 targets were engaged by allied warships which shelled enemy concentrations and coastal batteries.

"The enemy was sighted and our ships turned toward them, avoiding their torpedoes.

"One enemy destroyer was torpedoed and blew up. A second was driven ashore in flames.

"Two others escaped after receiving damage by gunfire. H. M. S. Tartar sustained some damage and a few casualties but continued in action and has returned safely to harbor.

"During the night destroyers under the command of Rear Adm. Don Pardee Moon, U. S. N., intercepted a force of heavily armed enemy craft between the mainland and the isles De San Marcus and drove them off.

"Unsuccessful attempts were again made after dawn by E-boats to enter the assault area both from the east and the west. They were intercepted and driven off by light coastal forces off Point De Barfleur in a short gun action. Hits were observed on two of the enemy before they escaped.

"This morning [Friday] H. M. S. Frobisher neutralized two enemy batteries and destroyed an ammunition dump."

YANKEE RAIDERS HOP OVER ALPS, ATTACK MUNICH

Night Bombers Help Invasion Forces.

LONDON, June 10 [Saturday] (AP).—R. A. F. bombers hit invasion areas in Normandy last night and British Mosquitos raided Berlin after an all-day lull imposed by poor weather, it was announced today.

During Friday 500 to 750 American heavy bombers crossed the Alps from Italy and hammered targets in the Munich area of southern Germany, but the English channel weather was so bad that for the first time since D-day there were no daylight operations from Britain in support of the invasion.

The Italian based bombers flew into the Munich area for the first time and fought thru swarms of German fighters. Swiss dispatches said explosives also were dropped in the Augsburg sector.

Attack Near Venice.

Other United States heavy bombers attacked Porto Marghera, near Venice.

R. A. F. heavy bombers raided French rail yards and junctions at Rennes, Fougeres, Alencon, Mayenne, and Pontabault at a cost of two aircraft on Thursday night.

These targets, including Rennes, 105 miles south of Cherbourg, are below the Normandy invasion coast and the attacks were aimed at severing the main communication and reinforcement lanes between German armies in Normandy and those in southern France.

The assault in the Munich area, a transport center for shuttling troops from Germany to both Italy and the west, also seemed aimed at sealing off the Normandy front from Germany's "strategic reserve" areas.

Rocket firing Typhoons sank at least one German E-boat in the channel Thursday and damaged several others, while a continuous fighter umbrella was maintained over the beaches and fighter-bombers swept far inland to pound German troop concentrations.

289 Planes Lost in Invasion.

Neary Isigny, at least three heavy tanks and a group of blockhouses were wrecked.

Up to noon Thursday the allies had lost 289 planes—barely 1 per cent of the 27,000 sorties flown—and 176 German planes had been destroyed.

The low toll of German aircraft is due chiefly to the lack of targets. A large part of the allied losses were due to anti-aircraft fire rather than to enemy fighters.

INVASION SENDS STRIKERS BACK TO THEIR JOBS

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—The war labor board said today that the European invasion has resulted in a general clearing up of strikes in this country.

For the first time since the board was created in January, 1942, not a single strike was before it. The slates of regional boards over the nation, with a few possible exceptions, also were reported clean.

The conciliation service has only seven cases under consideration, affecting about 4,000 workers. Normally, it handles 20 cases daily.

A four day strike of some 15,000 employes at the Wright Aeronautical corporation plant in Cincinnati, O., apparently had ended today as workers returned to their jobs.

TRIBUNE WAR PRODUCTS SHOW OPENS TODAY

Hammond Retires

Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond will retire today as chief of the Chicago ordnance district for reasons of health, the war department said yesterday. He will be succeeded by Col. John Slezak, deputy district chief.

Gen. Hammond, a retired Illinois National Guard officer, said he will act in an advisory capacity to the new chief.

Gen. Hammond resigned as president and general manager of the Whiting corporation, Harvey, in January, 1942, to become the district's production advisor. He was appointed chief in August, 1942. Gen. Hammond said he was undecided whether he would return to the Whiting corporation.

BY FRANK STURDY.

An impressive exhibit of war material, gripping in its interest to all Chicagoland, will open today at Tribune Tower. There is something in this show to touch the heart, for every article in it is concerned in the present invasion of the French coast, including the personal arms with which the heroic invaders are pushing inland in combat growing tougher day by day.

Sponsored by the United States Treasury in coöperation with THE TRIBUNE and manufacturers of the combat equipment, the show will open at 11:30 a. m. with ceremonies near the large tent on the lower level of Michigan av. just south of the Tribune Tower.

Many Invasion Articles.

The show is called the War Products exhibit. It includes scores of big and little items of fighting material, offering an opportunity few will willingly miss to see the things our soldiers carried onto the shores of Normandy—some of their guns, the field rations to carry them thru emergencies, several of their combat vehicles, including the M-4 tank, landed in lumbering droves from assault boats.

To the scores of thousands of Chicagoland families with members in the army or navy, and to the other thousands engaged in war production, Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, who retires today as chief of the Chicago ordnance district, addressed these words yesterday:

"The War Products Exhibit will give war workers and the general public an opportunity to view many types of weapons and equipment that have been provided in vast quantities to Gen. Eisenhower's gallant invasion army.

Army Amply Supplied.

"Altho the equipment on display will speak for itself, the reassuring fact that the American army has launched its historic invasion with ample supplies of the finest equipment in the world certainly bears repeating.

"To the thousands of men and women war workers in the Chicago area who have labored month after month to deliver goods for the critical invasion hour must go a share of the credit for the thoroness with which preparations were made. It is indeed appropriate that these war workers should receive public recognition thru the medium of this splendid war exhibit."

Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the Chicago and Cook county finance committee for the 5th war loan drive, hailed the show's timeliness in these words:

"The War Products exhibit at Tribune Tower, in conjunction with the treasury department, will certainly bring the war closer to the people of Chicago and should greatly influence the sale of war bonds in the 5th war loan drive."

Entertainers to Appear.

Chicago's Navy Pier band, directed by Chief Musician Fred Norton, will play at the opening program. Les Lear, of the treasury department special events division, as master of ceremonies, will introduce Wini Shaw, star singer of the show "Alaskan Stampede," opening next week at the Coliseum. Chief Specialist Storm Bull, U. S. N., well known concert pianist, will play a Grieg concerto.

Other entertainment will include "Two Ton" Baker and "The Three Imaginators," now appearing at the College Inn in the Hotel Sherman. W-G-N will broadcast part of the program from 12 to 12:15.

The exhibit will close tonight at 10 p. m. Thereafter, it will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily until July 9, the closing day.

TOJO PEPS UP HITLER.

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—The Berlin radio said today that Premier Tojo of Japan had sent a message to Hitler expressing "complete confidence in the victory of German arms over the British-American invaders."

3 PARACHUTERS WIPE OUT NEST OF 58 GERMANS

Sigourney, Ia., was knocked flat by six machine gun bullets as his glider landed, but he was unhurt. His flak suit saved him.

Flight Officer Leo J. Cordier of East Hartford, Conn., and his crew untangled their jeep from the wreckage of a glider and used it to carry the wounded to a first aid post. They spent the night lying awake in foxholes.

The next day Cordier said he was with Flight Officer Charles Dobeneck of Jeannette, Pa., when they saw four Germans coming up the road.

"We got down behind a fence and drew a bead on them," he said. "Then we saw a couple of G. I.'s behind them. One was tired and had an unloaded Garand, and he was making a German carry it."

Lt. Lambert Wilder of Bogota, N. J., found a Nazi mortar 15 feet from his landing craft. He and 13 air borne troops scrambled to cover, set up their own guns, and swapped fire with the Germans, while the crews of two crashed gliders reached safety.

Capture Sleeping Nazis.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 9 (AP).—The high command in its first detailed story disclosed today that United States parachute troops descending on the Ste. Mere Eglise sector below Cherbourg Tuesday carried out a vertical attack far excelling the German sky assault on Crete three years ago.

The official report said losses approximated 2 per cent of the more than 1,000 United States and R. A. F. planes used, and a high staff officer who accompanied the Americans, in ridiculing German claims of inflicting heavy casualties on the parachutists, said:

"You need not worry about American paratroopers. They can take care of themselves and they are tough as hell."

New secret devices enabled the Americans to land in designated spots despite layers of clouds, and two hours after the landing some parachutists were utilizing captured German transport equipment.

Glider drops were made on a much bigger scale than ever contemplated by the Germans in Crete. Both Americans and British used gliders in daylight on D-day with small losses, whereas the Germans gave up the use of gliders in Crete after suffering severe losses.

One glider landed on top of a house on the Valognes-Carentan road and the troops clambered downstairs to capture sleeping Germans in their beds.

Pathfinders used by the R. A. F. air forces aided in the landings and some parachute troops hit the ground five hours before H-hour. United States troops trained with the British for many months and spent two years in planning the operation.

An officer who went along as an observer was reprimanded for risking his life and later told he would be decorated.

"The sky was full of 'chutes, after I came down," he said. "Five hundred or more of them at once in the moonlight. I could see German tracers going thru some 'chutes. Some jumpers were hurt, but the rest drove on to their objectives with great determination.

"A boy I was with while we made our way to the coast was shot in the leg, but before he would allow it to be fixed he insisted he kill a German. He stormed a pillbox on the way to the beach so he could do it."

Germans Still in Flight Before 5th Army.

ROME, June 9 (AP).—Pursuing the shattered German 14th army at breakneck pace northwest of Rome, Lt. Gen. Mark Clark's 5th army swept thru the communication centers of Viterbo, Vetralla and Tarquinia today as Nazi troops in the Adriatic sector joined the general enemy flight up the peninsula.

Viterbo, a vital highway and rail junction 40 miles from Rome, fell before a swift seven mile thrust from the area of Lake Di Vico, Tarquinia, on the main coastal highway 55 miles northwest of the capital, was seized in a 10 mile stab by allied troops driving on from the captured port of Civitavecchia. Vetralla is on a lateral highway connecting Viterbo and Tarquinia.

5th Army Drives 130 Miles.

There yet was no sign that Field Marshal Albert Kesselring had been able to rally his fleeing remnants, and it was doubted here that he would attempt to make another serious stand short of a line beyond Florence, some 150 miles from Rome. Altho Clark's forces were averaging about 15 miles a day they found it difficult to keep within shooting distance of the Nazis.

Clark's vanguards were more than 130 airline miles from the starting points of the big offensive launched less than a month ago.

A five month deadlock was broken in the Adriatic sector when the Nazis, after carrying out heavy demolitions, began withdrawing along a five mile front between the coast and Crecchio. British 8th army forces pressed after them two miles and occupied Tollo, only seven miles from the provincial capital of Chieti. The Germans thus were retreating along virtually the entire width of the peninsula.

Drive 10 Miles Past Tivoli.

The main 8th army continued to meet stiff resistance from German rearguards east of the Tiber, but drove some 10 miles beyond Tivoli to seize Agosta and Palombara-Sabina. Further east their spearheads approached Civitella Roveto, 7½ miles south of Avezzano.

Allied planes destroyed 195 enemy vehicles and 28 rail cars and damaged at least 170 more vehicles in attacks on German transport. Heavy bombers raided a submarine base at Pola, Italy, and targets in Nis, Yugoslavia.

Civitavecchia, Italy's seventh port in tonnage handled before the war, was found to have escaped serious damage by German demolitions. Its deep water unloading facilities—first to fall to the allies above Rome—should greatly assist the 5th army push up the west coast.

'IKE' REJECTS COURT-MARTIAL FOR BLABBER

Washington, June 9 (AP).—The war department made known today Gen. Eisenhower had reported that evidence against Maj. Gen. Henry J. F. Miller did not warrant a court-martial.

Miller was reduced to his permanent rank of lieutenant colonel in the air forces and sent home after he was reported to have said at a cocktail party in London that the invasion would come not later than June 15. He is now in a hospital at Coral Gables, Fla.

The war department statement was made to Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] in a memorandum from Maj. Gen. M. G. White, assistant chief of staff. Chandler said he had requested that a full report be given to the senate military committee. It developed, meanwhile, that on May 29, without knowing of the incident in which Miller was involved, the senate confirmed his promotion to the permanent rank of colonel. President Roosevelt submitted the promotion on March 16, apparently before the London incident occurred. No attempt was made to withdraw it. That Miller had been disciplined was disclosed after the invasion began.

VOTE PAY BOOST TO INFANTRY AND GLIDER TROOPS

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Legislation adding $5 and $10 a month to the pay of fighting infantrymen and boosting the wages of glider units to conform generally with those of parachutists was approved today by the senate military committee.

The committee reported out one measure that would increase by $5 the monthly pay of infantrymen who attain a standard of proficiency in action, and provide a $10 monthly boost as recognition of exemplary conduct in action or satisfactory duty in a "major" operation.

It approved another measure which would add up to 50 per cent to the pay of members of glider units, with the limit increases to $100 a month for officers and $50 for enlisted men.

Sen. Tobey [R., N. H.] said he would seek to liberalize the infantry bill when it reaches the floor.

Wounded Driving Foe from Bridges.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, June 9.—If Brig. Gen. Robert T. Frederick and his special force were not the first allied troops in Rome last Sunday the general would like to know who was ahead of them.

Brig. Gen. R. T. Frederick.

There has not yet been an official announcement as to who was first, but Frederick's men set foot within the city limits at 6:20 a. m., fought off German counter-attacks there during the day, and spent the night in Rome after sharp battles with enemy suicide squads on the bridges across the Tiber.

Frederick told his story for the first time as he rested in his hotel room. He was slightly wounded in the knee and elbow during the shooting at the Tiber bridges and chuckled as he explained that he was absent without leave from the hospital.

"I'm perfectly O.K. and anxious to get back with the men," he said.

Always Get Tough Jobs.

Frederick, who is 37 years old, is slender, dark and mustached. He graduated from West Point in 1928 and lives in Washington, D. C. The general is fiercely proud of the crack American-Canadian unit he commands, and they swear by him and recount his exploits with great glee.

"We've always been given the toughest assignments in this campaign," Frederick told me, "and we want more of the same.

"At 2 a. m. Sunday I was ordered to secure seven bridges across the Tiber on the west side of Rome. I organized two companies of infantry and some tanks. Moving up the Via Casilina, we went across the city limits at 6:20 a. m. Two minutes later my two leading tanks were blown apart by German self-propelled guns.

Face 350 Infantrymen.

"We pulled back outside the city. A reconnaissance disclosed that the Germans had at least four self-propelled guns, five tanks, and 350 infantrymen. We tried to get our tank destroyers around for shots at the enemy armor, but the Heinies' stuff was too well screened.

"So we went farther north along the edge of the city and got in again by another road. We managed to clean up some of the enemy by hitting his rear and flank, stopped his counter-thrusts and sent back information which enabled the other troops on the Via Casilina to crack him and finally finish him up in that sector."

At 9:45 in the evening the general set out in a radio car to look over the bridge situations. He had with him only seven men, including the driver and radio operator.

Capture 12 Germans.

At the Margherita bridge, just west of the Piazza del Popolo and the famous Borghese park, Frederick's little group ran into German squads assigned to hold the span while their comrades were retreating west.

"They opened up on us and it was quite a rifle show in the darkness," Frederick continued. "We killed three of them and captured 12. I got my knee and elbow nicks there. My driver was killed and three of my other men were wounded. Some of the Heinies got away, but I soon had more of my men pursuing them."

The general, disregarding his wounds, went back and got a larger force and, proceeded to the Littorio bridge, north of the Margherita.

"There were a lot of Germans there and it was some scrap," Frederick said. "We killed a good number of them and took some prisoners. Nine of my men were killed or wounded.

Avenges the Italians.

"We didn't have much trouble at the other bridges. Our assignment had been to secure seven, but for good measure we took an eighth."

The general then went to a carabinieri headquarters. The Italians were amazed at seeing these first Americans in their city, but assisted Frederick in setting up his command post in a corridor.

Frederick had advanced far ahead of his communications and had to travel for three hours back to the Via Casilina before he could get to a telephone to notify the corps headquarters of his progress.

"It was about 2:30 in the morning when I got the call thru and nobody was there to answer but the officer on duty," he said. "I asked, 'What does the corps want me to do next?' and he said he guessed I should just sit tight until morning. So we spent our first night in Rome in a police station."

LOSES DIAMOND RING.

Miss Dorothy Lowe, 30, of 6459 S. Rockwell st., an advertising agent, carried her $900 diamond ring in her pocket last night to conceal it from robbers. She reported to police she believed she lost it while walking at 53d st. and Kimbark av.

PREMIER FILLS 17 SEATS IN NEW ITALIAN CABINET

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, June 9.—Rome was experiencing a teapot political crisis today but, except for the principals and a few watchful allied officials, no one seemed much interested. The leaders of Italy's six political parties voted last night to "include Badoglio out" of the new government and today Ivanoe Bonomi, 71, anti-Fascist former premier, filled 17 seats in his government with men who had no Fascist past to live down.

All of Italy's Liberationist parties were represented and Count Carlo Sforza, Benedetto Croce, and Palmiro Togliatti, who were in the Badoglio government, continued in the cabinet without portfolio. Bonomi himself took the foreign and interior ministries.

Little Man Still "Out."

To the man on the street the situation had little real meaning. He has not had a general election for the last 22 years and he knows he is not going to get a chance to vote until the Nazis have been cleared out of Italy.

Before the fall of Rome, Pietro Badoglio served as the head of a temporary cabinet including representatives of all parties south of Rome. At the time it was known that many members such as Count Sforza, the Independent; Croce, the Liberal, and Togliatti, the Communist, had accepted office under Badoglio unwillingly. But the Italian marshal and dean of the nation's military apparently had the tacit approval of the allied control commission.

Talk First With Briton.

With the occupation of Rome, King Victor Emmanuel delegated his powers to his son, Prince Umberto, who became lieutenant general. The Prince asked Badoglio to form a new government to represent Rome as well as the south of Italy. This brought the politicians together and after a conference with Gen. Mason McFarlane, British officer and head of the ACC, they voted to replace Badoglio.

Bonomi, who was designated by the committee, then was named by Umberto to form a cabinet. He is a picturesque figure with white goatee who served as premier of Italy nine months in 1921 and 1922.

Allies Not Satisfied: F. D. R.

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—President Roosevelt reiterated today that the allies will not be completely satisfied with political conditions inside Italy until the people have had an opportunity to choose their own government. At his news conference the President declined to comment for the record on the action of King Victor Emmanuel in turning over his powers to Crown Prince Umberto.

Oh, Yeah?

8TH AIR FORCE LISTS HAVOC OF 3 DAYS IN RAIDS

SUPREME HDQ. ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 9 (AP).—The United States 8th air force today reported that its fighters and fighter-bombers alone in the three days from Tuesday thru yesterday had destroyed or damaged 638 trucks, 599 railroad cars, 122 locomotives, 25 tanks, 54 staff cars and other vehicles, 27 armored vehicles, 22 bridges, and 13 air field hangars.

Ten railyards also were bombed, 54 trains strafed, and 14 oil tank cars, two carloads of ammunition, nine barges, two tugboats, two warehouses, and five radio installations were bombed or shot up.

The 8th's fighters also destroyed 78 enemy aircraft in combat and many on the ground.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, June 9.—In the royal park near Villa Savoia, where King Victor Emmanuel lived, 54 American soldiers who took part in the Italy drive received awards yesterday from British Gen. Harold Alexander and Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark, American 5th army commander.

Alexander presented the British order of companions of the bath to Maj. Gen. Geoffrey F. Keyes, commanding the American 2d corps, and Gen. Alphonse Juin of the French corps.

Among other awards were: The distinguished service cross to Corp. Marvin B. Lindley of Orleans, Ind., and Pvt. Andrew J. Mileham of Lincoln, Ill.; distinguished flying cross to Capt. Jack L. Marinelli of Ottumwa, Ia.; legion of merit to Brig. Gen. Joseph I. Martin of Rockford, Ill., surgeon general of the 5th army; Tech. Sgt. Earl M. Ratzer, 2545 N. Central Park av., Chicago, and Master Sgt. Clarence Neilson of Madison, Wis.

Rescue Troops from Landing Craft Broken in Two by Mine—Tanks Assault Beaches Thru Surf

LEAFLETS FROM 'IKE' CALL UPON FRENCH TO HELP

Day of Liberation Has Dawned, He Says.

SUPREME HDQ., Allied Expeditionary Force, June 9 (AP).—A proclamation by Gen. Eisenhower dropped on enemy held areas in France and posted in areas liberated by the allied forces:

"Citizens of France:

"The day of liberation has dawned. Your comrades in arms are on French soil.

"I am proud to have under my command the gallant forces of France who have so long trained and waited for this day when they can take part in the liberation of their home country.

"United we come to settle on the battlefield the war you have continued heroically thru years of stubborn resistance. We shall destroy the Nazi tyranny root and branch so that the peoples of Europe may have a new birth of freedom.

"As supreme commander of the allied expeditionary force, there is imposed on me the duty and responsibility of taking all measures essential to the prosecution of the war. Prompt obedience to such orders as I may issue is necessary.

Own Civil Rule Pledged.

"All persons must continue in the performance of their present duties unless otherwise instructed. Those who have made common cause with the enemy and so betrayed their country will be removed. It will be for the French people to provide their own civil administration and to safeguard my troops by the effective maintenance of law and order. Members of the French military mission attached to me will furnish assistance to this end.

"The valor and extreme sacrifice of the millions who have fought under the banner of resistance have helped and will continue to help the success of our arms. The presence of the enemy among you has made tragically necessary the aerial bombardment and military and naval operations which have caused you loss and suffering. This you have accepted courageously, in the heroic tradition of France, as part of the inevitable price we all must pay to attain our goal, which is our freedom.

"Every resource will be required for the expulsion of the enemy from your country. Battle may inflict on you further deprivation. You will realize that munitions of war must come first, but every endeavor will be made to bring to you assistance that you need so sorely.

Victory Is "Certain."

"I rely on your assistance in the final crushing of Hitlerite Germany and the reestablishment of the historic French liberties. When victory is won and France is liberated from her oppressors, the French people will be free to choose at the earliest possible moment, under democratic methods and conditions, the government under which they wish to live.

"The enemy will fight with the courage of despair. He will neglect no measure, however ruthless, which he thinks may delay our progress. But our cause is just, our armies are strong. With our valiant Russian allies from the east, we shall march to certain victory."

PATRIOTS HUNT FOR TRAITORS IN FREED BAYEUX

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—Violence already has broken out against collaborationists in liberated Bayeux, where a manhunt was under way for suspected traitors, reports from the invasion battle front said today.

Except for incidents in Bayeux, where enraged French citizens were reported to have marched one collaborationist thru the streets lashing him with whips and sticks, and to have beaten a Vichyite policeman, the French appeared to be carrying on blandly with their everyday affairs.

Lt. Charles Ray, Bement, Ill., saw a French woman chase her three children into the shelter of a hedge when fighter-bombers appeared. "No sooner had she hid them than a bomb shook a house near-by," he said. "They weren't harmed."

Peasants seem so nonchalant as they watch bombs fall that "you wouldn't think they knew there was a war on," Lt. Gabriel Bartholemew, Los Angeles, Cal., a Thunderbolt fighter-bomber pilot, reported.

CHINESE BATTLE JAPS IN OUTER CHANGSHA FORTS

CHUNGKING, China, June 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—Fighting is raging in the outer defenses of Changsha and the Japanese are tightening an arc against this Hunan province city, the Chinese high command said today, while in two other Chinese provinces sudden flare-ups were expected as the enemy massed troops for new thrusts.

F.D.R. MAY MEET GEN. DE GAULLE FOR POLICY TALK

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—The possibility arose today that President Roosevelt and Gen. Charles de Gaulle, who do not see eye to eye on the administration of French affairs, may have a meeting in Washington this summer, presumably to discuss the American government's policy toward De Gaulle's activities.

President Roosevelt said at a press conference that Vice Adm. Raymond Fenard, head of the French naval mission, had visited him to ask if he would be willing to receive De Gaulle, who is leader of the French committee of liberation.

The President said he informed Fenard that he would be happy to see De Gaulle between June 22 to 30 or July 6 to 14. Fenard now is on his way to see De Gaulle in London.

ALLIES HIT JAPS ON 3 FRONTS OF INDIA AND BURMA

SOUTHEAST ASIA HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, June 9 (AP).—Allied forces have punched suddenly forward on all major sectors of the India-Burma front. In the east they seized the northern end of the Myitkyina air field; near Kamaing, occupied several villages and routed enemy troops in disorder, and on the India side pursued Japanese south from Kohima, headquarters announced today.

As Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's Chinese-American forces penetrated the north Burma stronghold, Chinese inside the town fought to new positions from the south and repelled enemy night attacks and two miles north of the city Maj. Gen. W. D. A. Lentaigne's air borne Chindits captured the village of Hola, near Maingana.

Hem in Kamaing.

Chinese troops further hemmed in the enemy base of Kamaing, 40 miles northwest of Myitkyina, driving down the Mogaung valley and closing the gap between an established roadblock west of Lachi Ga, six miles northwest of Kamaing, and Sakan. More than 200 Japanese were killed in the fighting there, and the Chinese seized three 150 mm. guns, two 75 mm. guns, and other equipment.

Near Nanyaseik, 10 miles north of Kamaing, where the enemy was reported withdrawing in disorder, the Chinese also inflicted heavy casualties and seized vehicles and supplies. The village of Chakrao, six miles west of Kamaing, has been occupied.

Find 100 Japs Dead.

Twelve miles southeast of Kamaing other Chinese elements captured the village of Badon and found 100 enemy dead in the sector.

South of Mogaung, 25 miles southeast of Kamaing, allied troops occupied the village of Pinhmi, captured supply dumps, and inflicted severe casualties. The bulletin said Chindit troops now control most of the hill positions east of Mogaung.

In the India fighting Japanese were retreating southward from the Kohima sector on the road to Imphal, and it was not clear where they would make a stand, the bulletin said. Tank supported allied troops reached milestone 60, 14 miles from Kohima, after enemy demolitions had been cleared, and drove the enemy from Kigwema, five miles southeast of Kohima, and Kezoma, seven miles southeast.

Bomb Peiping Railroad.

CHUNGKING, China, June 9 (AP).—Stabbing into North China, fighter planes of Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault's Chinese-American wing yesterday struck the Peiping-Hankow railroad at two points, wrecking locomotives and strafing many freight and passenger cars. A bul-

PENNIES BUILD $500 FUND FOR 'CHICAGO' CREW

Nearly $500 was reported collected yesterday in a drive for a penny apiece from each of the 380,000 Chicago public school pupils to establish a welfare fund for the crew of the new cruiser Chicago. The ship, to be launched this summer, will replace the Chicago which was sunk Jan. 29, 1943, near Guadalcanal. James T. Gaffney, assistant superintendent of schools, said returns from the drive, which ended yesterday, should be complete Monday or Tuesday and that the goal probably will be reached.

Tito's Forces Gain on Island Off Yugoslavia

LONDON, June 9 (AP).—Marshal Tito's partisan forces are gaining in their drive to occupy the German island of Brac, largest and most populous of the Dalmatian Islands off the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia, the free Yugoslav radio today said. The broadcast said the island's fortified town of Sveti Petar was captured with 200 German casualties and much material.

Fire Sweeps Thru Army Warehouse at Fort Myer

Washington, D. C., June 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—The war department said that fire had swept thru the reclamation warehouse at Fort Myer, Va., shortly after 1 o'clock this morning. Virginia residents said the flames could be seen for several miles.

U.S. TO SHELTER 1,000 REFUGEES AT OSWEGO, N.Y.

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Refugees are streaming out of Europe in such numbers that shelter centers will have to be doubled in capacity, President Roosevelt said today in announcing that 1,000 will be brought to this country and housed at Fort Ontario, near Oswego, N. Y.

Located on the shore of Lake Ontario, the fort has 150 buildings providing accommodations for 2,500. It is in charge of Capt. Walter Land.

Mr. Roosevelt told a news conference that 1,800 refugees reached southern Italy last week from Yugoslavia alone. He said havens already established at Casablanca and elsewhere in the Mediterranean area have facilities to care for 20,000 and that these will be expanded and new ones established to make room for 40,000.

The 1,000 to be brought to Fort Ontario, Mr. Roosevelt said, are all that he anticipates will come to this country. It was indicated that bringing them here is intended primarily as a token of this nation's willingness to do its part in meeting the problem.

REDS BEAT BACK ATTACK BY NAZIS IN OLD POLAND

Take Another Height North of Iasi.

LONDON, June 10 [Saturday]—(AP).—A spurt of fighting northwest of Tarnopol, in old Poland, was announced early today in the broadcast supplement to the Russian bulletin.

The announcement came after earlier Moscow dispatches had indicated the Red army was ready to open its expected offensive from the east in coördination with the allied invasion of Europe from the west.

In the Tarnopol sector German infantry broke into a populated place yesterday, but was driven out, Moscow said.

Another Height Taken.

Soviet units also took another height north of Iasi in Romania, wiping out more than a company of the enemy, the supplement stated.

Elsewhere the front remained quiet, altho Moscow said German aerial stabs over the region northeast of Stanislawow increased.

There were new indications of uneasiness in Germany and among the axis Balkan satellites as the Russian drive was awaited.

A Nazi radio commentator, Ernst von Hammer, who on Thusday said that powerful Russian forces had launched an offensive on a wide front north of Iasi in Romania, backed down yesterday, declaring that "yesterday's fighting north of Iasi petered out somewhat."

The German high command's bulletin said the Russians "made several unsuccessful counter-attacks northwest of Iasi" on Thursday and that "local fighting is reported from northwest of Tarnopol," a sector about 200 miles above Iasi.

Nazis Face "Shaking" Blow.

Indications were plain, however, that the Red army offensive was about ready to roll. Eddy Gilmore, Associated Press correspondent, cabled from Moscow that all signs pointed to an early opening of the offensive.

"From three recent trips to the front areas recently," he wrote, "I am able to back up the prediction. There are preparations for an attack which should shake Hitler from Russian soil to Berlin."

British dispatches from Switzerland reported a spreading uneasiness in Romania resulting from the Germans' apparent inability to recoup in the Iasi sector, and reports from axis sources said Premier Antonescu might be forced out of office.

FLYER BEING TRIED ON CHARGE OF RAPE DENIES USING FORCE

Santa Ana, Cal., June 9 (AP).—For six hours Capt. Morrison J. Wilkinson, 28, testified at his court martial today, reciting his life story and winding up with a general denial of nine charges against him, which include rape, attempted rape, lewd and lascivious conduct, bigamy, and larceny.

The former Flying Tiger said that at no time did he use force against the various women who had brought accusations against him.

Regarding the charge of bigamy, Wilkinson said that when he received papers of an interlocutory divorce granted Mrs. Margaret Gonzales Wilkinson, he believed he was divorced. He also denied a charge of larceny, brought as the result of an allegation by Mrs. Wilkinson that he stole a watch belonging to her.

He disclosed that he had obtained the credentials of an uncle from Wisconsin State Teachers' college, La Crosse, Wis., to qualify for air force training.

Why you may not be able to get

RALEIGH

cigarettes today

IN MOST PARTS of the country Raleigh Cigarettes are still available in normal quantities. But, in case a shortage has already reached your community, we want to explain the reason for it.

35% of our capacity is devoted exclusively to producing cigarettes and tobacco for the armed forces of this country and our allies. But we are able to supply them—and normal civilian demand—by working two shifts on a 48-hour-a-week basis.

There are enough Raleighs for any normal demand, but there are not enough to stand hoarding and panic buying. That's why we ask you to be fair to your fellow Raleigh smokers by ordering Raleighs only as you need them. And that's why we ask wholesalers and retailers to keep only normal stocks.

Overstocking and overbuying not only leave the other fellow high and dry—but they keep you from enjoying Raleighs at their best.

Raleighs are outstanding among cigarettes today because they are still made with generous quantities of fully aged 1940 and 1941 Domestic tobaccos. And these are still blended with rich, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from choice pre-war vintages, now irreplaceable.

The release of sufficient quantities of glycerine, the world's best moisture-control ingredient, enables us to use pre-war quantities for lasting freshness. And this freshness is further protected by our exclusive laminated inner wrap.

But no cigarette—not even a Raleigh—can give you its full goodness if stored overlong.

For these reasons—and to guarantee you perfect pre-war smoking—we are obliged to ration the orders for Raleigh Cigarettes.

While this may make it difficult for you to get Raleighs at times, it will assure you that the Raleighs you do get are always top quality. And we think you'll agree that this assurance more than outweighs the inconvenience.

ROWDY NEW DEAL AGENTS IN BRAZIL CAUSE PROTEST

Latin Educator Says They Endanger Amity.

Frederick, Md., June 9 [Special].—Assailing "rowdy and drunken" conduct of members of New Deal agencies representing the United States government in Brazil, Dr. Hernane Tavares de Sa, Brazilian educator, today charged that relations between the United States and Latin American countries have been deteriorating for months.

Dr. Tavares de Sa, who is special adviser to Nelson A. Rockefeller, coordinator of inter-American affairs in Washington, D. C., made his charges before the International Education assembly on Hood college campus.

He warned delegates of 32 allied nations that resentment is being stirred up in South America by "bungling" and "arrogant" United States officials. As a result of what he termed a "shocking" situation, he said he would resign soon from his advisory post.

Three Causes Listed.

The Brazilian representative, professor on leave from the University of Sao Paulo, attributed the "deterioration of inter-American relations" to three main reasons: political, economic, and personal conduct.

He declared New Deal agencies have been "pouring officials by the thousands into Latin American countries with the most disastrous effect." He said the conduct of these officials has worked adversely on the feelings of Brazilians toward the United States.

Dr. Tavares de Sa criticized the New Deal representatives for "unorthodox conduct," saying they spent too much money and became "rowdy and drunk in the best casinos," where higher type Brazilians go. He said there were other cabarets for such conduct.

Called Ignorant of Customs.

The educator said these officials were "not carefully selected" and "know nothing of the background of Brazil and how to act around Brazilians."

He charged that they flaunt their own mannerisms, disparage the people of Brazil, and keep themselves socially segregated from the Brazilians.

News of the deteriorating relations "has been very carefully kept out of the press in this country," the educator asserted. He did not explain what he meant by this.

[The Chicago Tribune recently published a series of 18 articles by Stanley Johnston, dealing with American relations in Latin American countries.]

"Many United States efforts to build good will have backfired, especially propaganda [short wave radio programs], which are addressed to 12 year old morons," Dr. Tavares de Sa declared. "As a matter of fact, shortwave sets are owned only by people of means who rely more on the British Broadcasting company because of its higher standards."

Fear Fate of Bases.

Politically Latin Americans "fear what will be done with Brazilian bases [now being used by the United States] after the war," the educator asserted. He said they were afraid the United States would attempt to retain them. State department officials in Washingon said title to the bases, which are at Belem and Natal, remains with Brazil.

Dr. Tavares de Sa charged that there was "economic disruption" leading to actual hardship in some parts of his country. He said this resulted in part from the industrial and business policies the United States government had pursued with regard to Brazil.

Sen. Butler [R., Neb.], who toured South America last summer and later assailed New Deal "boondoggling" on that continent, said in Washington that he agreed "100 per cent" with the Brazilian educator.

SAYS OPA USED NAZI TACTICS IN GASOLINE CASE

Accusations that the office of price administration used entrapment tactics and German Youth party methods in obtaining evidence against a gasoline station operator were made yesterday at a hearing before John R. Allen, OPA regional hearing commissioner.

The charges were made by Atty. Harry H. Kahn, representing Abe H. Marrettick and his wife, operators of a gas station at 10335 Indianapolis blvd., who are alleged to have sold gas without coupons and at over ceiling prices.

They testified that they bought gas without coupons at the Marrettick station on three different occasions.

In his argument, Atty. Kahn said the evidence, if substantiated, was based on entrapment.

"If competitors who stand to profit are used by the government to obtain evidence," he said, "it is just like in Germany, where children are taught to ferret out stories about their parents and friends, and to report them to the Gestapo."

Marrettick denied the charges and testified that in December, 1942, he arranged for the seizure by the FBI of three gasoline ration coupon counterfeiters, together with two bushels of counterfeit coupons.

ELDERLY WOMAN KILLED IN HOME; KNIFED, BEATEN

Stabbed three times near the heart and beaten on back of the head, Mrs. Edith Margaret Kelsey, 73, was found slain yesterday in her third floor apartment at 4114 Clarendon av. Dr. Thomas A. Carter, a coroner's pathologist, expressed the opinion that she had been murdered, but police investigators were inclined to believe she may have committed suicide.

Her body, lying near her bed and clad in a nightgown, was found by her son-in-law, Herbert Ette, 55, 4046 Clarendon av., a bricklayer. Near the body were a bread knife and a machinist's heavy hammer. The ceiling and walls were splattered with blood.

Ette was questioned at length last night by Capt. Frank B. Reynolds of Town Hall station and Asst. State's Atty. Julius Sherwin, and then released. He was directed, however, to attend an inquest over Mrs. Kelsey today.

Ette said he entered the apartment with a pass key after Mrs. Kelsey failed to answer the doorbell. He said he thought she had committed suicide, and gave police two brief notes, written in pencil, which he said he found in the room.

The notes were addressed to Ette's wife, Cleo. One said that Mrs. Kelsey was under a strain that kept her from sleeping, "so must take this way out." The other said she wanted "a nice funeral."

Ette said his wife sent him across the street to see why her mother did not answer the telephone. The only entrance to Mrs. Kelsey's apartment is in the rear, and Ette said the screen door was locked from the inside. He had to break the catch, he said, to use the key.

Mrs. Mary Krause, whose apartment is on the second floor, told Sherwin she heard a thump in Mrs. Kelsey's room after seeing Ette going up the back stairs.

Mrs. Ette said her mother, a widow, had been ill and nervous.

HENRI CHARPENTIER'S Column

In the Decoration Day parade all of humanity's seeds were represented. Their faces filled with respect for the tradition of their forefathers, Americans, with their mixed origins, marched together applauding the new elan of our valiant boys, who, every day, are following the same tradition to victory. How right Christopher Columbus was when he said, "This is the new world." The U. S. A. was chosen to be the heart of all humanity. To the maxim "United we stand" our boys add "United we win." THE QUESTION.

What is the most unusual or impossible request you have received from a patron? [Asked of beauticians].

WHERE ASKED.

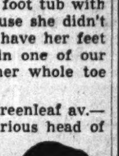
THE ANSWERS.

Bernice Franz, 4436 Drexel blvd.—A patron of mine used to make a most unusual request. She was pretty with glamorous natural blonde hair. She had me bleach her eyebrows and lashes light blonde to match her hair because she wanted to be a complete blonde. It certainly didn't make her more attractive.

Lois Bisom, 720 N. Wabash av.—In a beauty shop where I once worked there was one woman who always made a strange request. When she had a pedicure she brought her own foot tub with her because she didn't want to have her feet washed in one of our tubs. Then she had her whole toe painted red.



Charles Joos, 1625 Greenleaf av.—A woman with a luxurious head of hair said she wanted a two inch haircut. She fell asleep as I was trimming. She awakened when I was thru and let out a terrifying scream. She wanted two inches cut off the bottom instead of a two inch haircut. She insisted I put something on it to make it grow.

Charlotte McKay, 1740 W. Grace st.—The most impossible request I receive is to have some one with short, stubby fingernails ask me to file them long and pointed. One time while painting a lady's fingernails she asked me to paint them in the shape of a heart. It was a unique idea but I think a neat manicure is more becoming.

Ruth Stone, 2107 N. Springfield av.—Once a patron of mine wanted me to give her a facial and make up her face while her hair was drying. She was lying on a facial couch and the drier covered her face completely. She was quite provoked at my inability to do the job at the same time, but it was really impossible.

NEW BLOOD TEST FOR TRICHINOSIS MAY END DISEASE

A simple but revolutionary new blood test which detects the presence of trichinosis in human beings and in hogs, and which may prove the means of eliminating the disease, was demonstrated yesterday at a meeting of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists in the Drake hotel.

The new technique, developed and demonstrated by Dr. Benjamin S. Kline and Miss Hazel Suessenguth, of Cleveland, O., is designed to test all hogs before slaughtering for trichinosis and to detect the disease in human beings.

"There has been a great need for a reliable and practical test for detecting trichinosis in hogs in order to prevent it in man," Dr. Kline said.

REPORT INCOME OF CORCORAN TO BE INVESTIGATED

Records to Be Shown to House Probers.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—With scrutiny of the income tax returns of Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran as one reported objective, the special house committee investigating the federal communications commission today obtained authority to examine treasury records showing the income and excess profits of individuals and corporations.

Corcoran was formerly noted as the "White House Jester." He entertained President Roosevelt with his accordion playing and singing of Irish ditties. He forsook the government's employ several years ago with the announced intention of making a million dollars.

President Roosevelt signed the executive order giving the committee the necessary authority to examine income tax returns, the privacy of which is guaranteed under ordinary conditions. Application for the order was made several weeks ago by Chairman Lea [D., Cal.] of the investigating group.

Minority members of the committee said they did not know the purpose of obtaining the order. It was learned, however, that Corcoran had appeared before a secret session of the committee and protested strongly against questioning the income of a Washington attorney, Charles S. Guthrie, who is said to have been engaged in legal work with Corcoran.

Corcoran's name was brought up in the committee hearings in connection with an inquiry into the sale of New York radio station WMCA. Donald Flamm, the former owner, testified he was coerced into selling his station in 1941 to Edward J. Noble, former undersecretary of commerce to Harry Hopkins.

The entire and absolute freedom of the press is essential to the preservation of government on the basis of a free Constitution. —Daniel Webster.

WHAT ABOUT THEIR COLLABORATION?

Gov. Bricker laid down recently the principle that will condition the American people's acceptance of any scheme of collaboration for preserving world peace after this war. It is that, if we are to collaborate in such schemes, others must collaborate with us. Coöperation cannot be one-sided.

This is a challenge to those who have been shrieking the loudest for permanent American intervention in the affairs of Europe, Asia, and Africa, and for grandiose schemes of world government. What coöperation can they assure us? It is a challenge that none of them has answered and that none of them is likely to answer.

These people tell us Americans that, because we believe in freedom, it is our duty to extend freedom thruout the world, at whatever cost to ourselves. But their crusade for freedom stops with the victims of the Nazi tyranny. Our internationalists are not even much interested in Japanese bestiality. They regard the war in the Pacific as an unfortunate and unwarranted interruption of their plans for Europe, and would ignore it as far as possible.

As exponents of freedom, we are told that it is our duty to rescue Europe from Hitler's brutality, but the collaborationists have nothing to say about the breeches of freedom by the nations we are aiding. They refuse to concern themselves with such frightful evils as the Russian transportation of whole populations to state slavery. They assure us that the festering sore of India and the callous economic exploitation of the colored peoples in the eastern empires of the British, French, and Dutch are internal questions with which we must not concern ourselves.

Their proposals to make Uncle Sam the grand almoner and policeman of the status quo fall down as grievously on the side of practicality as they do on that of morality. If, as they say, it is our moral duty to bestow freedom in one part of the world, it is equally our moral duty to bestow freedom everywhere. And, as a practical matter, if we are to guarantee a status quo, it must be a status quo worthy of being preserved.

American influence, by their account, must preserve the stability of the world. If America is to undertake such a task, the most elementary prudence dictates that the world order we are to preserve be rid of its elements of instability based on oppression. Otherwise the task would be hopeless from the beginning and American sons would be the mercenaries of repression.

This is a dilemma that the internationalists cannot face honestly, because the plea they address to the American people is not an honest plea. They are not interested in freedom as such any more than they are interested in the welfare of the American people. They speak to us, not as fellow Americans but as the agents of other powers. They want us to collaborate, but they refuse to promise collaboration by the nations that hold their real allegiance.

A CHAPTER OF NAVAL HISTORY.

Once again we are indebted to Philip Kinsley of the Tribune staff, whose second volume of "The Chicago Tribune, Its First Hundred Years" is now being prepared for publication.

Mr. Kinsley calls attention to an interesting incident in Tribune history. The American navy was not always, as it is today, the greatest in the world. Today it has not only the most ships but also the best ships, the best guns, the best armor, and the best fighting aids in the world. THE TRIBUNE started demanding that kind of superiority for our navy as far back as 1880, when our fleet consisted of what was left over from the Civil war.

"Practically," said a Tribune editorial of March 29, 1880, "America has no navy. A few slow, vulnerable cruisers; a few unseaworthy monitors which every shot from the Devastation or Inflexible [British] would convert into coffins; navy yards incumbered with half finished vessels rotting away under their houses—like the Colossus, Java, and New York at Brooklyn—and guns which any inimical third class power would laugh at—that is about our actual naval condition. . . . No better time than the present could be found for beginning to establish a navy. . . ."

A few days before, on March 12, 1880, THE TRIBUNE had occasion to treat the subject in another editorial:

"The effective way to maintain the Monroe Doctrine is not by executive messages and pronunciamentos nor congressional resolutions but by placing the American navy in a condition that will command the respect of foreign powers who desire to violate the Monroe Doctrine and assure the defense of American rights whenever they shall be attacked or threatened. . . .

"The way to restore the American navy to an effective condition is plain enough. . . . The present ships of the American navy are too slow to escape pursuit and not fast enough to overtake an enemy, like the mangy cur that could not catch the fox nor get away from the wolf. They are, with rare exceptions, of the old style of ship that would go down at the first shot from one of the new fashioned rifled guns, and at the same time carry a kind of armament that would not make a dent in the lightest of the improved ironclads of other nations. Let all the useless rubbish of the navy yards be sold off, and only the few ships retained in active service which could be made useful in time of need . . . begin at once the work of building new ships of war and converting the old smooth-bore guns into rifled cannon. The best talent of Europe as well as this country should be brought into the service, and the policy should be that the American navy, no matter how small, should compare in quality and be able to cope in efficiency with a similar establishment belonging to any other power. . . ."

It is interesting to note that the remarks of THE TRIBUNE of 1880 antedated by at least five years the construction of the first units of the White squadron, which was the beginning of the White fleet that sailed victoriously under Adm. Dewey into Manila bay. The administration also adopted THE TRIBUNE'S suggestion and began writing off the obsolete ships of the American navy.

We have reason to believe, until evidence to the contrary is offered, that THE TRIBUNE was the first American newspaper of general circulation to urge a speedy, heavily gunned, modern navy "able to cope in efficiency" with the fleet of any other nation.

THE NEW WAR SHOW.

The doors open at 11:30 a. m. today on THE TRIBUNE'S fourth big war show, presented in cooperation with the United States treasury and the leading manufacturers of war materials thruout this area. From 10 a. m. to 10 p. m., for the next 30 days, THE TRIBUNE will offer to the public a view of the excellent weapons, ammunition, fighting machines, and supplies our troops are using on battle fronts thruout the world, and the story, where it is possible to tell it, of how this equipment is constructed and the work that goes into it.

The show is known as the War Products Exhibit because the materials displayed are loaned directly by the manufacturers who produce them. The exhibits have been selected carefully from adequate stocks, so that there will be no interference with the supply of weapons and materials to the men at the fronts. Here the people of Chicagoland can learn what the dollars they are investing in war bonds buy. The exhibit coincides with the treasury department's 5th war loan drive and war bonds and stamps may be purchased on the exhibit grounds, in Tribune Tower, and the area adjoining to the south. Any one who inspects the intricate and marvelously perfect guns, engines, vehicles, and supplies on display there soon will understand why no citizen is ever oversubscribed on war bonds.

THE TRIBUNE presented three extremely successful war shows during 1943, which were attended by more than 1,300,000 people. The 1944 show is something different, because, for the first time, it gives some idea of what private enterprise in Chicagoland—labor, industry, and their coöperative effort—has produced. It should be a patriotic inspiration to all of us who are fighting for the triumph of the American way of life.

A VOICE FROM ILLINOIS.

Two weeks from next Monday the Republican national convention will be called to order at the Stadium. The arrangements must by now be nearing completion, but as yet there has been no intimation that the convention is to hear an address from any spokesman for Illinois, except a few words of welcome from the governor.

Surely the Republican convention does not intend to affront its host. The people of Illinois believe, and can prove, that it was in this state that the Republican renaissance began. The Republicans of Illinois never lost heart and never gave up the fight. They persisted in the battle for their principles in the face of the heaviest of odds. They feel, and they are entitled to feel, that their contribution to the party merits recognition.

Speeches will be made at the convention by Mr. Warren of California, Mr. Martin of Massachusetts, Mr. Hoover of California and New York, and Mrs. Luce of Connecticut, but the whole central area of the country and Illinois in particular have apparently been overlooked. It is an oversight that should be corrected lest people to whom the party is infinitely indebted come to feel that their contribution to its present strength has not been appreciated.

Illinois gave Lincoln to the Republican party. He was nominated by a convention which met here in Chicago. His spirit helped hold the Republican party steadfast in Illinois thru the dark years of adversity. It is fitting that the convention hear the message that a son of Illinois can bring to it in the very city where a Republican convention gave him to the nation.

VOLUME FOUR.

[Hastings, Neb., Tribune.]

Comes now a volume which we probably have no reason for mentioning except to illustrate that there obviously isn't much of a man power and paper shortage if information of this kind can be laboriously compiled and if paper badly needed elsewhere can be used in its printing.

The work is Volume Four of a series called "Family Living as the Basis for Dwelling Design." The title of this particular epic is "Family Behavior, Attitudes, and Possessions." It purports to be a design for building post-war houses around prospective dwellers' habits, which are taken apart and examined with a finesse of which the following findings are typical:

"Twelve women have a triple mirror, of whom six use it for combing hair, three for dressing, and three make no use of it at all." This fullsome information is followed by Table 40, which is endowed "Per Cent of People Putting on Clothes While Seated."

Next comes the report that "all husbands shave standing in the bathroom. . . . Three women read, three smoked, and 15 reported they sang in the bathtub."

On the analytical side, the survey discloses that "altho the nightgown is most popular in both winter and summer, there is a shift to pajamas in winter, which means they must be warmer."

MR. PEPYS AS STRATEGIST.

10th June—Woke up the other morning at noon to find that the invasion had started and was going great guns, just after I had figured out a fancy piece of strategy by which it wouldn't happen at all. Remembered seeing a chess master playing tyros for amusement, and calling his shots, and in one game he said he would give mate with his queen without moving that piece from its starting position. Thought maybe something like that might be arranged by the supreme high command, but apparently it's too tricky.

Yet it could be done. For example, all those soldiers and ships massed in England, as if ready to invade, would keep the Goths and Vandals pinned down in their pillboxes along the coast, and our armies in Italy could creep up and nail them while they were looking the other way. This would be the strategy of the immovable queen, but I fear it has never worked since the times of the late Hannibal.

Must say, however, that this business of peninsula-pinching had occurred to me before Gen. Eisenhower showed his hand, and I had studied the maps and picked out several good places for pinching along that coast. My favorite peninsula for pinching, however, is Denmark, which has a thin flat neck where the job would be easy. Then on to the Kiel canal, and so to Berlin before Rundstedt and Rommel could call their tanks back home.

Dined with M'Tavish, the Scottish bard, at the University club, and saw many Latin mottoes of seats of learning on the walls, and hoped that the University of Chicago wouldn't try to change them into Basic English. It is always a great encouragement to scholarship to look at Latin mottoes on walls and wonder what they mean.

THE LITTLE SHRINES.

The little shrines are green again
Along each town and city street—
O, breathe a prayer, all you that pass!
O, friend, step softly in this place!
This grass is wet with more than rain,
These blooms are hued with brave heart's-blood,
These are not names but living flames
Of ardent souls that grew and stood
Once in this very neighborhood—
And passed.

O, stalwart sons of decent people,
Whose swift, stern requiems shall sound
Far from the little kirks of home,
Within some tow'ring tall cloud steeple,
'Mid earth's travail or wild sea foam—
You are not lost to life or laughter
Who held love leal till death and after.
Sleep, beloved, in God's rest—

Calling All Cookbook Editors.

Linemaster: If, as I assume, you cannot be happy without Eggs à la Commodore, you have scarcely a decade to lose. Sauté some circular slices of bread in a buttered skillet, browning lightly on both sides, spread them with pâté de foie gras, and pour hotly over the whole a q. s. of Brown Sauce Espagnole.

To prepare this sauce, you take some butter, a slice of carrot, a slice of onion, a fragment of bay leaf, one sprig of thyme, six sprigs of parsley, and six peppercorns. These are to be cooked gently [in the butter] until browned, after which you add some salt, pepper, a tablespoon of flour and a cup of Brown Stock No. 1, and cook some more. When it boils strain it.

The Brown Stock No. 1 can be made by soaking six pounds of beef [cut up into small pieces] for half an hour in cold water, then bringing it to a boil and permitting it to simmer for six hours; after which add six cloves, half a bay leaf, one dozen peppercorns, some parsley, marjoram, and a half cup each of diced carrots, turnips, onions, and celery, and cook 90 minutes more.

Since by this time your poached eggs and sautéed bread are probably cold, it will no doubt occur to you to begin again, making the Brown Stock No. 1 first, the Sauce Espagnole second, and the poached eggs last. [The pâté de foie gras will be available, no doubt, after the war.]

I have never eaten Eggs à la Commodore. They cannot have been named in my honor, for I found the recipe in an ancient cookbook published at a time when I was still an admiral. [I was demoted at the time of the war with Spain because I publicly stated that Dewey would blow the Spanish fleet out of the sea. This was called giving information to the enemy.]

EMOTIONAL UPSETS DISTURB THE COLON.

MENTION has been made from time to time of the close connection between misbehavior of the large bowel and upset emotions. In fact, there is a growing belief that psychic disturbances have as much to do with colitis as bacteria and irritating edibles.

Inasmuch as no specific cause for this malady may be identified, we may well look to the nervous system—if not for the "starter," at least for the factors which enable it to persist. All too often, despite every effort that the physician can make, the disorder will prove stubbornly resistant. It may settle down into a chronic condition and the victim will be obliged to go thru life with alternating intervals of improvement and invalidism.

If the hunt is intensive enough, certain characteristics may be observed. In other words, many of these patients will typify the "stewing" type, those who fuss over everything, who worry and bemoan their lot. This has led to the suggestion that emphasis may well be placed upon the restoration of an even temperament, by means of ironing out discontent and frustrations.

When this plan of treatment is successful in solving personal problems, more cures resulted than with the most expert attention to the state of the intestine. In one series of 25 cases reported from a New York hospital, all exhibited striking unhappiness from numerous causes, including disappointment in love, hypercritical or unsympathetic mates, trouble with domineering relatives, fear of pregnancy, etc.

In two subjects the onset came shortly after the announcement of betrothal. The young women in question did not want to marry the partners chosen, but appeared to be forced into a promise under circumstances which apparently they were not able to control. In consequence, the colon was obliged to bear the brunt of an inward rebellion. Relief did not come until the engagements were broken.

One of the sufferers left for a distant part of the country, where new friends and associations neutralized her previous depression. The other made an excellent recovery in a hospital amid pleasant surroundings, friendly nurses, and an understanding medical adviser. Within three weeks after her discharge she experienced a relapse, with 15 to 20 stools daily mixed with generous quantities of blood. It appeared that her fiancé had become insistent that marriage should take place immediately.

She was returned to the hospital, where convalescence proceeded rapidly. This was ascribed to the fact that she had given up the impetuous young man. A year or two later, free from symptoms, she married the man of her choice and has remained well.

We cannot forget the routine precautions which must be observed—namely, a nonroughage diet with a high vitamin content. In addition, bismuth, kaolin, and belladonna form the bulwarks of sound medical management. This is important because all cases cannot be blamed wholly on disordered sensibilities. Many of these individuals will improve speedily, however, if the nerves can be soothed. Thus sedatives play a role and one of my early colleagues—a wise old country doctor—prescribed sodium bromide for all of his nervous diarrheas. The best part of it was that most of his patients got well.

NOT EVEN.

T. P. writes: My right shoulder seems lower than the left. Could the fact that I always sleep on the right side be responsible?

REPLY.

No. Posture during sleep has little influence. The condition is due to overuse. Most people who are right handed exhibit this type of imbalance. Modistes and tailors recognize the situation and garments are constructed to conceal it.

PUFFY ANKLES.

M. P. writes: What is the cause of swollen ankles in warm weather?

REPLY.

Poor elimination or circulation. If the condition persists, check the heart and the kidneys. Perhaps you use too many alkaline foods. The diet should be balanced. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on balanced diet.

PROMOTES DIGESTION.

M. M. writes: My doctor tells me that I have leaking bile. Is this dangerous?

REPLY.

So have we all. Bile leaks out of the exit ducts of the liver and mixes, in the intestine, with the food we eat. It is a most important aid to digestion.

ROUGH VOCAL CORDS.

T. E. S. writes: Whenever I travel to a mountainous region, my voice becomes hoarse. Why?

REPLY.

Swelling [congestion within the larynx] from some unknown cause. Probably an infection.

HELPFUL.

F. D. writes: Are fresh air and sunshine beneficial in anemia?

REPLY.

Yes, as resistance builders. They may not remedy the basic defect, however. Perhaps you need iron.

Who Goes There?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A little item in the invasion news reported that naval officers going out to their ships at southern English ports to embark for the invasion gave the sentries a mystic countersign. It was as beautifully and incredibly American as the names given American planes and tanks, for it was Mickey Mouse. It was probably the silliest and most effective password in military history, far too fantastic for the humorless Teutonic mind to grasp, far too simple for lurking spies. Who, except the Americans, would use, on the threshold of such a mighty undertaking, the name of an animated mouse who talked like a gargle?

You can't help wondering what Hannibal used so long ago. Or Julius Caesar and Alexander and Napoleon and Wellington. Ali Baba used "open sesame," but he, being merely a legendary thief, can't be counted. The army war college library, which ordinarily has all things of military history at its index finger, could come up with only two. After the battle of Saratoga in 1777, Washington's southern army was hailed with "Saratoga." If the interrogated one were a friend, a revolutionary, his reply was "Gates" for Horatio Gates, the American general.

The war college's other contribution was the statement that in the Pacific area American forces now use as countersigns words containing the letter "l" because the Japanese pronounce "l" as "r."

Sometimes no spoken word is given at all. During the Revolutionary battle of Stony Point, a rocky eminence over the Hudson held by the British, the men of Gen. Anthony Wayne scaled the cliff at night with strips of white paper stuck in their caps. The marines use this means of identification today on bivouac. Men marching in columns at night, thru intense darkness, have white handkerchiefs stuck in the back of their packs.

The first chronicled countersign, however, goes back to the period of the Judges in biblical history when two Israelite tribes, the tribe of Ephraim and the tribe of Manasseh, were warring. The tribe of Ephraim, then in Trans-Jordania, wished to go back to Palestine, held by the men of Manasseh under the leader, Jephthah. Consequently, they disguised themselves as Jephthah's men and, stealthily and by night, began to cross the River Jordan. But the army on the opposite bank became suspicious. Were these friend or foe?

At last the leader hit on a way to test them. The Ephraimites had a labial handicap. They could not pronounce the letters "sh" as "shhhhh." They called it "ssss." So the countersign given them, which they were to repeat, was the word "shibboleth," meaning an ear of corn.

So the Ephraimites, mighty in their strength and their cunning, began to cross the River Jordan, ancient even then, and as each man reached the opposite bank the word "shibboleth" was hissed at him. Back came his own hiss betokening his doom: "Sasssiboleth." And so fell, one by one, a mighty army of 42,000 men.

And this was in the year 1100 B. C., 120 years after the exodus from Egypt, and for 3,044 years, few of which have been without a war, the shibboleth, or countersign, has been a necessary adjunct of all wars of man.

Obedience.

Back in the days when the late George V. of England was a young prince and a lieutenant of marines, he was aboard a ship drilling a company of British marines noted for their discipline. At his crisp command they marched astern, headed directly for the water. As they approached nearer and nearer the water the young prince, aghast, was stricken dumb. His mouth fell open as they marched determinedly toward the water's edge. At this critical point a captain of marines yelled from an above deck: "My God, sir, won't you even wave good-by to them?"

FROM CAEN TO CAN.

Chicago, June 7.—Having had my ear glued to the radio on the great D-day, I was struck by the fact that there is no fear of losing our individuality and independence, at least among radio announcers in the pronunciation of place names. It did not disturb me personally. In fact, by the end of the day, it had become a most fascinating wonder.

Take the word "Caen," for instance. I was impressed by the extent of the invasion, when from the pronunciation on the first broadcast I heard, I gathered that the city in question was Cannes, and that we were striking from the south, as well as from the north of France, and I promptly gave that information with great authority to a friend of mine who called to see whether I was listening to the invasion news.

I was straightened out on that particular score when the dean of radio analysts came on the air and pronounced it "Kahn," and mentioned its geographical position on the Norman peninsula. Imagine my surprise, however, to hear his later pronunciation of "Keen." I decided that between the two broadcasts, disgusted with all the Kahn, Cans, and Canes, he had gone into a huddle with himself and had said, "Here, I'm going to Anglicize that diphthong properly," and boldly came forth with "Keen." If we had thought at all, we should have known, immediately just what he was doing, and that what he meant was "Caen." One announcer, who otherwise did pretty well, just said plain "Can" and let it go at that.

Shortly thereafter, an eminent BBC broadcaster gave an interesting historical sketch on the city in question and pronounced its name correctly, according to what I remembered of my French phonetics, but he took the precaution to spell it C-a-e-n, at the very start. "Good," I thought, "that's sensible. Most of us can at least spell, and by nightfall, should all be pronouncing it like a Frenchman." Since we have all been able to buy really first class maps on the newsstands, no one should have difficulty in locating any spelled-out city. By the end of the day, the pronunciation Kahn was pretty generally used.

Boulogne was recognizable as "Boolone" and even "Bologny," and the Seine stayed "Sane" thruout. "Cheerburg" was safe too. But I just couldn't help wondering, since words are definitely part of radio communication, why those little syllables on the invasion route hadn't been corralled into some system of uniformity by whoever does those things. After all, the press is doing a pretty consistent job with Romania. J. M.

GASOLINE FOR ALCOHOL.

Dubuque, Ia., June 1.—I see where the liquor barons who control our whisky supply, have some friends in Washington who are going to bat for them with a proposal that we ship 25 million gallons of gasoline to Cuba in exchange for alcohol so they can make more whisky.

With the great demand for gasoline for our army right now and with millions of business men and traveling salesmen struggling along on insufficient gas rations and on smooth tires, trying to save their business and make a living, this gasoline exchange idea is certainly a bright one. It's New Deal "sop for sots." H. J. M.

THE MAN WHO WOULDN'T STRIKE.

Chicago, June 8.—Congratulations to Sam Spinuzza on his refusal to strike, especially on D-day. This great country of ours needs more Sam Spinuzzas. What's the matter with these strikers? Are they so greedy, so selfish, that they are willing to sacrifice the lives of their sons, husbands, and fathers for a few more dollars to fill their pockets? Are we becoming completely mercenary? Our boys need the tools and weapons, the blood plasma and life saving serums that are being manufactured in the war plants all over this nation. Do you strikers care more for a few dollars than you do about your men in service? Your answer will be in your actions.

ARMY AIR FORCE WIFE.

THE CHAMPION OPTIMIST.

Chicago, Ill., June 5.—No act or word of Mr. Roosevelt's during the last four years can be fairly construed to mean that he has ever had any desire or intention of running for a fourth term. Furthermore, there is no reason why he should commit himself on this point. So, regardless of the course of the war, I predict:

1. Mr. Roosevelt will not run again and will decline the Democratic nomination if it is offered to him.
2. Mr. Wallace will be the Democratic nominee.
3. Mr. Dewey will be our next president. R. W. ROGERS.

WHAT DOES HE MEAN "LOWLY"?

Waukegan, Ill., June 7.—While listening to the invasion news yesterday, I heard one commentator say: "Before going into battle, Eisenhower talked to even the lowliest soldier." Since when is any soldier "lowly," whether he be a four star general or a buck private?

OLIVE HAISLEY.

"FARMER IN THE DELL?"

Grand Junction, Mich., June 5.—A letter about no song for the infantry reminds me that there is no song for the farmer. We farmers put in 16, even 18 hours a day and that means no holidays or Sundays off.

SUPPORT FOR A MOTHER.

Chicago, June 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have supported my mother for many years, but the expenses are so heavy I do not have a cent for myself. I have a brother who contributes nothing. Is there any legal way that I can force my brother to contribute regularly toward the partial support of our mother? T. W.

Application should be made to the court service division of the bureau of public welfare, room 930, Burnham building, 160 N. La Salle st., Chicago.

Sections 1 and 2 of chapter 107 of the Illinois Revised statutes provide that poor persons who are unable to earn a livelihood in consequence of bodily infirmity or other unavoidable cause shall be supported by the following relatives, in the order named, if of sufficient ability: [1] children; [2] parents; [3] brothers and sisters; [4] grandchildren; [5] grandparents. Married women are not required to contribute unless they have separate property.

UNION ASSERTS IT HAS RIGHT TO KILL CONTRACTS

Musicians Vote Stand at Convention.

Broad powers to cancel contracts with employers against whom it strikes were assumed yesterday by the American Federation of Musicians in a resolution adopted by delegates to its 48th convention, meeting in the Stevens hotel. In another resolution the delegates reaffirmed the union's constitutional provisions denying membership to Communists, Fascists, and Nazis.

The contract resolution provides a setup hitherto unheard of in union laws. It establishes, in effect, that when the musicians' union calls a strike or puts a "ban" on an employer, the musicians involved can drop their contract and go to work for any other employer.

Petrillo Backs Resolution.

James C. Petrillo, president of the AFM, told the 716 delegates that the resolution was framed at his request by Joseph Padway, attorney for the international union and the American Federation of Labor. He said he had in mind his recent dispute with Decca, Columbia records, and R. C. A. Victor, in which the union had demanded that the companies pay a set rate on each record for a union unemployment fund.

Decca met the demands while the other companies still are under a "ban." Musicians under contract to Columbia and RCA, who would like to play for Decca or other employers, are prohibited from doing so by their contracts, Petrillo said. The new resolution, providing for contract termination by strike or ban, will not be retroactive.

Declares Against Communists.

Reaffirmation of the union's stand against Communists in its membership developed after an attempt made Thursday by Antonio Lombardo of local 450, New Rochelle, N. Y., a candidate on the Communist party ticket in a recent election, to have the federation indorse President Roosevelt for a fourth term. The resolution was promptly rejected.

Yesterday a representative of a Negro local told of the efforts of Communists to make inroads on members of his local.

"The Communists should be kicked out bodily," he said. "Communism is the most immoral movement that ever crept into labor unions." His resolution, restating the union's constitutional stand on communism and other foreign "isms," was approved unanimously after Lombardo had pleaded for removal of the constitutional provision.

Petrillo disclosed that he has ordered Lombardo to appear tonight before the union executive board for questioning.

DENY FERTILIZER MAKER GOT GOOD ARMY FOOTWEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Denials that army shoes being sold for conversion into fertilizer are in wearable condition were made today by the war department and the Smith-Rowland company of Granite City, Ill., fertilizer maker, which bought some of the shoes.

Rep. Calvin Johnson [R., Ill.] charged in the house last week that repaired shoes with "brand new half soles and heels" had been sold for scrap to the Smith-Rowland company.

C. E. Gettinger, vice president of the company, said in a statement that the shoes bought by the company "were good for nothing except scrap."

VOTE IN SENATE FOR CURB ON OPA DICTATORSHIP

has been deliberately exaggerated as a justification for arbitrary power. Reasonable and very gradual increases do not seem to me a very serious threat.

"Inspired by the freeze idea [for which Taft said there is no legal authority] Mr. Vinson has refused to make any increase in the price of cheap goods, but has called upon the WPB to order mills to make these goods at cost or less."

Hostility Toward Business.

"From my own investigations and correspondence, I have found an attitude among many employes of OPA of direct hostility to business men. Many seem to feel that a business man who asks a price increase to continue in business is simply unpatriotic."

Recalling the administration's effort to defeat the Bankhead amendment, Taft said of Vinson and his objections:

"He and Mr. Bowles have referred to lobbyists and pressure groups and tried to give the public the impression that congress is swayed by improper motives. The interested groups who testified against price control were sincere. They thought they would be put out of business.

Extends OPA to 1946.

The bill extends the price control program and the life of OPA to Dec. 31, 1945.

The Bankhead amendment, by Sen. Bankhead [D., Ala.] would gear the price of articles manufactured from cotton goods to the price of raw cotton. This, Bankhead says, will tend to keep cotton at the parity price. Critics say the plan will mean a windfall for cotton goods manufacturers, and the OPA says it will add 300 million dollars a year to consumers' costs. Advocates say it will not cost consumers a dime.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

June 9, 1944.

EVERY modern farm uses a great variety of power machinery, from lawn mowers to giant combines, but the men on the Wheaton farm were saying the other day that one of the hardest to replace would be the gasoline powered rotary tiller which is used almost daily in the vegetable and flower gardens.

The largest single vegetable plot on the farm covers over 30,000 square feet and there is an adjacent plot of 12,000 square feet, in addition to the smaller gardens alongside all the farm residences. The job of cultivating such large plots would be almost impossible with hand tools, but it is a simple procedure with the six horse power rotary tiller.

Swiss Model the First.

The machine, originally made in Switzerland, now is manufactured in Troy, N. Y. In 1939 the Wheaton farm bought one of the original Swiss models and this now has been replaced with an American made machine. The principle of the tiller is that of steel teeth mounted on a metal drum. The teeth can be adjusted to turn over from one inch to nine inches of soil. When adjusted for deep operation the tiller serves as a combination plow, disc, and harrow, since it pulverizes the soil and creates a seedbed. Adjusted for shallow operation, it serves as a cultivating machine to eliminate weeds between garden rows.

The rows of the large farm gardens are planted to permit the passage of the tiller between the rows, thus saving hundreds of man hours each season.

Popular for Gardens.

War gardeners in the Chicago area now are acquainted with the rotary tillers, since they are used in almost all suburbs for "plowing" large garden plots. The machines are being manufactured on a war quota basis now, just as is most farm machinery, and the manufacturers are unable to fill completely the demand.

The price of a rotary tiller is approximately $500, but it is probable that the figure will be lower after the war when the machines will be manufactured in greater quantity. The trend toward small one man farms of three to 50 acres will increase the demand for the rotary tillers and the attachments, which include a field mower, furrower, snow plow, trailer, and roller.

★ The GARDEN ★

ONE of the less common vegetables which deserves more attention is okra. Seeds of this crop were planted in the sample gardens of the Wheaton farm the middle of this week. Tall Perkins variety was planted in the farm gardens, and other good types are Dwarf Prolific and Clemson Spineless.

Four to six seeds are planted in each row foot, and when the plants are six inches tall they should be thinned to stand 12 to 18 inches apart in the row. Seeds should be planted one inch deep. Rows should be three feet apart, since the plants are tall and somewhat spreading. Six to eight plants should be sufficient for the family which uses okra only in soups, twice that number if the pods are to be fried.

In maintaining production of okra, it is important that the pods be harvested regularly and before they reach full maturity. If the pods are picked when they are half to three-fourths mature, the plants will continue producing until frost time.

MRS. RUTH SIMMS FAVORS WARREN ON G. O. P. TICKET

Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, one of the original Dewey backers in 1940, said yesterday in answer to a question that she favors Gov. Earl Warren, of California for vice president. She declared that the west generally favors a Dewey-Warren combination.

Mrs. Ruth Simms.

Mrs. Simms emphasized that she does not know whom Dewey prefers for second place on the ticket. Western manager for Dewey in 1940, she will not open headquarters here because the New York governor has no organization, she said.

"I am vitally interested in the Republican platform," Mrs. Simms said. "For that reason I preferred a place on the resolutions committee to any other position on the delegation from New Mexico."

Daughter of the late Mark Hanna, G. O. P. leader, Mrs. Simms attended her first Republican convention in 1896 and has not missed one since. While in Illinois she will visit her Rockford newspapers.

No trick to getting breakfast when Wheaties are on board. Just shake those big whole wheat flakes into bowls. Add milk and fruit. Presto! You're ready to eat. And you'll keep right at it — when Wheaties "second helping" flavor gets to work on your appetite.

THEY COUNT SHEEP day and night

Keeping track of Utah's sheep is a day and night job. They number into the millions. Two very vital wartime products—meat and wool—are provided by Utah's sheep and lambs.

Utah also produces vast quantities of grain, fruits, sugar beets and other vegetables. Its rich mineral deposits contribute greatly to the war effort. Since 1869, Utah has relied on Union Pacific to transport its products over "the strategic middle route" uniting Utah with the East and the Pacific Coast.

The steel rails have formed an everlasting bond of commerce and friendship between Utah and Union Pacific. This bond has been strengthened by a common cause; the determination to speed victory... and never to relinquish the fundamental right of every American to achieve security through hard work and individual enterprise.

★ Utah is one of the 11 western states served by the Union Pacific Railroad. Subsequent advertisements of this series will feature other states.

BIG CONVENTION SUITE OF FARLEY STARTS GUESSES

Kelly Answers Questions Put to Hannegan.

BY THOMAS MORROW.

The resignation of James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, as state head of the party in New York cast a tinge of gloom among organization Democrats in Chicago yesterday. Speculation concerning Farley's part in the coming national convention was heightened when it was learned he had reserved, thru channels other than the Democratic national committee, 12 rooms of convention space in the Blackstone hotel.

Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis, Mo., head of the national committee, said that he had not heard reports that Farley plans to organize an anti-Roosevelt group or allow his own name to be offered as a candidate.

Kelly Answers for Hannegan.

Those answers were about all Hannegan could squeeze in during a press conference in the office of Mayor Kelly. Before the conference he talked with Mayor Kelly, Ald. Kells [28th], state central committee chairman, and Bruce Campbell, downstate Democratic manager.

"Had you heard stories circulating here that Farley received an ultimatum to support Roosevelt or resign?" Hannegan was asked.

As Hannegan opened his mouth to answer, Mayor Kelly cut in.

"I think Farley should be taken at his word," the mayor said. "As I remember it, that word was that he didn't have time for both business and politics."

"Who is your selection as keynoter for the convention?" Hannegan was asked.

"Mr. Hannegan isn't choosing any one," said the mayor, again halting Hannegan. "That will be talked about when all the ideas are in."

Doesn't Know About South.

"What was the conference about?" a reporter asked Hannegan.

"Just gassing and washing a lot of dirty linen," the mayor answered.

On the next question Hannegan managed to say he hadn't heard much about the revolt among the southern Democrats. He said he'd been in the west.

On the west coast, Hannegan said, people are concerned about post-war economic problems. One of these problems, he said, is that of persons who have come from other states to take war jobs.

Hannegan added that he didn't have any idea who would be Farley's successor, that he didn't plan official headquarters until a week before the convention.

SEES NEW DEAL TREND TO DIVINE RIGHT OF KINGS

New Deal philosophy "leads ultimately to the philosophy of the divine right of kings," Edward J. Jeffries, nonpartisan mayor of Detroit, asserted in an address before the Executives club in Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Mayor Jeffries.

He disposed of the argument that a fourth term President should be elected to give continuity in the direction of the war by saying "the war is run by the general staff." As for continuity of foreign relations, Jeffries asserted that they are the people's foreign relations, not the President's.

Big Problems for Cities.

Jeffries said that whether the problems confronting large cities are to be solved "in accordance with democratic principles hinges largely upon the outcome of the Presidential election."

The Detroit chief executive gave an indictment of the New Deal which charged it had:

Broken the spirit of the American people.

Constitutional System Impaired.

Reestablished a feudal system with workers chained to jobs.

Placed in power a new brand of industrial baron—men who control the shop committee—who turn on or off the labor supply and try to perpetuate themselves in control.

RULING BY BIDDLE ON CIO POLITICAL ACTS DEMANDED

Senator Cites Legal Bars to Union Activity.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—Sen. Moore [R., Okla.] today demanded a definite statement from Atty. Gen. Biddle on whether financial contributions from CIO unions to the CIO political action committee violate the federal corrupt practices act and the Hatch act.

In a letter to Biddle, read to the senate today by Moore, the senator reminded Biddle that the attorney general had announced two months ago that a justice department investigation had revealed no violations of federal law by the CIO political action committee.

Moore then listed 10 instances of political activity and fund raising by CIO unions, the political action committee, and the American Communist Political association, which have been reported since Biddle made his previous statement on the CIO.

Outlines Provisions.

Provisions of the corrupt practices and Hatch acts, forbidding political contributions by labor organizations and limiting campaign contributions by individuals and associations to not more than $5,000, were outlined by Moore, followed by a request to Biddle to determine whether they applied to the organizations whose activities he had reported.

Senate observers agreed today that Moore's letter put Biddle on a spot and that the attorney general would have to give a yes or no answer. If his answer is in the affirmative, Biddle would have to prosecute, one senator said. If he continued to deny the CIO was engaged in political activity, it would be an obvious whitewash, one senator said.

The reported political activities listed in Moore's letter included:

1. A statement by CIO President Philip Murray that, in his official capacity, he indorsed and would work for continuation of the New Deal.

Statement by Hillman.

2. A statement by Sidney Hillman, chairman of the CIO political action committee, that he officially supported the New Deal administration.

3. Adoption by the CIO political action committee of a resolution, in Chicago, May 16, calling on President Roosevelt to seek a 4th term.

4. Report by a congressional investigating committee that Hillman had stated that 2 million dollars will be collected from labor organizations for the activities of the CIO political action committee.

5. Report by a radio news commentator that he had been advised by a CIO official that, under the interpretation of the attorney general, it is necessary to make a specific cash contribution to an individual candidate or political party in order to violate the federal law and that other activity is not a violation.

Full Strength Mobilized.

6. A statement by the CIO political action committee, meeting in Chicago May 19, that the full strength of the CIO has been mobilized behind President Roosevelt.

7. The dissolution of the Communist party and the formation of the American Communist Political association, nonpartisan in character but for avowed political purposes.

8. Action by the American Communist Political association pledging its support to the continuation in office of the present administration.

9. A financial report by the CIO political action committee that it has received $669,764 from CIO unions and expended $189,112 up to May 31 in various political activities.

10. Contributions by the International Ladies Garment Workers' union of $243,369 to the American Labor party.

BRICKER WARNS OF NEW DEALERS' INSURANCE GRAB

Sees Encroachment on States' Rights.

New York, June 9 [Special].—Citing a ruling of the Supreme court last Monday that the nation's huge insurance business is subject to federal control, Gov. Bricker [R., O.] tonight assailed "continued encroachment upon state sovereignty" by "New Deal planners."

Bricker, who is seeking the Republican Presidential nomination, referred to the 4-3 decision holding that the insurance business is subject to federal anti-trust statutes. Two justices did not participate in the case.

"In that decision," Bricker charged in a radio network address, "a minority of the court's membership overturned a doctrine which that tribunal had consistently applied for over 75 years." This policy, he said, has had the support of congress and the executive branch of the government.

Coveting Eyes Cast.

"It has been evident for some time," Bricker asserted, "that the New Deal burocrats were casting covetous glances at the huge pool of assets accumulated by insurance companies thru premium dollars from their policyholders and held for them and their families. Control centralized in Washington over the combined resources of the American insurance companies would mean tremendous power.

"That this first step toward such centralization was taken by the executive branch—not by the elected representatives of the people—was made clear in the dissenting opinions of Mr. Justice Frankfurter and Mr. Justice Jackson."

Raises Many Questions.

Stone stated that the majority decision "cannot fail to be the occasion for loosing a flood of litigation to establish a new boundary between state and national power, raising questions which cannot be answered for years to come, during which a great business and the regulatory officers of every state must be harassed by all doubts and difficulties inseparable from a realignment of the distribution of power in our federal system."

Bricker asserted the "millions of policyholders will be aghast to learn that a proceeding instituted by the attorney general of the United States has brought such a state of confusion to the business of insurance. The conduct of the administration in this matter becomes even more shocking when we recall that four-years ago the Democratic platform, upon which the administration was elected, contained a plank in unequivocal language favoring continuance of state supervision over the business of insurance."

OBITUARIES

BROOKS PUSHES G. O. P. DEMAND TO KEEP BASES

Asserts Yanks Expect Safeguards for U.S.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Invasion of Europe increases the need for a Republican national plank demanding retention of island bases necessary for our defense, Sen. Brooks, one of Illinois' representatives on the convention resolutions committee, said in an interview last night.

"I am sure that the boys who are fighting desperate struggles on new beachheads in Europe would want us to demand all safeguards to the future safety of the United States," Brooks said.

Allied nations with claims to islands off our shores should recognize our decisive contribution to stopping their enemies, he added, and interpose no obstacle to building our strength so that we will be ready to help them in the future.

Favors Strong Sovereignty Plank.

Brooks will be prepared to help the platform builders nail in an even stronger plank on national sovereignty than is contained in the declaration of Mackinac Island, he said.

"And I will never be for a so-called international police force with other countries having the power to decide when our boys should be sent to the battlefields," he said.

Brooks' platform duties for his state will be shared by Mrs. Ernest Griffin of Grant Park under a new system alloting each state a woman member of the resolutions committee. She has indicated that she will look to the senator for guidance. He served on the committee in 1940.

Dinner for Green June 24.

Gov. Green, chairman of the Illinois delegation, will be honored June 24 at a dinner in the Grand ballroom of the Palmer House. Complimentary invitations have been mailed to leading Republican men and women thruout the state. Nominees for congress and the state legislature will attend.

Hosts for the event will be Sen. Brooks, National Committeeman Werner Schroeder, Chairman Richard Yates Rowe of the G. O. P. state committee; Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman; Mrs. Griffin, the state candidates, and others.

"There is a spontaneous movement to pay tribute to Gov. Green for his outstanding leadership since his nomination for governor in 1940," Schroeder said. "During that time the Republican party has achieved more victories and, made more progress than ever before in a like period."

MRS. PRENTICE ASKS WILL BE CLARIFIED SOON

Mrs. Clarence C. Prentice of 20 Mayflower rd., Lake Forest, yesterday asked, thru Atty. Walter B. Wolf, an early hearing of the suit of her sons, Leslie and Henry Wheeler, against her, for an interpretation of the will of her first husband, Leslie Wheeler Sr. Mrs. Prentice is trustee of the estate under the will. The suit, filed in the Lake county Circuit court Wednesday, is for the purpose of obtaining the court's interpretation and instructions.

"Mrs. Prentice seeks an early hearing," Atty. Wolf said, "because the suit is merely for construction of the will of Leslie Wheeler Sr. and not for any accounting. It was necessary because of the uncertainties and incompleteness of the will, particularly as to ownership of past and future income, as well as the principal.

"Mrs. Prentice as trustee has not made any payments to herself from her first husband's estate and this suit does not assert that she is disregarding the will or disputing the interests of her sons."

Atty. Donald Defrees, who filed the suit, said:

"The will was ambiguous and there were omissions concerning what should be done with income if certain conditions should arise. Such circumstances have arisen and it has become necessary to file the suit to obtain an interpretation and establish what should be done."

Leslie Wheeler Jr., 26, is a lieutenant on submarine duty in the Pacific. Henry, 24, is an officer in the marines and also is in the Pacific. Wheeler Sr., a manufacturer and sportsman, left an estate estimated at $1,450,000 when he died in February, 1937.

REVEAL MISSING CHICAGO PILOT DIED IN ACTION

Lt. Donald J. Lister, 21, a fighter plane pilot who was listed as missing in action July 13, was killed that day in Sicily, the war department yesterday informed his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Timothy J. Lister, 2845 E. 77th st. A graduate of Mount Carmel High school, Lt. Lister enlisted in the army air forces Feb. 26, 1942. In addition to his parents, a brother, Richard J., a chief warrant officer in the Pacific area, and three sisters, Mrs. Alice Cowan, Mary Jane, and Peggy Lister survive.

A memorial mass will be held on Monday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Bride's church.

WORKER'S DEATH RULED ACCIDENT; DELAY A FACTOR

A verdict of accidental death was returned yesterday at an inquest over Dominick Kadlubowski, 56, of 12008 Indiana av., a laborer who was injured fatally Monday while employed at the Roseland Pumping station, 351 W. 104th st.

Kadlubowski died Thursday in Roseland Community hospital, where he was taken by private ambulance after a delay of one hour. A fire department ambulance stationed in an engine house directly across the street was not put into service because of a rule requiring the authority of a division marshal.

Fire Commissioner Corrigan said his men had given first aid by applying a tourniquet to the victim's leg. The rule regulating movement of ambulances, he said, was put into effect when operators of private ambulances complained the department was cutting into their business. Mayor Kelly has indicated the rule would be revised to allow station captains to use their own discretion in emergency cases.

NORMAN J. FORD, CHICAGO BANK OFFICIAL, DIES

Norman J. Ford, a vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, died yesterday in Presbyterian hospital after an illness of two weeks. Born in Lacon, Marshall county, Mr. Ford began his banking career in Chicago with the Merchants National bank. He was associated with the Continental bank for 49 years and served for 26 years as vice president, specializing in commercial credits. He was a member of the Chicago club, Glenview Golf club, and Bankers club. His home was at 1500 Lake Shore dr. He leaves his widow, Jessie. Services will be held at 2 p. m. today in the chapel at 25 E. Erie st., with burial tomorrow at Lacon.

33D DIVISION VETS TO OPEN PARLEY TODAY

World War I. veterans of the 33d division assembled last night in the Morrison hotel for a social meeting prior to the opening today of their 18th annual convention. Sessions will start at 1:30 p. m. today with a memorial service conducted by the Rev. Roy Merrifield, whose son was taken prisoner in the fall of Bataan.

Two resolutions will be considered by the convention before the annual election of officers. One indorses a proposal to increase pay of infantrymen and the other would make possible membership of World War II. members of the old National Guard division in the association.

Daniel M. Smith, vice president of the association and general chairman of the convention, is a candidate for president. Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, commanding officer of the 6th service command, will speak at the annual dinner tonight. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois selective service director, will install the new officers.

ORGANIZE DIXIE DEMOCRATS TO FIGHT 4TH TERM

Shreveport, La., June 9 (AP).—A group described by a spokesman as anti-fourth term Democrats from six southern states conferred in executive session here today on plans for pushing their demands at the national convention in Chicago.

The spokesman, who refused to permit use of his name, said delegates from South Carolina, Mississippi, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Florida named E. B. Germany of Dallas, a Texas Democratic party leader for many years, chairman of their group.

The group proposed, he said, to take to the convention a block of 100 or more electoral college votes that "would not under any circumstances be cast for a fourth term candidate."

HATFIELD HEADS WEST VIRGINIA'S G.O.P. DELEGATES

Huntington, W. Va., June 9 [Special].—Former Sen. Henry D. Hatfield today was elected chairman of the West Virginia delegation to the Republican national convention. Head of the Huntington Memorial hospital, Hatfield will lead the unpledged delegation of 19 to Chicago.

Walter S. Hallanan of Charleston was unanimously elected to his fifth consecutive term as national committeeman.

Mrs. Frances Ogden Stubblefield of Charleston was elected national committeewoman. She is the daughter of H. C. Ogden, publisher of a chain of newspapers.

FISH INDORSED BY G.O.P. GROUP FOR RE-ELECTION

Spring Valley, N. Y., June 9 (AP).—Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] tonight was indorsed, 127 to 63, for reelection by the Rockland county Republican committee, which rejected the candidacy of Augustus W. Bennet, Newburgh, N. Y., lawyer, who was sponsored by a group of Republican leaders opposed to Fish.

Bennet announced he would oppose Fish in the primary anyway. Fish previously had been indorsed by the Republican committees of Orange and Sullivan counties.

The Rockland county Democratic committee, also meeting tonight, voted to indorse Bennet as the Democratic candidate.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

H. L. writes: "According to all reports, all governmental work for a man in the 30-37 age bracket is considered essential. On Oct. 26, 1943, I was found physically unfit for military service and given a 4-F classification because of a hernia. On April 27, 1944, I was reclassified to 1-A[L]. I am 36, married, and work for the department of the interior. What classification should I have?"

ANSWER: According to a local board memorandum, "A registrant age 30 thru 37 [whether or not he has been found disqualified for any military service or qualified for limited military service only] shall be retained or placed in class 2-A or class 2-B, 'if he is regularly engaged in' an activity in support of the national health, safety, or interest, or in war production." The chances are your board hasn't gotten around to reclassifying you yet.

E. F. R. writes: "I am writing on behalf of a widow of a veteran of World War I, whose husband died five years ago of a nonservice connected disability. He was in service from Aug. 1 to Dec. 15, 1918, which makes more than the required 90 days for eligibility. I am of the opinion this widow is entitled to $30 per month and $8 for each of two children under 18. Where does she apply and how much back pay is she entitled to?"

ANSWER: Under the present law she isn't eligible for anything because she did not file a claim for the pension within one year following the death of the husband. There is legislation before congress for consideration now which, if it becomes law, would make her eligible for similar compensation. Application would be made thru the nearest field office of the veterans' administration.

W. A. S. asks: "Can a man in service be forced to undergo a minor operation for a cyst on the head that he had long before going into service? Medicines and operations are against his faith. He was told that if the cyst interfered with his wearing a helmet they can operate with or without his consent before sending him overseas. Can they?"

ANSWER: When a person enters service and takes the oath he or she is thenceforward "in the hands of the army or navy" and it can do what they feel is necessary to do to make him "serviceable." If the board of medical officers feels the removal of the cyst is necessary it will be done whether the service man likes it or not.

O. N. asks: "If a friend has been honorably discharged from the army and, now classified 4-F, is working in a defense plant where he finds the work too hard and he goes to work at his old job, would his classification be changed?"

ANSWER: It is doubtful that under present regulations he would be placed in 1-A, if that is what you mean. He might be reclassified to 2-A or 2-B on his new job. He may be reëxamined at least once following discharge to see whether he qualifies under current physical standards and, if he does, his board may put him in 1-A if he is found acceptable.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam

BECKER—Elisabeth Becker, June 10, 1943
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true, in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
HUSBAND AND CLARENCE, PVT. RAYMOND, GERTRAUDE, AND LUCILLE.

HOLOUBEK—Albert Paul Holoubek. In loving memory of our dear son and brother, who passed away nine years ago today.
MOTHER, DAD, AND FAMILY.

TO MY MOTHER!
I loved her so in life so short,
She was so kind, so good a sport,
I kissed her head and held her hand,
And where she's gone I can't understand.
I admired her straight and steady walk.
To me she was my lovely queen
And now she reigns some place supreme.
She gave me wisdom, taught me life
I have no heart, it's turned to stone.
I loved her so she'll never know,
I see her everywhere I go.
And if she is with God on high,
May she greet me when I die.
I'll ne'er forget her voice so clear,
Her loving eyes, her laugh so dear.
And may she miss me and arrange my place

SHEEHY—Patricia Ann Sheehy, June 10, 1941.
One by one our hopes grow brighter,
As we near that shining shore,
For we know across the river
Waits our loved one gone before.

Varied Events on Calendar for Week-End

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE first debut dance of the year, several weddings, a Hull House sale, a photography exhibit, and an infant welfare benefit on the immediate calendar prove that life is proceeding more or less normally at home, but while Chicagoans are going thru the conventional motions of the week-end's social engagements, their thoughts will be "over there" with the invasion troops.

One hundred midshipmen from the naval training school at Northwestern university have been invited to Miss Lucile Ralston's debut dinner-dance tonight at the Casino club, since so many of the young men with whom the bud has grown up are away in service. Invitations also have been sent to a number of friends of Miss Ralston's mother, Mrs. John Gould Ralston of Dixon, Ill., and Chicago, and of the debutante's sister, Joan, who made her bow two seasons ago.

Receiving with the debutante will be four classmates from the Masters school at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y.—Miss Ann Atkins of Indianapolis, Ind., Miss Nancy Lewis of New York city, Miss Barbara Warner of Buffalo, N. Y., and Miss Frances Soule of Waban, Mass.—along with one Chicagoan, Miss Nancy Underwood.

Also on Calendar.

Mrs. John Andrews King is opening her home at 65 N. Green Bay rd., Lake Forest, for today's semi-annual sale of the Hull House shop. Handmade linens, china, and summery gifts will be on sale from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. under the direction of Mrs. William McCormick Blair. Mrs. King will entertain at luncheon for the workers.

The Barrington center of the Infant Welfare society is giving a benefit supper-dance tonight at the Barrington Hills Country club, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Leonard Karcher.

Camera fans will flock to the Chicago Historical society to attend a preview of the Third Chicago Salon of Photography which will open from 4 to 7 p. m. tomorrow with a reception and tea.

Edith Mason Ragland [Mrs. William E. Ragland] will tell "Backstage Stories" at the annual meeting and luncheon of the Illinois Opera Guild juniors at 12:30 p. m. today at the Arts club. A second special guest will be Mrs. James G. McMillan, who heads the senior group. Miss Madeleine Hoffmann and Miss Mary Mertes are co-chairmen of the luncheon, at which the new officers will be presented to members and their guests.

Romantic News.

Mr. and Mrs. William Waller Jr. and their daughter, Virginia, are in Pensacola, Fla., for the marriage at 8:30 o'clock tonight in the Episcopal church there of their younger daughter and sister, Judy, to Lt. Fred Farr Thatcher II. of the army air forces. The bride's only attendant will be her sister, unless a close friend, Mrs. Charles N. Seidlitz Jr., the former Josephine Carpenter, was able to obtain transportation from Austin, Tex., to be a second attendant.

Mrs. Waller and her daughters motored to Florida, having received special permission to drive the bride's car south, where they were joined by Mr. Waller. Lt. Thatcher, son of Mrs. L. S. Thatcher of Kansas City, Mo., and his bride will live near his post, Eglin field, Fla.

At a cocktail party Tuesday at the South Shore Country club, Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Vaughn of Sheridan rd. announced the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn, to Lt. Erwin Joseph Hasten Jr., son of Judge and Mrs. Hasten of N. Paulina st. Miss Vaughn was graduated from the Sacred Heart convent in Chicago. Her fiancé attended Northwestern and Loyola universities before enlisting in the army air forces. He just has received his commission upon completing his course in the meteorology school at the University of Chicago.

News of Births.

The John J. Mitchells' numerous Chicago relatives are rejoicing in the arrival of the newest member of their family, the Mitchells' infant son, James, who was born June 5 in the Cottage hospital in Santa Barbara, Cal. Mrs. Mitchell is the former Olga Galvin. Today the baby's aunt, Mrs. John Payne Kellogg, is leaving for Vancouver Island, B. C., taking along her four children for the summer. Comdr. Kellogg at present is stationed in Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Randall Everhart [Nancy Oliver] are being congratulated on the birth of their second son, David Oliver, yesterday in Effingham, Ill. The baby is a grandson of the Maynard Olivers of Winnetka.

Other Events Today.

The graduation exercises of the Lake Forest academy will be held this morning, with Lt. Col. T. W. L. MacDermott, formerly headmaster of Upper Canada college, as the commencement speaker. McPherson Holt, a trustee, will award diplomas, and Samuel L. McSorley III., president of the student council, will give the valedictory. Of the 42 members of the graduating class, two already have entered the service, and many others will join them within a week or two.

Parents and friends of Ferry hall students, alumnae, and trustees have been invited to the commencement luncheon today at the school, when the Alumnae association will present to the school a portrait of Miss Eloise R. Tremaine, principal of Ferry hall for 26 years. Mrs. Walter Velde will make the presentation.

Young women who are entering Beloit college in the fall will be entertained at tea from 3 to 5 p. m. today at the Chicago College club by local alumnae of the college. Miss Valerie Wickhem, president of the Beloit club of Chicago, is in charge of the party.

Aid Ravinia Festival Coupon Book Sale

Movie 'Going My Way' Is a Rare Treat

"GOING MY WAY."

A Paramount picture, directed by Leo McCarey, featuring Bing Crosby and Barry Fitzgerald, and presented at the Chicago.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Such a heartwarming piece it is! Such a down to earth—up to heaven! —human one! The story is rarely beguiling. A droll, unpredictable, canny, kindly, inspiring yarn about a young priest [Bing Crosby], a very old one [Barry Fitzgerald], and the folks with whom their lives are entwined.

St. Dominic's is a poor parish. There's a mortgage on the church, and beloved old Father Fitzgibbon isn't quite able, any more, to cope with perplexing situations alone. [But he thinks he is!]

So—the bishop sends along a trouble shooter—young Father O'Malley —who comes in the guise of an "assistant."

Only he and the bishop know that he really is to be in charge of St. Dominic's.

As the gentle deception goes on, Father O'Malley gathers the reins into skillful, easy hands. . . . Under his diplomatic guidance the wild kids of the community become intrigued with athletics and choir singing. Business matters straighten out. . . . And, despite himself, Father Fitzgibbon takes a shine to his unwanted curate. . . . They do not, however, see alike on some matters, and off goes the little old man to tell the bishop that he must send O'Malley some place else. . . . He learns the truth. . . .

Scenes following his return to the parish house are some of the funniest—and at the same time tear provocative—that you've ever watched. . . . Before your very eyes he turns to a sulky little boy; does exactly what that little boy might be expected to do under unrelished discipline and expert and understanding handling.

O, that Barry [Abbey Players] Fitzgerald! It's a beautiful piece of work he turns out as Father Fitzgibbon.

Bing Crosby's Father O'Malley outdistances anything he's ever done. In fact, as I write, I feel that Mr. Crosby is my favorite movie actor. . . .

Splendid in featured roles are Rise Stevens, as an opera singer who had known the young priest when he was just "Chuck"; Frank McHugh, as a rotund Father O'Dowd; Stanley Clemens, as boss of the 12 minute eggs, and Jean Heather, as one of the many who decide to go Father O'Malley's way.

There's some grand music. Featured number is the "mule" song. The finale—well—there IS something!

This movie I must see again!

225 St. Luke's Students Inducted by U. S. Corps

In ceremonies in Grace Episcopal church last night 225 student nurses at the St. Luke's hospital school of nursing were inducted into the United States cadet nurses corps. The students, all in the cadet uniform, heard talks by Mrs. Ada Crocker, chairman of the Illinois State Nursing council, and the Rev. William T. Travis, chaplain of St. Luke's. Miss Madeleine McConnell is director of the school.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 9.—In "Dr. Wassell," C. B. De Mille pulled out every emotional stop the human mind could contemplate. I kept thinking of that song Judy Garland sings so well—"Zing Went the Strings of My Heart." Yes, the old boy's done it again. Picture's beautifully done. Gary Cooper gives almost his finest performance. Signe Hasso's talent is properly used—at long last and finally. Dennis O'Keefe romps home in a part right up his alley. Like all De Mille's pictures, dramatic highlights are overemphasized, but you've got to take your hat off to him—he's still our Cecil "Barnum" De Mille. . . . Bob Hope's two minute eulogy of our fighting men on his broadcast, written by Glen Wheaton, was the finest thing Bob's ever done on the air. . . . Barney Ross is in town talking a deal with Metro for the story of his life. If they get together, he'd like John Garfield to play him. . . . Walter Pidgeon and Veronica Lake sure are a funny combination, but they did all right as a team in St. Louis for the fifth war loan. . . . Acquanetta is dissatisfied at Universal. She's leaving in two months. You'd be surprised at what studio's trying to make a deal with her.

Times Are Tough—or Are They?

You've heard of our man power shortage. It reached the acute stage at "Dr. Wassell" opening when Constance Bennett, Elsa Maxwell, and Virginia Zanuck had to share Gregory Ratoff. . . . Little Elisabeth Taylor and Roddy McDowall were a refreshing looking couple there, while Mickey Rooney and Ava Gardner had more to talk about than when they were one. She's a luscious looking dish. I don't blame Mickey. . . . Joan Fontaine was on Charles Mendl's arm, and Vallejo Gantner, down from San Francisco, was delighted at the number of friends who still remembered him. . . . Sam Goldwyn wants to borrow Dean Herans from Universal for "Those Endearing Young Charms." Dean played comedy lead in that on Broadway. His first epic here was "Christmas Holiday" with Deanna Durbin. . . . Hal Wallis is dickering for "One Touch of Venus." . . . Gosh! Elinor Troy, who didn't marry Tommy Manville, is back with a bankroll that would choke a horse.

Boys Meet Girls, and Vice Versa.

At Metro I accompanied three beautiful hunks of men from "Winged Victory" to the "Ziegfeld" set—and what luscious lassies! Even Flo Ziegfeld would have been proud of them. Costumes by Helen Rose were out of this world. One is made of 1,500 ermine tails. Natalie Draper was streamlined in black velvet and silver fox. Helen O'Hara, Henry Clive's daughter, could double for Dolores. She's 6 feet tall; carries herself like "Man o' War," and she's a complete knockout. [Dolores, in case you've forgotten, has been a prisoner in France ever since war started.] Then there was newcomer Lucile Bremer. Her first, "Meet Me in St. Louis," had been previewed night before. I asked how she liked herself. Her reply was, "O, I wanted to do it all over again." I learned that she was one of Gertrude Lawrence's doubles in "Lady in the Dark." She did some of her dancing while Gertie made a quick change. Lucile got her training with the Rockettes, was voted by them as the one most likely to succeed. She went to Paris during the world's fair with the Rockettes for one dance, when they competed with dancers from all over the world, and won. After watching her, I knew why Fred Astaire said, "She's one of the most beautiful dancers I've ever held in my arms."

What a Pair of Wows!

Paramount's writing a script to team Betty Hutton and her sister, Mary, even tho it'll have to borrow Mary from Universal. . . . Maria Montez boasts that one dress in "Bowery to Broadway" weighed 14 pounds. Seemed incredible. Then I discovered she was telling the truth. It looks like a scanty bathing suit of net and spangles. Weight was all in a long train, which comes off soon as she hits the screen. . . . Luise Rainer doesn't get many jobs here, but she sure is making marvelous friends thruout the country. . . . Marsha Hunt has the only chassis that can wear clothes designed—but not used—for Katharine Hepburn. What Marsha has above the neckline is prettier than Katie's.

Here and There.

Anita Colby tells me top New York photographers have taken a tip from Hollywood and started an agency all their own, patterned after General Casting here, to protect themselves against rising prices of beautiful models. . . . Tom Baldridge's state, Virginia, is backing him for presidency of the United States Junior Chamber of Commerce. He's Metro's man Friday in Washington. . . . Al Pearce and Arlene Harris are rehearsing a burlesque of "Romeo and Juliet" for the Hollywood Canteen. . . . Johnny Farrow is getting raves from his boss on stuff he's turning out on "Two Years Before the Mast." . . . Marie Wilson's husband, Corp. Al Nixon, came out in one piece after doing crash landings for an opus called "Ditch and Live." He told Marie about a fellow who had a locker next to his, and a pin-up picture of Marie. Al asked if he knew her. Guy said, "No, but she's my girl." Al was too good a sport to say, "Yeah, and she's my wife." . . . Metro may buy a story idea by Laraine Day which is being written by Robert Riley Crutcher. It's titled "All Out for Murder" and has a Washington comedy background.

The chapel of the Winnetka Congregational church will be the scene of the marriage today of Miss Susan Breck Burlingham, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Burlingham of Winnetka, to Lawrence Crane Woods Jr., son of Mrs. Woods and the late Mr. Woods of Sewickley, Pa. The small family ceremony will be followed by a reception in the home of the bride's cousin, William C. Boyden, and Mrs. Boyden. After a brief wedding trip Mr. Woods and his bride will live in Sewickley.

Only immediate families will be present at the marriage of Miss Ruth Virginia Miller to Staff Sgt. Arthur Leonard Ellis this afternoon in the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. Runkle Fisher of Oldwick, N. J. Sgt. Ellis' mother, Mrs. C. Groverman Ellis of Gloucester, Mass., and Wayne, is in the east for the ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Le Roy M. Miller of Maplewood, N. J., and of the late Mr. Miller. Sgt. Ellis, a grandson of Arthur G. Leonard of Chicago, is stationed at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

Many relatives and friends from out of town have gathered for the wedding today of Miss Helen Margaret Spencer, daughter of Mrs. John Charles Spencer of N. Lowell av., and Lt. Francis Patrick Matthews Jr. of the army. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews, and sisters, Miss Patricia, Miss Marian, and Marguerite, are here, as is the bride's brother, Lt. Spencer Jr. of the army, who is stationed in New York and who will give her in marriage at the service at noon in St. Viator's church. A reception will follow in the Spencer home, and Lt. Matthews

America's only Bra with "The Lift that never lets you down"

The only difference between a good and poor figure often is a matter of a clever brassiere. In Perma★Lift a miracle happens at the base of the bra-cup where a patented cushion inset softly lifts your bosom, holds that firm rounded contour, never becomes limp or lax through constant washing and wear.

Strict Parents Foster Deceit in Teen-Agers

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

My young readers, and there are far more teen-age boys and girls reading this column regularly than most parents would believe, keep coming to me again and again in a sort of despair about what is quite a widespread state of affairs. I answer them in personal letters and make suggestions which are aimed at bringing about a better understanding between them and their parents; and aimed, too, at opening the eyes of their parents to the serious mistake they are making. But also I feel that repeated articles on the subject are a necessity. This letter will explain what I am talking about:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"I am a young girl 15 years of age. Up till the present I have done nothing but go to school, come home, do my homework and go to bed. And on Saturdays I take my piano lessons.

"Mrs. Bevans, the question I want to ask is, is it any crime for a 15 year old girl to associate with girls and boys of her own age? And if so, what?

"I also want to know is it a crime for her to have company of the opposite sex? I want to know, because my parents seem to be very much against it. And because of their grudges I have no friends of my age. Will you try to help, because I feel I'm old enough to have company? And I would like to know your opinion."

Another letter [from a 13 year old] contains, in part, these statements: "Since I have gotten a little bit interested in boys, my mother is suspicious. She questions me and scolds me, and says I shan't go out at all. I don't know what to do."

All I shall do now is make three brief and forthright statements: One is, that many parents' resentment, when boy-interest is shown, is due to a certain reluctance to lose their little girl, and a certain jealousy of outside experiences. The next comment is that much of the restriction is based on the fear of unpleasant sex experiences. The third remark cloaks a warning. Denying young persons a normal social life drives them from you and often into deception.

'Rose Marie' Opens Season Inauspiciously

"ROSE MARIE."

Operetta with book and lyrics by Otto Harbach and Oscar Hammerstein II., music by Rudolf Friml and Herbert Stothart, book staged by Doug Leavitt, dances and ensembles by Carl Randall, ballet directed by Natalie Kamarova. Presented in revival by the Messrs. Shubert at the Civic Opera house Friday evening, June 9, 1944.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Well, at least we weren't out in the rain, huddling under umbrellas and blankets in an untimely bout with "operetta under the stars." But I can't think of much else to say for "Rose Marie" as it opened the "Summer Festival of Famous Operettas" at the Civic Opera house last night. It had assets, but they were frozen, undeveloped, or otherwise less than completely negotiable. Marguerite Piazza, who changes the spelling of her name with each bulletin, was lovely to look at and to hear, when she was singing. As an actress, she was bogged down by one of the coyest roles in the repertory. Arthur Maxwell is a handsome baritone who needs only direction to score a success. Roy Barnes has a durable tenor for a big theater, and the fledgling chorus of dancers has promise. But the show lacks pace, brilliance, fire, and style. It just galumphs along, wondering what to do next.

Perhaps the show can be pulled together, but it would take a gargantuan effort by a master hand. It ran into bad luck when both its promised stage and dance directors were unable to get here, but it seemed to me last night that it would have been better if Alfred Evans, the musical director, had been delayed, too. Mr. Evans directs in a flabby, sentimental style that robs the songs of sparkle and the ensembles of zest, and he is so slow on cues he kept the whole cast waiting for the orchestra.

There has been an attempt, more gallant than gifted, to bring the show up to date with a few timely gags about ration books and Charlie Chaplin, and something astounding has happened to the costuming. Wanda, the squaw, looks like something out of a second class floor show and wanders thru the frozen north in a few wisps of chiffon and an accent. And the chorus girls sing about their pretty clothes and wear them, too, in the first act north, altho the number belongs in the second act Quebec. It's a bit confusing, in case you were trying to follow the story, tho perhaps no one was as grim as all that.

The show ran late and I was unable to stay until Mme. Kamarova unveiled her second act ballet, but her Indian opus for Karen Conrad and Pittman Corry was not what an ex-star of Ballet Theater ought to be caught doing. So it all boiled down to Miss Piazza and Mr. Maxwell singing "Rose Marie" and the "Indian Love Call," to a few glimpses of Billy Kent struggling to put over an old role gone cold, and to the remembered undulations of the "Totem Tom Tom," which was not very well sung, but which was starting to be, as I left the theater, well danced.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

It's Not the Heat.

It was during the recent hot spell—remember? A policeman stopped two men who were fighting in the street, then the policeman wandered over to a group of noon hour spectators.

"D'ya know what causes that?" he asked, and supplied his own profound answer: "It's the humidity."

Smoking in Offices.

Anent a survey having to do with men and women smoking in offices and why women aren't given the same privileges as men, here are my gleanings:

One doesn't have to have 20-20 vision to observe the lack of good smoking manners on the part of women. Witness their decorum in rest rooms, trains, restaurants, and at lunch counters. Deliver me from sitting next to a female smoker at a lunch counter! She will, of course, have her elbow resting on the counter while snorting smoke like a fiery dragon, dispelling any doubt her neighbor might have about her ability to huff and to puff! She will let her ashes fall where they may [usually on my stockings] and her epilog to this little comedy of manners is the array of heavily lipstick-marked cigaret butts she strews about her.

I firmly believe that both men and women office employes who must meet the public should be restricted in their smoking. To see an employe finish a "drag" while a customer waits is in extreme poor taste—and a visit to the county building and city hall are the best examples I can offer of abused smoking privileges.

Will ask you early for a date;
The one with whom you'd like to rate

BETTY CLARKE.

It Sticks in the Mind.

The definition of a hat given by a North Park college student: "Any piece of debris which when put on the head stays there."

On the Memo Pad.

There's a woman glass blower at Western Electric who, during her noon hour, blows perfectly charming little figures and animals. . . . The prejudice against the "lady boss" seems to be disappearing; several white collar girls have written that women are more understanding. . . . An employer decries [via the mail] off-color stories told by an otherwise nice stenographer in his office and suggests I remind the gals that men just don't like this. . . . For week-end reading, try "It's a Woman's World," edited by Mary Louise Aswell, a collection of stories by well known writers grouped under headings: "Women in Love," "Women and Children," "Women and War," and "Women's Professions."

INSTALMENT XXXVI.

DECEPTIVE HOLE.

Cockrill went over to the doorway and paused for a moment. "Your turn and see me, Edna; I take three paces forward. . . ." He raised his hand dramatically, poising an imaginary knife. "You stand staring at me, terrified and incredulous . . . and I strike!"

"I think this is horrible," said Esther in a low voice.

"I daresay it was horrible at the time, too," said Cockie briefly. "Now—he's dead. What do I do? Do I snatch the proof out of his hand and clear out? No, I don't. I dress the body up first, and lay it out on the table. Maj. Moon—that wound from the knife; it wouldn't have bled very much?"

"Not externally," said Maj. Moon.

"And the second wound—it would have had to be made very shortly after death, to have bled at all?"

"Almost immediately."

"Yet there was blood all around the edges of the tear in the gown; that means that the gown was put on almost immediately the girl was dead. It wasn't a clean gown; it had been used before. Miss Woods—where would a soiled gown be kept?"

"In the laundry basket," said Woods, "out in the ante-room, waiting to be collected."

"It would have taken a little time to go and get it then?"

"Yes, a minute or two; and the basket would have been fastened . . . you couldn't get it open all in a second."

"You told us before that the murderer was dressed up in a gown," put in Eden, coming forward from the cupboard. "Perhaps he had also brought one along for Sister Bates."

"No, he was wearing a fresh gown and mask from the linen cupboard; we checked that up after wards. This one was soiled. Besides—I don't think he knew that he was going to need a gown for Sister Bates."

"Well, when did he find out?" said Freddi, impatiently.

"When he saw her standing there with one in her hand," said Cockrill, triumphantly.

There was a startled silence. Woods blurted out at last: "You mean—that's what she had hidden away in the poison cupboard? A surgical gown?"

"Your surgical gown, Miss Woods."

"Mine?" said Woody, stupidly.

"I only saw Sister Bates once, for a few minutes' interview," said Cockie, turning it over in his mind. "I thought she was a foolish creature; but that's a different thing from being a stupid creature. She saw something that day, after Higgins died, that gave her the whole clue to what had happened . . ."

"Why should it ever have suited her?" said Eden.

"I wonder," said Cockrill, lifting a sardonic eyebrow.

Gervase shrugged his shoulders angrily. "The whole suggestion is absurd. How should Bates have noticed anything wrong with the cylinder? She'd have had to see that it had been painted, to understand what had happened. Well, how could she? She wouldn't have been fooling about with it. It isn't the sister's business to deal with the cylinders; the V. A. D. does that. . . . And anyway, after Higgins died, the cylinders must have been practically full; they wouldn't have needed changing. Why should she have been touching them?"

Esther spoke suddenly, quietly, from her place at William's side. She said: "You're wrong, Gervase. Sister Bates could have noticed the cylinder that day. Don't you remember that Woody took Higgins down to the mortuary, and left me to clear up for her? I didn't know the routine, of course, and Sister Bates helped me. She may easily have touched the cylinders, or even changed them."

"In fact she must have," said Barnes. "Otherwise the next patient would have died, too."

"So you see!" said Cockrill.

"I don't see what it had to do with the gown," insisted Woody.

"Ah, the gown," said Cockie. "The gown was the clue to it all; the really substantial clue. Miss Sanson has shown us that Sister Bates was fussing around in the theater that morning, after Higgins died; she may have noticed the gown then, or later; we don't know . . . but at any event, she hid it away in the poison cupboard on a shelf that wasn't much used; and when the murderer found her she was standing there by the cupboard with the gown in her hands. He killed her to get it; but having killed her, he couldn't take it away; he couldn't go marching about the hospital with a soiled surgical gown under his arm, without somebody noticing it. He had to leave it in such a way that we should not notice it; or noticing it, shouldn't understand its significance. He dressed the body up in it and he added the mask and boots and he laid the poor girl out on the table, to look like some sort of crazy afterthought . . ."

"Lunatic's the word," broke in Freddi impatiently. "Who but a lunatic would have killed Bates to get the gown from her, and then gone away and left it. It doesn't make sense. I don't believe a word of it." She dismissed the whole business and marched over to Barney, leaning over his shoulder to look with professional interest at William's face. "He's doing fine," said Frederica.

Even Esther faintly smiled. Cockrill brought them all up with a jerk, saying coolly: "And then, of course, having laid the body out as we've seen—the murderer stabbed it a second time—thru the gown."

Woody recoiled, as ever, from this ugly thought. "But why—that's what I just can't see."

"To make us think that the hole in the green gown had been made when the body was stabbed."

They stared at him. "But wasn't it? When was it made then? And why—why was it made? Surely—surely it must have been made by the knife . . .?"

He picked up a piece of lint, gingerly fished a surgical knife from a tray of instruments on the trolley, and, with a single gesture thrust it thru the lint. It left a tiny, almost imperceptible slit.

"So what?" said Freddi, remaining unimpressed.

"So the hole in the gown was quite a big, jagged hole. It was made—not by the stabbing; but to cut something away."

Freddi had lost all pretense of interest in the patient now. She asked, "To cut what away?" I don't understand. What did he want to cut away from the gown?"

"A smear of black paint," said Cockrill.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Arthur G., Chicago—My girls say that a stamp moistener is a handy applicator for liquid shoe polish. They like its pointed sponge tip and find it especially handy to take along on week-end trips.

Mrs. Bill H., Gary, Ind.—I'll pass on a good homemade polish for old furniture which has become discolored and dirty. I make this myself and have used it for years. Take vinegar, sweet oil, and turpentine in equal quantities, and shake well. You'll find vinegar a help in getting rid of dirt and oil a help in polishing. I use a soft cloth for application.

Lily B., Cedar Rapids, Ia.—If you run out of red polish for red shoes, try a lipstick. I keep containers on hand which are almost empty for this purpose and my girls are always using them.

Plea Renewed for Women to Roll Bandages

Women of all nations are united in a common cause at the Red Cross surgical dressing center, 180 N. Wabash av., where bandages and sponges are made for shipment overseas. Hundreds of women have put their hands to work in saving lives of American soldiers, but more are needed.

This week for the first time the dressings are being packed for shipment in small water-proof containers which may be dropped into the sea off an invasion coast to float toward shore. Plenty of the new shipping boxes and a huge supply of material for dressings are on hand, but a shortage of workers threatens to keep production below the required needs of soldiers on the battlefields and beachheads.

"If the war department orders us to ship 100 boxes of 4x8 dressings and we have only 99, the entire order has to wait until some one volunteers to roll bandages and make dressings," Miss Marguerite Brown, R. N., director of the center, explained in an urgent appeal for more workers.

Yesterday units of women representing Finland, Denmark, Greece, Poland, France, and Sweden were at work. In addition there were other workers who had banded together as the Navy Mothers, the Grandmothers club, Gen. MacArthur unit, Musicians Table, and the Lone Wolves, the latter composed of workers who didn't belong to any organization but who wanted to contribute their bit.

Conversation sandwiched in between rolling bandages concerned the latest news of some loved one in uniform. Two of the women at the French unit table discussed the invasion. "But don't call it invasion. They are liberating France just like the Americans did before," said Mrs. A. J. Herom, 745 Brummell st., Evanston, who was a World War I. bride. Mrs. Harold Hyman, 1062 Ainslie st., who spent her childhood near Caen, France, where allied troops have been fighting, recalled that she had played on some of the French beaches where landings were made.

"We must have millions of dressings ready for shipment overseas if we are to do our part," Mrs. Hyman said. "I know what war is. I saw the last one, and we can't let our soldiers down."

To meet the quotas, boosted because of the invasion, Chicago must have 8 million dressings ready for shipment by the end of July. It takes about two minutes to make a dressing, and that means hundreds of idle hands must be put to work, according to Mrs. Joseph J. Driscoll, vice chairman.

The offices of the surgical dressing center on the fourth floor at 180 N. Wabash av., will be open three nights a week—Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday—from 5 until 9 o'clock. Volunteers may work at the center, or any of the 700 units scattered thruout the city daily except Saturday and Sunday from 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. The telephone number is Wabash 7850.

"After reading The Tribune story yesterday one business executive called Red Cross and offered the services of three of his employes for 1½ hours daily," Mrs. Driscoll said. "That's the kind of coöperation we need if we meet our quota for June and July."

Alumni Day Festivities at N. U. to Include Tea

Mrs. Stuart Fox of Wilmette, president of the Associate Alumnae of Northwestern university, will, with other officers of the organization, receive Northwestern alumni at a tea this afternoon in Scott hall on the Evanston campus. The tea is one of the Alumni day festivities at the university. Others among hostesses at the tea will be Mrs. Herbert Mueller, Mrs. Wesley Race, Mrs. Robert Beckwith, and Mrs. Arthur Larkin, all of Evanston; Mrs. Gordon McWilliams of Winnetka, Mrs. LeRoy Shelton of Glencoe, Mrs. Lewis Ermeling of Wilmette, and Mrs. Richard Breeden of Skokie.

Peacock Design

BY NANCY CABOT.

A peacock motif is an effective bit of embroidery to be used on a bedspread. It may be of various colors or all white, depending upon the color scheme. The peacock measures 11 by 15 inches, and may be used to create a colorful wall plaque.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the peacock motif, No. 727, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York City.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

The confidence which high ranking army officers place in the WAC is reflected in an announcement by Lt. Richard W. Hansen of the signal corps, which is beginning a special campaign to recruit women for specific positions of a confidential nature at Arlington Hall, Arlington, Va.

Some of the credit for the safe keeping of D day plans goes to the WAC who is private secretary to Gen. Eisenhower, Lt. Hansen said. The jobs which the specially recruited WACs will do for the signal corps are of a similarly secret type.

Women, to be eligible for these WAC posts, must have qualities over and above those required of volunteers who are recruited for other service in the WAC. Only those who have exceptional intelligence, personal integrity, loyalty, and character will be accepted after careful scrutiny by army intelligence officers.

The basic requirement is a minimum of two years of high school study. Additional schooling, especially in mathematics, languages, mechanics, and research, will be considered helpful but is not essential.

Special training courses will be provided by the signal corps for WACs accepted for the Arlington posts. The instruction period will vary in length, depending on individual assignment. All the WACs will receive basic training first.

"The nature of the work these women will do," Lt. Hansen said, "is so confidential that we may not announce details of their duties. They will have every opportunity to advance to non-commissioned officer ratings. Eligibility for appointment to officer candidate schools will apply as it does in other branches of the army."

Application for enlistment in the signal corps may be made at WAC recruiting headquarters, room A-333, 175 W. Jackson blvd., where women also may obtain information about WAC jobs available at Vaughan General hospital, Hines. Brig. Gen. Percy J. Carroll, hospital commandant, has announced that several more WACs will be needed to complete the staffing of the installation preparatory to the arrival of the first war wounded, who are expected soon.

There is a WAC recruiting office open daily at the hospital. The Vaughan WAC posts offer a special opportunity for enlistment to women whose homes are within a 50 mile radius of the installation and who have family ties difficult to break.

The Chicago Woman's club will sponsor a Sunday breakfast party for service men and women from 9 a. m. to noon tomorrow at the U. S. O. club at 131 S. Wabash av. Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Hutchins, co-chairman, expect to extend hospitality to 300 guests in uniform. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cowie, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Denton, Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Earl, Mrs. Virginia W. McGee, Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Gibson, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred W. Waterman also are serving on the committee.

Miss Maybelle Davis will give a party from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. today in the Belmont hotel to benefit service men. Proceeds, after taxes and expenses, will go into the treasury of the Navy Sisters' and Wives' club, of which Miss Davis is a member and which is engaged in numerous projects in behalf of men in the maritime services. The program will include amateur entertainment, refreshments, games, and musical quizzes. Tickets are on sale at the hotel.

Plan Annual Picnic.

The Women's Trade Union League of Chicago, of which Miss Agnes Nestor is president, will hold its annual outing tomorrow at the organization's lodge in the forest preserve north of Des Plaines.

Picnic Attire Is Sturdy and Sophisticated

BY REA SEEGER.

Picnic clothes are here. Those stanch and sturdy fashions are designed expressly for rough going on the beach or out in the country, away from daily routine. There are cotton dresses, cotton aprons, and the ubiquitous cotton pinafores, all tubbable. They can be whirled thru suds and water, then are ready for another week-end.

Then there are the time tested picnic clothes of denim in faded blue or pink and the few remaining models of seersucker, last hope of the casual souls who are allergic to hot irons. New arrivals are made of glazed chintz in rather decorative prints, but these, too, are cottons, equal to gruelling service.

Play dresses of wrap around skirt [detachable] and the one piecer of shirt and shorts come in all these materials. With such a costume one is well garbed. If you crave something new see the outfits of skirt, bolero, and play suit, a trio providing a three way approach to an easy week-end.

These are of butcher's linen in yellow gold, vivid green, bright red, and black. The skirt buttons down the back, the play suit is the new shorts [pleated] attached to a bodice top with shoulder straps and an evening gown with exposed back and chest open cut. The bolero covers the exposed skin surface for wear to and from the outings.

Bands of decorative cross-stitch work trim the bodice top at the front and make the apron pockets. These are the most sophisticated play and picnic clothes of the season. The boleros are bought and paid for separately. Various colors for contrasts are thereby assured.

Thru the Looking Glass

When in doubt about the fragrance a man might like in any toiletries you choose for him remember that spruce is a sure bet. The blind masculine prejudice against anything "perfumey" is breaking down, but there remain thousands and thousands of stalwarts who shudder at the thought that any scent they use might be the least bit feminine in character.

These are the boys who will always endorse the clean scent of spruce; it's an invigorating breath of the real man's world of wind and pines and clean, open stretches. And these are the men for whom you can safely choose, when you want to please them with a gift, either one or a whole family of excellent, inexpensive toilet preparations keyed to spruce.

Of course the perfume is not nearly as important as the quality of the things in which it is incorporated and in fear that we're overemphasizing the scent angle we hasten to tell you that these are the products of an old and honored soap house which knows its business.

The shave soap is fine, the men report, since it lathers luxuriously and is bland as butter. It comes in a shaving mug of ceramic in moss green and is as handsome a mug as you could find. Companion pieces are flasks—in the same smooth, shining, green ceramic — of after shave lotion and of talc in a flesh tint. The shave lotion [the pine scent in this is particularly true and tempting to us] seems to be an especially soothing kind of lotion. It doesn't have that sharp bite which is the bane of the thin-skinned shaver, although it is beautifully refreshing.

You can buy the shave mug and the lotion individually boxed or in combination. If you want to do things up brown—and not at fantastic cost—get the set of all three items in a set. It's a slick gift.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"In what ways can I use up left-over egg yolks?" writes an angel-food cake maker. "There's always sponge cake, of course, but our family is too small to have two cakes on hand."

There are so many useful ways to take care of left-over egg yolks that we could write a whole story on the subject—and will one of these days. Here are a few good ideas for egg yolk use: In making boiled salad dressing, mayonnaise, hollandaise sauce, noodles, and milk beverages; as coating for croquettes and other foods which are to be breaded; to enrich scrambled eggs or cream sauces; to bind meat loaf or meat balls; in making French toast. In baked custards or custard pies, egg yolks may be substituted for the whole egg by using double the number called for in the recipe. Yolks may be hard cooked by dropping them into boiling water as in poaching eggs, or they may be cooked in an egg poacher. Grate the hard cooked yellows and use as topping for creamed dishes, in sandwich fillings, or in potato salads.

First of all, the egg whites [which should be at room temperature before beating] should be stiffly beaten before the sugar is gradually added. This results in a meringue of ideal volume. When spreading the meringue on the pie filling, be sure that it touches the rim of the crust; this tends to make it adhere. Meringue baking temperature is important—350 degrees is considered most likely to give best results. Bake to a delicate brownness, about 15 minutes. While cooling, keep out of drafts, and be sure to cool the pie on a rack.

Two tablespoons of vinegar added to a cup of milk will do the trick. Lemon juice may be used instead.

Do you have a cooking problem? Write or call Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune, Superior 0800. Inclose self-addressed, stamped envelope with mail requests.

Actors' Guild to Hold Benefit Dance Tonight

The 7th annual benefit dance of the Catholic Actors' Guild of Chicago will be held tonight in the Hotel Sherman. A large number of stars and members of play companies appearing in Chicago plan to attend the party and many will participate in a midnight floor show. The guild president is Philip Lord.

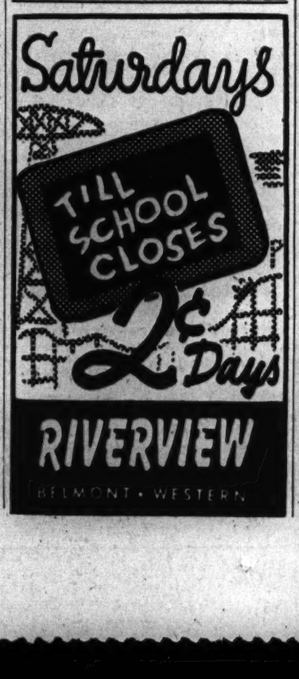
Art Institute Concert.

The glee club of the School of the Art Institute will give its closing concert of the season, a program free to the public, at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in Blackstone hall. Charles Fabens Kelley is the director.



Travel Awards Given Students at Art Institute

The $2,000 James Nelson Raymond traveling fellowship was given to Marian Witt, 23, of 724 12th st., Wilmette. Miss Witt, who has been specializing in textile design, plans to use her fellowship for travel in Latin America. She is particularly interested in studying Guatemalan textiles.

The Anna Louise Raymond $1,500 traveling fellowship went to Lois Koenig, 24, of 7033½ Sheridan rd. She has specialized in painting and sculpture and will use her fellowship for study and travel in either Mexico or South America.

The wealth of art interest which the Americas can offer one another, and the increased awareness of this wealth which the sealing off of European and Asiatic sources have produced, were stressed by Daniel Catton Rich, the institute's director of fine arts, in his commencement address.

"The textiles of Peru, in my opinion, are the greatest in the world in vitality of design and workmanship," he said. He also stressed the value of Mexican murals, of Latin America's Spanish-colonial architecture, and of the art of the pre-Columbian inhabitants of the Americas.

Mr. Rich said he believes the United States has much to offer its southern neighbors in return. Noting that there is a great dearth of first rate European originals in the museums of some South American countries, he suggested that the United States might, among other services, lend a part of its enormous artistic wealth for traveling exhibits.

He warned against a merely imitative approach to the work of other peoples and emphasized that the primary aim of increased familiarity with their art products should be stimulation.

Chauncey McCormick, president of the Art institute, conferred certificates and degrees on the 64 members of the graduating class. In his remarks he noted the school's increased enrollment and the heightened morale of its students.

Regarding students who were not graduated — who entered the services before their courses were completed—Dean Hubert Ropp said that the school planned to be ready for them "with a distinguished curriculum" when they returned.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

Very often it is wise to open the bidding with one club as a prepared bid, so that the future course of action will be smoother and safer. This, however, does not remotely excuse the sort of acrobatics indulged in by North in the following deal.

NORTH
♠ K 9 5 3
♦ A 6 4
♣ A 7 6

WEST
♠ 10 6 2
♥ 9 5 4 3
♦ J 7 3 2
♣ Q 5

♠ A Q J 8 4
♥ 6 2
♦ Q 9 5

SOUTH
♠ 7
♥ A K Q J
♦ K 10 8
♣ J 10 9 4 3

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 spade	2 hearts	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

South could not make the five heart contract, and indeed was lucky to go down only one trick. It was not so lucky, however, that his partner had seen fit to run out of a contract that would have been a lay-down as the cards lay.

There is too much of the backing and filling type of bidding perpetrated by North in this deal. In the first place, North had no opening bid of any description. Two and a half honor tricks do not constitute an opening unless the hand contains a good five card or longer suit. In the second place, since he did open the bidding, North might have realized that his partner would not have jumped all the way from two no trump to five clubs without taking into consideration the ever present possibility that the club bid represented a short suit.

In other words, an opening club bid itself carries an implied warning, and it scarcely should be necessary to repeat the warning at the five level! In this case, as in so many others, it not only was unnecessary but impossible, so far as the safety of the combined hands was concerned!

- Dash pepper

Cream sugar and margarine together and spread evenly in bottom of large loaf pan. A 7 inch square pan may be used. Slice unpeeled oranges thinly, remove seeds and arrange on top of sugar mixture, having slices overlap. Combine remaining ingredients and press down over slices in thin loaf. Bake in moderate [350 degrees] oven for 1 hour. Turn upside down on platter to serve.

PULPIT APPEALS TO PRECEDE 5TH WAR BOND DRIVE

15,000 Workers Attend Rally in Stadium.

F. D. R. to Start Drive

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—President Roosevelt will lead the nation in "civilian D-day" ceremonies inaugurating the 16 billion dollar fifth war loan drive Monday. He will speak during a one-hour radio program to be broadcast over the combined four major networks starting at 9 p. m. [Chicago time] Monday. Most of the program will originate at Texarkana, on the border of Texas and Arkansas, where Treasury Secretary Morgenthau, governors of five southwest states and stars of stage, screen, and radio will join in day-long activities.

The opening on Monday of the fifth war loan campaign will be observed in scores of churches of all denominations in Chicago and Cook county today and tomorrow with pulpit messages urging fullest participation in the drive, Philip R. Clarke, chairman of the campaign in Chicago and Cook county, said yesterday. The drive will continue until July 8.

Messages will ask the courteous reception of volunteer war bond block wardens in their house to house canvas and urge buying bonds from savings in addition to those purchased from income.

Division 6 of the office of civilian defense and the Chicago park district, in coöperation with the treasury department, will sponsor a Flag day celebration, prayer and bond rally at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in Lincoln park. The event will be held east of the Outer dr. between Montrose and Wilson drs. At 7:30 p. m. the same day the army's chemical warfare services will give, at Foster av. and the Outer dr., a demonstration of the chemical equipment now being used in the invasion.

HEIRESS TELLS DIVORCE STORY IN CUSTODY SUIT

Alice Rand de Tarnowsky McIntosh, 37, Barrington heiress who met an absent without leave soldier on a train last July and embarked with him upon a cross-country tour, testified before Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday that she obtained a Mexican divorce from Capt. Alexis de Tarnowsky to marry her traveling companion, Pvt. Charles McIntosh, without crossing the border.

The whole thing was accomplished by "just an agent" whose name she didn't know, she said. She said she never had been in Mexico. Asked by the judge if she made a deposition, she said, "I don't believe so." She said she was notified of the divorce by mail. She married McIntosh a few days later.

It was the third day of testimony in the suit of Capt. Alexis de Tarnowsky, now with the army in England, tc obtain custody of the couple's three minor children.

McIntosh is attending the hearing with his wife, having been granted leave from Camp Philips, Kas., rehabilitation center, where he is being detained on a seven year sentence growing out of his A. W. O. L. tour.

ILLINOIS SEEKS THIRD N. C. A. A. TRACK TITLE TODAY

NATION'S STARS WILL COMPETE AT MARQUETTE

12 Final Events on Night Program.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., June 9.—Track stars of the nation's colleges and universities, headed by Fred Shefield of Utah, defending high jump champion, will compete here tomorrow in Marquette's stadium in the 23d National Collegiate Athletic association meet. Despite transportation restrictions and military regulations, the deep south is the only section absent in the roll call of 26 teams.

Altho the entries come from coast to coast, Southern California, winner of the national championship for the last nine years, will not be represented. This default probably opens the way for Illinois to win its third title in the history of the games. The meet will have a distinctly midwestern flavor with all the stars of the Western conference, Notre Dame, Marquette, Iowa State, and Missouri in action, yet the scattering of athletes from afar will produce several closely fought battles for the 14 national championships.

Milwaukee Boosts Meet.

Finals in two events, the discus and javelin throws, will be held tomorrow afternoon in conjunction with qualifying preliminaries in the shorter races and in other field competition. The night program will start with ceremonies at 8 o'clock and 15 minutes later the mile runners will begin their four time circuit of the track.

Marquette, long time host to the Central Collegiate meet as well as to National A. A. U. meets anticipates one of its largest crowds. Milwaukee citizens have backed the affair superbly and, among other things, have purchased 1,500 tickets which have been awarded to the youngsters participating in the recent paper salvage drive.

Young, Conwell Lead Sprinters.

Aside from Shefield's defense of the high jump championship, in which he will be challenged by Ken Wiesner of Marquette and Armin Bauman of Minnesota, the feature of the program unquestionably will be the sprint rivalry between Buddy Young of Illinois and Ed Conwell of New York university. Buddy is the Big Ten champion and Conwell took the Eastern Intercollegiate sprints. Here, without question, is the showdown for national honors.

Capt. Bob Kelley of the Illini is entered in the 440 yard dash, which many believe will be the closest event on the program. Herbert McKenley, Boston college; Elmore Harris, Morgan State, and Joe Shropshire, Fresno [Cal.] State are worthy rivals for the Big Ten champion. Kelley's all-time best mark of :48.1, which he set two weeks ago, gives him no edge in the National quarter mile.

Fisher Is Threat in Hurdles.

There is none to deny the mile championship to Ross and Bob Hume of Michigan, unless the twins themselves decide to find out which one is the faster. Quite likely they will run their ninth dead heat of the season and since they won the Central Collegiate mile last week in 4:14.6, an approximate facsimile is beyond challenge.

Harold Fisher, Miami [O.] university hurdler; William Bangert, Missouri weight man; Robert Carlsen, Fresno State pole vaulter, and Guy Walk, Colorado javelin thrower, are among the other stars from outside of Western conference territory. Fisher is certain to make a battle of the high hurdle race against Dave Nichols of Illinois. Bangert successfully may challenge Joe Kelly of Notre Dame and Nelson Klaus of Purdue in the discus and shot.

Fisher probably is the man Buddy Young must defeat in the low hurdles. Young also must expect a challenge in the broad jump from Ralph Tyler of Ohio State.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

COACH RAY ELIOT of Illinois is hoping for no immediate drastic changes in the collegiate football code, but one of the new rules he will advocate after the war would give the team scored upon the option of changing goals. . . . "A strong wind can do wonders for two phases of the game—punting and passing," says Ray, "and the team scored upon might like a chance to show what it could do, right away, with the same advantage." . . .

Don Heffner.

Hugo Bezdek.

Eliot also is a post-war proponent of resuming play in the second half at the point play stopped in the first. . . . "Think of the anticipation that will be created in the minds of the spectators if one team has second down, six yards to go for a touchdown, when the half ends," the Illini chief continues. "'Will they score or will they hold 'em?' the fans will be asking." . . .

An item in the current issue of the publication Scholastic Coach indicates that Ohio and Illinois and Indiana still reign as the nation's prep basketball centers. . . . Ohio had the largest number of schools competing—1,125—with Illinois second, 880, and Indiana third, 787, but the latter two states were the only ones in the United States which had sell-outs for their tournament finals. . . . Vermont had only 24 teams and Montana set the fastest scoring pace with an average of 100.3 points per game. . . . Louisiana was the only state which failed to report an increase in attendance and nine of the 11 states which suspended tournament play in 1943 came back into the fold this year. . . . Hugo Bezdek, former big league manager and Penn State football coach, is operating a poultry farm at Doylestown, Pa. . . . Don Heffner, now playing second base for the Los Angeles club after terms with several major outfits, is rated the best pivot man in baseball.

In the ballyhoo attendant on Buddy Young's attempt at matching Jesse Owens' feat of scoring 20 points in a Big Ten conference track meet, the first man ever to accomplish it may have been overlooked. . . . He was Carl Johnson of Michigan. . . . In the 1919 meet Johnson won the broad jump, 24 feet 1 inch; the high jump, 6 feet 2¼ inches; the 120 yard high hurdles, :15.4; and the 220 yard low hurdles, :25. . . . The first two marks were new records and Johnson's 20 points remained unmatched until Owens came along in 1935 to shine for Ohio State. . . . The football meeting of Pennsylvania and Duke next Sept. 30 will be the first in the history of the two universities.

TEN TO START IN LINCOLN FIELDS' $5,000 LA SALLE

La Salle Field

TEN horses were named in the overnight entries for the $5,000 added La Salle handicap at Hawthorne today. It is for 3 year olds and up at one mile and three-sixteenths. The field in order of post position follows:

	Wgt.	Jockey.	Prob. Odds.
Rosy Brand	109	J. W. Martin	6-1
*Daily Trouble	110	A. Bodlou	5-2
Soverton	102	F. A. Smith	6-1
Valdina Foe	110	O. Grohs	4-1
*Equifox	120	A. Bodlou	5-2
Shot Put	109	J. Higley	4-1
Devalue	109	E. White	10-1
Paragram	102	R. Campbell	8-1
Coley Bay	100	No boy	20-1
Alaflag	105	No boy	10-1

*David Straus and Howard Wells entry.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Ten horses, topped by the Howard Wells-David Straus entry of Equifox and Daily Trouble, will go postward today in the sixth running of the $5,000 La Salle handicap, sixth and feature race on today's Lincoln Fields program at Hawthorne.

Equifox, 7 year old son of the great Equipoise, has been given top impost of 120 pounds, while his running mate will carry 10 pounds less. Equifox took down the winner's shore of the purse in 1942, the last time the mile and three-sixteenths event was run at the Lincoln Fields track in Crete. A. C. Ernst's Aletern was the victor last year.

Beaten on Memorial Day.

The Wells handicap star went to the post the favorite in the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap at a mile and one-sixteenth on Decoration day and was beaten as the long shot Quizzle came thru. The added distance in today's race is expected to be in Equifox's favor, but he will have to reckon with an old Chicago favorite, Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put, winner of the Morrison Hotel purse last Wednesday, and victor in the 1941 La Salle.

Shot Put, which has been an entry in the La Salle since 1940 when he ran second, today will be light weighted at 109 pounds and has been installed secondary co-favorite with John Marsch's Valdina Foe, which will be seeking his first victory since last September.

Both Chicago Owned.

Both Shot Put and Valdina Foe are Chicago owned and will find company in the field with the Happy Hour farm's Rosy Brand, J. M. Hutchins' Soverton, Mrs. Ed McEvoy's Paragram, the Circle W. stable's Devalue, and Miss Pat Kay's Coley Bay. The Indian Rock stable's Alaflag rounds out the field.

The day's program has a secondary feature, a $2,500 overnight affair for 3 year olds and up at six furlongs, which will bring back into action C. U. Yaeger's Corona Corona, winner of the $5,000 Steger handicap last Saturday. Others entered in the event, labeled the Garfield Boulevard purse, are Ruth Sidell's Burgoo Maid, Mrs. E. H. Miller's Traffic Court, Bushwhacker, The Finest, Bolus, Bright Willie, and K. Dorko.

Bolo's Choice Wins, Pays $27.80.

The smallest crowd of the meeting, 7,455, braved the all-day rain to watch yesterday's card being run off on an extremely sloppy track which proved a boon to Bolo's Choice, Hyman Friedberg's 3 year old son of Bolo, which overtook Captain Eddie in the stretch to win the afternoon's feature, a mile and 70 yard event for 3 year olds. American Eagle was third in a field of seven.

Bolo's Choice, ridden by Apprentice Stanley Freeman, broke on top and then laid in third place behind Captain Eddie and Umpydan until they came out of the stretch turn. Then Freeman gave him the whip and moved him out in front to win by two lengths.

The betting handle was $584,425, and the daily double was worth $84.60 when Ever Flying took the first race and Miss Monarch the second.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

On a day better suited to ducks than to golf, Mama Duck herded her little ones onto Oak Park's 18th green to pick up a few points on putting as Emory Peter was finishing his round in the Illinois Seniors' Golf association tournament yesterday. Peter's sports togs fell far short of the ducks' raiment in the matter of water proofing, so Bob Bruce, assistant pro, deflected the downpour while Peter putted.

73 Seniors Finish 'Up' on Rain in Soggy Golf Hegira

By CHARLES BARTLETT.

When hardier golfing spirits are created, the Illinois Seniors' Golf association will produce them, if yesterday's 21st annual spring tournament of that frisky organization at the Oak Park Country club is any indication.

These men, a majority of them business executives who are finding it difficult to crowd in their golf during the war years, might well have gone to their offices and plants when they arose to see the beginning of yesterday's incessant downpour. Instead, a goodly company was at Oak Park's first tee before 9 o'clock. As the rain increased its peskiness, the seniors added to their field.

Seventy-three Finish Full 18.

When the last foursome came home in the dank gloaming, shortly after 7 o'clock, 73 members of the association had played a full 18. The remarkable feature of this soggy hegira over the full route is that in order to qualify as a senior, you must have attained your 50th birthday.

The seniors are divided into five classes—A, for those of 70 years of age and over; B, for 65 to 69 years, inclusive; C, for 60 to 64, inclusive; D, for 55 to 59 years, inclusive, and E, for those fledglings who rank from 50 to 54 years, inclusive. A summary of yesterday's field reveals that 16 class A members went the limit, 15 in class B, 18 in class C, 14 in class D, and 10 in class E.

Prizes Are War Stamps.

All prizes were awarded in war stamps. A blind bogey also was held in which the awards were season tickets to the Chicago Victory National tournament to be held at the Edgewater Golf club, June 28, 30, and July 1 and 2.

The seniors are hoping for better treatment from the weather man in their next two 1944 events—the Pro-Seniors' tournament at Skokie on July 10 and the annual championship event at Exmoor on Sept. 1—But if the W. M. persists in being ornery, they avow they are willing to meet him at his own game and have promised to appear in even larger numbers.

CLASS A—Low gross, E. L. Essley, Westmoreland, 45—44—89; low net, Fred Hill, Skokie, 93—14—79; Dr. C. M. Case, Westmoreland, 94—15—79; R. E. Wagner, Riverside, 102—22—80, and George Pope, Skokie, 98—14—84; low putts, I. M. Bilderback, Champaign, 30.

CLASS B—Low gross, J. H. Harmon, Exmoor, 44—47—91; low net, Squire Fouch, La Grange, 101—22—79; H. J. McIvitt, Sunset Ridge, 95—15—80; H. I. Green, Urbana, Ill., 96—14—82, and J. B. Bensley, Olympia Fields, 104—21—83; low putts, Dr. L. F. Bryant, Oak Park.

POSTPONE PREP TRACK FINALS UNTIL TUESDAY

Finals in both the junior and senior divisions of the 32d annual Chicago Public High School league track meet were postponed yesterday because of rain until 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The meet will be held in Key Branch stadium, Roosevelt rd. and Central av.

Because of the baseball semi-finals Monday afternoon, it was decided by A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education, that Tuesday would be the next best choice. Schurz, defending champion in the senior division, has an early lead with 14½ points scored in the field event finals which were held in conjunction with the preliminaries of the track events.

Amundsen scored 13½ points in four field events finals to take the lead in the junior division. Tilden, now trailing by only 2½ points, is expected to give Amundsen a close fight for the crown.

Much-Rested Sox to Battle Tigers Today

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox were reported yesterday to be well rested for their possible baseball engagement with the Detroit Tigers in Comiskey park this afternoon. They have done no great exercising since last Sunday, inasmuch as the two runs essential to victory in their game Wednesday night walked home, thanks to the wildness of Hal Newhouser. Newhouser, by the way, is expected back for a calmer performance in one of the games of tomorrow's double header.

There is no telling whether or not today's game will be played, of course. The heavens really gave down yesterday [which didn't mean another double header inasmuch as it was one of the week's four open dates] and there was some question about getting the grounds in shape.

They're Seeking No. 8.

If the clubs decide to play this afternoon, Bill Dietrich will go after his seventh victory and will be opposed by the hard working Dizzy Trout, eager to ring up his No. 8. The Sox, if they haven't forgotten, will be bearing down to extend their American league victory string to eight straight.

As a result of last night's American league games, the Sox will go into today's battle only two and a half games out of first place but, because of the jumbled race, they also are only two and a half ahead of the eighth place Philadelphia Athletics. But possessors of seven game winning streaks don't have to worry about that.

Dietrich's Good This Year.

When Dietrich pitches—this afternoon, if the game is played, or tomorrow—it will be his 11th game. In the ten he has pitched he has turned in only one really bad performance, in a night game in Washington. While winning six and losing four he has pitched 74 innings in which he has been attacked for 84 hits and 32 runs. In that bad game in Washington, the night of May 13, Bill was touched up for six runs and ten hits in one and two thirds innings. Throw out that sour one and spectacled William has a neat record.

For some miraculous reason, he's not so hot-headed as he's been in previous seasons. Some observers give this reform as one of the main causes of his new success.

Then Come Those Browns.

Trout has lost the same number of games as Dietrich and has won one more. However, Dietrich has whipped Detroit once and Trout has pitched to only three Sox since the exhibition season. He was called in too late in the ninth inning on May 6 to save a game for Stub Overmire.

Following the Tigers into Chicago will be Luke Sewell's league leading St. Louis Browns. The Browns, who have jolted the Sox 5 times in 7 tries this season, will be in for scheduled single games Monday and Tuesday afternoons, and Wednesday night. Whether or not the single afternoon games will be played will be announced later.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 9.—The Cubs made two neat approaches toward victory tonight but in each case the Pirates decided they'd be far more comfortable by getting back on even terms. Before either could do anything about dissolving the deadlock which was a 3 to 3 matter at the 10½ innings stage, the umpires decided to beat it for cover because of a steady drizzle and thus avoid the expense of a pressing job. It will be replayed tomorrow afternoon, originally an open date.

The outcome which meant nothing either way to Charley Grimm's cellar occupants, was the best Claude Passeau could get from his most impressive display of the season. He was fixed modestly with a 1 to 0 lead in the third and his response was a three hit performance for five innings but in the sixth two hits on each side of a stolen base brought on the first tie. Then Bill Nicholson, by exploding his seventh homer, provided a two run edge in the eighth but in the same inning the Pirates tied it again, the explosive item being a triple by Frank Colman, a pinch hitter.

Hughes, Passeau Get Three Apiece.

Fritz Ostermueller, the former American leaguer whose past includes a brief stretch with the Dodgers, who dispensed with his services 10 days ago, pitched against the Cubs from start to finish and, strangely enough, his most persistent tormentor was Roy Hughes, another American league graduate. Hughes nicked the lefty for a single which drove in the first run. He doubled just prior to the Nicholson round tripper in the eighth and singled again to open the 10th but the next three fellows fouled out, Passeau also notched three hits for himself but none figured in the run production.

The Cubs happened on to their third inning run because Ostermueller made the mistake of being generous before retiring anybody. He walked Billy Holm who was given a ride to second on Passeau's bunt. A fly handled by Jim Russell erased Merullo and Hughes slapped a single into center where the rifle throwing Vince DiMaggio was loitering. The latter cut loose a bull's-eye shot to the plate but in some way Holm slid in before Al Lopez could tag him. Then Phil Cavarretta walked and this provided Nicholson with an opportunity, but he bounced gently to Frank Gustine.

Pirates Tie It Up.

Passeau had two Pirates flattened in the sixth before encountering the entanglements that brought on the tying run. Russell drilled a single into right and stole second when Passeau served up a slow curve to Elliott. The runner had such a jump on the pitch that Holm did not even bother to make the throw. Elliott then scored on a single to left by Bob Elliott.

Hughes arranged for the Cubs' momentary pleasantness in the eighth by leading off with his two base shot down the left field line. Cavarretta, after trying to bunt, wound up with three strikes. However, Nicholson quickly took things into his hands with that No. 7 homer, the ball caroming off the foul line pole in right for the Cubs' 3 to 1 lead. In the home half Gustine singled and was forced by Russell, Elliott singled, and Colman was asked to bat for Dahlgren. He came thru with a three bagger to right center, sending in the tying runs. Di Maggio flied to Dallessandro to close the busy inning.

St. Louis' Lead in Race Is Cut to 1½ Games.

St. Louis, Mo., June 9 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians scored three runs in the seventh innings and made it two straight over the league leading St. Louis Browns tonight by winning 4 to 2. The defeat reduced the Browns's lead in the American league race to 1½ games.

A single by Lou Boudreau with three on base in the seventh inning won the game for the Indians.

SENATORS BEAT A'S, 2-1.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9 (AP).—Early Wynn pitched the Washington Senators to a seven hit 2 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics tonight, scoring the winning run himself.

Wynn singled to start the fifth inning, advanced on an error and scored on George Myatt's single. The Senators scored in the first inning when George Case singled and went around the bases on a wild throw, an infield out, and an outfield fly.

MACK APPROVES DRAFT RULING IN LITWHILER CASE

Philadelphia, Pa., June 9 (AP).—Connie Mack today voiced approval of the ruling by the local draft board that called baseball essential, while emphasizing that he would not dispute any board's decisions.

The board made the ruling in the case of Danny Litwhiler, St. Louis Cardinals' outfielder, formerly with the Phillies, granting him a 2-A classification on the grounds that baseball contributes to public welfare, health, and interest.

While declining to comment on the case in its effect upon baseball as a whole, Mack said, "I think the man on the board who declared baseball essential really said something. Baseball has done a great deal for the army and navy.

"I think if the invasion goes well the boards will be easier on men over 26. There are many players over that age in the leagues now, and I believe these fellows have a good chance of staying in baseball.

"However, I would never dispute the decision of any draft board."

BELAIR ENTRY IS CHOICE IN $10,000 HANDICAP TODAY

New York, June 9 (AP).—There'll be plenty of speed at Aqueduct tomorrow when 10 of the top flight sprinters meet in the seven furlongs of the $10,000 added Carter handicap.

Heading the field is the entry of Apache and Bossuet from William Woodward's Belair stud. Apache will carry top weight of 132 pounds and Bossuet will have the second highest impost of 127.

The Belair team probably will be opposed by such horses as Mrs. Tilyou Christopher's Doublrab, winner of the Carter in 1942 and a recent impressive victor in New England; A. C. Ernst's Alquest, third in the Suburban, William Ziegler Jr.'s Wait a Bit, and Joe W. Brown's Brownie.

Permane Suspended by Aqueduct Stewards

New York, June 9 (AP).—Bobby Permane, apprentice rider, drew a 10 day suspension from the stewards at Aqueduct today, charged with crossing the field when leaving the gate astride Nebraska, favorite for the second race, which wound up third. Permane's suspension becomes effective Monday.

Marine Patty Berg Will Defend Title in Chicago

Second Lieutenant Patty Berg of the marines, who has been stationed in Philadelphia since last fall, will be transferred to the Chicago office in time to be available to defend her championship in the Women's Western Open golf tournament, June 19-24, marine officers in Chicago said last night. The tourney will be held at Park Ridge.

133 COMPETE IN BOND CLUB GOLF AT KNOLLWOOD

One hundred and thirty entries played in the Bond Club of Chicago golf tournament at the Knollwood club at Lake Forest yesterday, Thomas M. Hoyne, Howard Emig, W. P. Youngelaus and W. B. Egan turning in a card of 303 for low net foursome score.

Individual low gross honors went to J. S. Ferbee, who scored 83 and individual low net honors to Don D. Stephens, who had 89—17—71. W. B. Egan, with 77, had veteran's high net score and the prize for the low guest net score went to Robert E. Kenyon, who scored 82.

Million for Soldiers Is Bowlers' Aim

The Bowlers' Victory legion met yesterday in the Stevens hotel and pledged itself to raise $1,000,000 from the nation's bowlers during the 1944-'45 season to purchase recreation equipment for soldiers in the battle areas overseas.

The money raised, it was decided, will be turned directly into the United States treasury, altho it will be earmarked for the war department, which thru the special service division will purchase recreation equipment requested by men in the battle zones.

Raised $187,000 Last Year.

Elmer H. Baumgarten of Milwaukee, secretary of the American Bowling congress, and A. L. Ebersole of Washington, secretary of the National Duckpin congress, who are serving as co-chairmen of the Bowlers' Victory legion, presided at yesterday's meeting.

Last year, it was reported, the legion raised $187,000, which money was used for the most part to buy 200,000 decks of playing cards, 325,000 pocket sized books, and 17,254 fishing kits for soldiers overseas. In addition $26,873 was allotted to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis and $5,000 was allocated to the Infantry Journal, which purchased books for distribution to prison camps where American soldiers are under capture.

Army Is Represented.

Col. Theodore P. Bank, former University of Michigan football star, and Lt. Col. Donald D. Duncanson, both of whom represented the army's special service division, attended the meeting.

SEEK REMOVAL OF CEILING ON BOWLING PRICES

Members of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of Greater Chicago have petitioned the office of price administration to discontinue the price ceiling on bowling and to drop bowling from the activities which it governs, Charles Burmann Jr., president of the association, said yesterday.

"The members of the association are providing a service, not selling a commodity of any kind," Burmann said. "Should the price of labor remain at its present level, we probably would not raise the bowling price per line even if there were no ceiling, but we do feel that bowling is something over which the OPA should have no jurisdiction."

The OPA raised the bowling price ceiling from 25 to 28 cents a line on Sept. 1, 1943, Math Luecker, secretary of the association, revealed. Luecker added that pin boys, thru their union, demanded and received an increase of from six to seven cents a line at about that time and that, this year, they demanded and have been paid eight cents a line. Afternoon bowling is 23 cents a line, and league bowling 77 cents for three games.

Resume Play Today in Illinois Tennis Tourney

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 9 [Special].—At least one victory in a Big Ten baseball double header here tomorrow with Purdue is all the University of Michigan needs to add an eighth team championship to its conference record for the 1943-'44 academic year.

The Wolverines top the baseball standings with a record of six straight triumphs. Northwestern, however, has finished with a mark of eight victories and two defeats and should the Boilermakers upset Michigan twice in the final Big Ten series of the year, the Wildcats thus would have clear claim to the championship.

Bowman, Hirsch to Pitch.

Michigan will depend upon the pitching of Bliss Bowman and Elroy Hirsch against Purdue, which has won four of its seven conference starts. Bowman has been beaten only once during the season, that defeat being administered by Notre Dame when the Irish won their only decision in a four game series with the Wolverines. Hirsch has a record of five straight triumphs for the season.

WILDCATS MEET IRISH.

Northwestern university's baseball team will wind up its 1944 season today when it meets Notre Dame at Dyche field in Evanston. The Wildcats concluded their Big Ten season last Saturday by winning a double header from Minnesota to clinch second place.

The Irish come up to their annual clash with the Wildcats with a record of nine victories and nine defeats. Either Bill Martin or Jack Barrett will hurl for Notre Dame.

Coach Wes Fry, who piloted Northwestern to its best season in four years in his first year as coach, has nominated Don Trompeter as the pitcher for the year's final. Trompeter was one of the consistent winners for the Wildcats this year as they rolled up eight victories against two losses in conference competition.

TURF FAN SOLD WRONG TICKET; TRACK MUST PAY

New York, June 9 (AP).—Harold Holberg's contention that he bet $100 on a horse which paid $610 for such a wager, but was given a ticket on another runner by mistake, was upheld in Bronx Municipal court yesterday.

Holberg said when he tried to place a $100 bet on a horse named Charlene the mutuel clerk gave him one on Profile and refused to rectify the error. When Charlene won, Holberg brought suit against the Westchester Racing association which operates the track. A jury today awarded him the amount he would have won. The racing association said it would appeal.

Profile? It finished fifth.

BANKER BROWN PARTICIPANT IN MONEY PARLEY

2 G. O. P. Congress Members Named.

Washington, D. C., June 9 [Special].—The American delegation to the world monetary conference opening July 1 at Breton Woods, N. H., the composition of which became known here today, will include Edward E. Brown of the First National Bank of Chicago, who is president of the federal advisory council of the federal reserve system, and two Republican members of congress.

Edward E. Brown.

President Roosevelt said at his news conference this morning he was unable to announce the delegates because one of the congressional delegates had not yet been agreed upon. It was learned tonight that this choice probably would be Sen. Taft of Ohio, third ranking minority member of the banking and currency committee.

Wagner in Delegation.

Sen. Wagner [D., N. Y.], chairman of the committee, will be in the delegation, as will Rep. Spence [D., Ky.], chairman of the house banking and currency committee, and Rep. Wolcott [R., Mich.], ranking minority member of that committee.

Altho no explanation for the Republican selection on the senate side was immediately available, some discussion may have arisen over the question of the seniority basis.

The ranking minority member of the banking and currency committee is Sen. Tobey of New Hampshire. However, Sen. Danaher of Connecticut, second ranking minority member, said that so far as he was concerned, "there is no man on our side of the committee better qualified for that job than Bob Taft."

From congressional and other sources, it was learned that the other six of the 11 members of the delegation will be the following:

Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, head of the delegation; Dr. Harry White, monetary adviser to Morgenthau; Dean Acheson, assistant secretary of state; Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the board of governors of the federal reserve system; Fred Vinson, director of economic stabilization, and Dr. Mabel Newcomer of Vassar college, one of the three authors of the treasury's report on intergovernmental fiscal relations.

Press to Have Free Access.

Statements by officials who returned today from an inspection trip at Breton Woods indicated that arrangements for members of the press would assure maximum access for them and the staffs. The Mount Washington hotel, scene of the conference, would be open to the press, it was said, thus discounting apprehension that the conference may create difficulties for the press such as those which marked the early stages of the food conference.

Representatives of the state department, which is in charge of conference arrangements, appeared to share the sentiment of treasury officials that, because of the technical nature of the conference and its importance to future world peace, everything possible should be done to keep the correspondents in touch with the conferees and experts.

The sessions at which the foreign exchange committee of the American Bankers' association has been going over with treasury experts the allies' joint statement of principles on currency stabilization and plans for an international bank for reconstruction and development ended today on a note of discord.

At Odds on Many Points.

Altho it was clear that the bankers and the treasury were at odds on several points, there was no formal statement.

Some members of the A. B. A. committee indicated in interviews, however, that there was more opposition to the international bank plan than to the stabilization scheme, on the ground it probably would necessitate a central bank in the United States such as most foreign governments maintain.

Dr. White denied statements attributed to him by the United Press to the effect this country needed a strong central bank anyway and that bankers could stand a little more federal supervision. The treasury issued an official denial that Dr. White had made any such remarks.

Persons close to the banking committee said the offhand statement of any of its members could not be regarded as representing the committee's view since its membership was by no means of one mind on the subjects under discussion.

The question of a central bank was viewed by some officials as academic because the federal reserve system had functioned during the present administration much like a government central bank even if its stock is owned by member banks.

Jewel Tea's Sales Climb 11 Per Cent in 4 Weeks

Sales of Jewel Tea company, Inc., in the four weeks ended May 20 increased 11 per cent above a year earlier to $4,380,203, the company reported yesterday. Sales in the first 20 weeks this year were $20,773,038, an increase of 1.07 per cent above a year ago.

Urges Refund Money Use as Jobless Wage

New York, June 9 (AP).—Unemployment wages equal to current pay checks would be paid for as long as 24 weeks to war workers discharged because of contract terminations under a program proposed today by Col. Willard F. Rockwell, chairman of Timken-Detroit Axle company.

Source of the funds would be the money returned to the government in the form of renegotiation refunds. Under Rockwell's plan companies would retain this money as a reserve for unemployment payments and, if it became unnecessary, later turn it over to the United States treasury as a sort of "windfall" tax.

Termed Period of Danger.

"The period between a whole or substantial cancellation of war contracts and the resumption of production for civilian use is fraught with danger for both labor and industry," Rockwell said at a luncheon he gave to announce his plan.

Rockwell suggested war producers withhold from 1943-'44 and 1945 gross income after taxes and normal profit, and before renegotiation, a sum up to the equal of one average week's wage or salary for each month of continuous employment of each person on the pay roll, with a maximum total equal to 24 weeks' wage or salary for employes who have worked two years or more.

Reserve For Service Men.

This fund would be paralleled by a similar reserve, also withheld from company income before renegotiation, for ex-employes now in the army and navy.

Companies would retain the funds but would report to the social security board the amounts and names of men covered by the plan.

Payments to employes would start with war contract cancellations or, in the case of men from the army and navy, on application by the ex-soldier. They would continue until the company found the man a job, the money due was exhausted, or the worker found other work.

Any money not paid out would, at the end of two years, be paid to the federal government.

U. OF C. TO START STUDY THIS FALL ON RESTAURANTS

A comprehensive course in restaurant administration, embracing research in human relations and a three year program of graduate studies, will be offered by the University of Chicago beginning next September, Garfield V. Cox, dean of the school of business, announced yesterday.

The program, which provides for three $1,000 fellowships and four $500 scholarships, will be financed by the university and a $100,000 grant made last December thru the National Restaurant association. Research will be directed by William Foote Whyte, newly appointed research associate at the university.

George H. Brown, director of the business problems bureau and the restaurant administration program, said special emphasis would be given to the study of the influence of customers on employe relations.

ASKS CONGRESS TO CURTAIL WLB WAGE HIKE VETO

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Sen. Wiley [R., Wis.] proposed today that the war labor board's authority to veto wage increases be rescinded when such an increase is mutually satisfactory to employer and employe and results in total compensation of not more than $37.50 a week or $1,950 a year.

Estimating that 20 million white collar workers would be affected, Wiley said thousands of cases had piled up before WLB without decision, causing hardships to persons caught between rising living costs and static income.

He proposed the plan as an amendment to the pending price control extension bill.

NEW PLASTIC TAKES PLACE OF RUBBER IN SEALING RADAR UNITS

New York, June 9 (AP).—A new plastic which replaces rubber and seals radar and other electrical devices to make them completely moisture proof was announced today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

The new material is named Fosterite, after Newton C. Foster, Westinghouse chemist who developed it. It is in widespread use by the army and navy and has lengthened the life and service of much electrical equipment.

At a demonstration a transformer was coated with the plastic and placed under water. There the transformer continued to pass electrical current to an electric light. Dr. C. F. Hill, who made the demonstration, said that with coating materials previously available a transformer would function only a few minutes under water. With the new coating, transformers work under water for months.

Two other new plastics were announced. One was described as a missing link, because it is both easy to form into complex shapes and also has the tensile strength of structural steel. Plastics in the past have been either easy to form or strong, but not both. The third plastic stretches while hot, an advantage during molding.

LRB 'OVERRULES' FLORIDA LAW TO CONTROL UNIONS

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—A state law regulating unions cannot relieve an employer of collective bargaining obligations under the Wagner act, the national labor relations board ruled today.

The decision involved the recent Florida statute which requires, among other things, the licensing of union agents. The company, Eppinger & Russell of Jacksonville, had refused to bargain with the certified union because the union representatives had not been licensed under the state law.

Finding that the company's refusal was an unfair labor practice, the LRB ordered the company to bargain, on request, with the Florida Citrus and Allied Workers union [CIO]. Congress did not intend to subject federal laws "to the varied and perhaps conflicting provisions of state enactments," the board said.

RETAILER SALES VOLUME HOLDS AT HIGH LEVEL

New York, June 9 (AP). — Altho many large stores closed early after news of the invasion, retail sales volume last week again was at a high level, Dun & Bradstreet said today.

Seasonal specialties in ready-to-wear again were active and there was a pronounced demand for infants' and children's wear. Cotton dresses and sports wear were heavily requested as warm weather continued. A fairly brisk demand for home furnishings was reported.

INDIVIDUALS GET 400 MILLION LESS INCOME IN APRIL

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—Income payments to individuals in April totaled 12 billion 409 million dollars, almost 400 millions below March, the commerce department reported today.

April payments brought the total in the first four months this year to 49 billion 900 million dollars, an increase of 12 per cent above a year ago.

Bank Advises Careful Study of Cartel Rule

Current efforts of the department of justice to break up cartel agreements as violations of the anti-trust law threaten the United States' position in post-war international trade, the New York Trust company asserted in its publication, the Index. It is "obligatory for this country to reëxamine its position, even if America's present attitude may prove to be right," the article said.

This government's insistence upon unfettered competition was contrasted with the well established cartel system in Europe and elsewhere.

Cartel Commission Suggested.

"Probably the present is the best time to inquire whether the United States could advantageously adopt a selective policy between the extremes of full cartelization and absolute competition," the Index said. It suggested establishment of a cartel commission to pass on the justification, from the viewpoint of the public interest, of each international business arrangement.

"We need a set of rules having sufficient acceptance and permanence to justify international activities on the part of American corporations without fear of future prosecution and stigma," the article continued.

"The cartel device has functioned in foreign lands for almost a century. If it persists after the war—and all evidence points in that direction—American companies will have to observe the laws and customs of cartels and adjust their competitive policies accordingly, or withdraw from foreign fields."

An American trade program out of line with that of other nations may prove a disturbing element when leaders everywhere will wish to establish economic collaboration, it was said.

Basis for 1918 Measure.

The bank recalled that the growing power of European cartels was the basic reason for the passage in 1918 of the Webb-Pomerene act which permitted the formation of associations in export trade. It added that "whether the act was insufficient or whether some exporters have gone too far in seeking to meet aggressive competition is a disputed point. The department of justice contends that it has jurisdiction over the Webb associations to the extent that they violate the Sherman act."

The Index said that since 1939 the department has instituted approximately 40 proceedings against cartel arrangements involving petroleum, chemicals, pharmaceutical products, photographic materials, electric lighting equipment, metals, aircraft equipment, and other products.

PACKAGE FLOUR PRICE FIXING IS DENIED BY THREE

Government charges of a conspiracy to fix the prices of packaged family flour in violation of anti-trust laws were denied yesterday by three of the defendants who took the stand in the trial being held before Federal District Judge Sullivan. They were Howard W. Files, vice president of the Pillsbury Flour Mills company; Richard K. Hammel, president of the Trenton Milling company, and John W. Cain, president of the Midland Milling company. On trial are 15 flour milling corporations, 11 executives, and the Millers National federation.

L. A. Fitz, grain exchange supervisor in Chicago for the department of agriculture, indicated that wheat prices are established by transactions on the Chicago Board of Trade. His testimony was used to show that flour millers have no control over the price of wheat they grind into flour.

FIRST NATIONAL BOOSTS SURPLUS TO 50 MILLIONS

Directors of the First National Bank of Chicago yesterday authorized the transfer of 10 million dollars to the bank's surplus, increasing that account to 50 millions.

The addition was taken in part from reserves and in part from undivided profits. Combined capital and surplus after the transfer totals 100 million dollars.

Stock Trading Selective—Prices Up

New York, June 9 (AP).—The stock market again was selective today with low priced issues providing the biggest part of the volume. The market generally was higher.

Encouraging was a rally in the rails, persistent demand for independent motors, and more strength of peace rated securities such as oils, liquors, automotive accessories, and a variety of specialties.

General Gas Is Active.

General Gas and Electric A was the fastest mover, up ½ at 3½, a new year's high, on blocks running to 22,000 shares. Proposed revision of recapitalization plans which would benefit the company's junior stocks aided the revival.

Sinclair oil was an early sprinter after a higher dividend was declared. It ended up ⅛ at 13½. Peaks for 1944 were touched by Willys-Overland, Hayes Manufacturing, Murray corporation, and White Sewing Machine preferred. Rails recovered on the belief they had been oversold as a war benefited group. Ahead were Santa Fe, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware and Hudson, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, and New York Central.

BONDS ARE HIGHER.

New York, June 9 (AP).—The bond market threw off some of its caution and indecision today and closed with a fairly broad advance under leadership of rails.

There were occasional laggards, but a majority of the more active issues ended up fractions to more than a point in a late rally that superseded a morning of narrow changes. Sales totaled $9,976,800, compared with $9,866,100 yesterday.

The general run of industrials and utilities, altho less aggressive than the carriers, was generally steady, but United States government issues and foreign dollar loans were mostly quiet.

CHICAGO STOCKS RISE.

Prices were higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange on turnover of 19,000 shares. Active issues included Stewart Warner, which closed at a new 1944 high of 15¾, up ¼; Spiegel, 9, up ⅛, and Chicago corporation, 5⅜, unchanged.

COURT ASSAILS STALLING OVER TRACTION UNITY

City, Bondholders Draw Igoe Fire.

BY WILLIAM SHINNICK.

Judge Igoe of the federal District court reprimanded security holders of the Chicago Surface Lines and the city of Chicago yesterday for "stalling and impeding" the court's efforts to have formulated a workable traction unification plan.

Judge Igoe.

The judge, who asked three weeks ago for the drawing up of a unification plan by the investors—one with not more than 45 million dollars of first mortgage bonds—asserted that the investors were thinking of nothing except their own selfish interests and demanding every cent of their holdings back plus 5 per cent interest. [Investor representatives refused to attempt to draw up the suggested plan.]

No Aid to Court, He Says.

"The answers made by the bondholders were of absolutely no assistance to the court," Judge Igoe said.

He indicated displeasure with the city for making the same motion that was made in court yesterday by Attorneys Henry F. Tenney and William J. Friedman, representing the investors—a request for a two weeks' continuance.

After William H. Sexton, attorney for the city, had reported a municipal ownership ordinance was being drafted, and that the city and the investors were dickering for a settlement, the judge said:

"Every time the court talks of taking some drastic action, the municipal ownership plan becomes very much alive. It always has been understood that the city could proceed with its municipal ownership plan without interference."

Petition "Food for Thought."

He then called attention to a petition just filed by Atty. Joseph A. Struett, demanding that the surface lines be taken out of equity receivership [where they have been since 1927] and placed in bankruptcy. He recommended that the city and company attorneys read it; that it would give them "food for thought."

Struett, acting on behalf of several first mortgage bondholders, said regular bondholder committees had made a bold defiance of the court's orders and that this showed the futility of dealing with them. He went into the history of the traction problems, asserting that the court had authorized the spending of 4 million dollars in a vain effort to accomplish a reorganization. He also said that the litigation had been marked by every abuse "inherent in an equity receivership."

Judge Igoe already had threatened to use the bankruptcy weapon and to cut off the 5 per cent interest that the 72 millions of surface lines bonds have been collecting since they were sold in 1907. He agreed with apparent reluctance to grant the two weeks continuance when Friedman said he hoped some plan could be worked out in that time.

SCHENLEY STOCK SPLIT VOTED BY SHAREHOLDERS

New York, June 9 (AP).—Stockholders of Schenley Distillers corporation, at a special meeting in Wilmington, Del., today approved a split of common shares and a stock purchase plan for employes in accordance with proposals made recently by the board of directors.

Common stock will be split on a basis of three shares of $3.33⅓ par value for each two shares of $5 par value stock outstanding. The company said this will increase the total of outstanding common shares from 1,260,000 to 1,890,000.

The total of authorized common stock shares will be increased from 1,500,000 to 2,550,000. Part of this increase will take care of the allotment of 187,500 shares which will be held for sale to employes.

Action Against Packers Consolidated Into 1 Case

Action against Armour & Co., Swift & Co., Wilson & Co., and the Cudahy Packing company, charged in four injunction suits filed by the OPA with having violated meat trimming regulations, was consolidated into one case yesterday and trial was scheduled for Sept. 11 before Federal District Judge Barnes. The OPA is seeking preliminary injunctions to enjoin the companies from selling pork cuts on which there is fat in excess of OPA regulations.

Record Wheat Crop Forecast; Grain Outlook Best Since '42

Washington, D. C., June 9 (AP).—A record wheat crop was forecast by the agriculture department today which said that despite a late start as a result of unfavorable spring weather, national crop prospects appear better for this date than in any of the last 10 years except 1942.

Chiefly because of rains in the southwest winter wheat area during May and a 20 per cent increase in the spring wheat acreage, the production of all wheat this year promises to reach about 1,034,785,000 bushels compared with the 1915 record of 1,008,637,000 bushels, the department said.

Output 836 Million in 1943.

Production last year was 836,300,000 bushels, and the average harvested in the 1932-'42 period was 760,199,000 bushels.

Prospects for corn were said to appear only fair because of late planting caused by unfavorable weather. No forecast as to the size of the corn crop was made, but officials have hopes of a production in excess of 3 billion bushels compared with a long time average of about 2 billion 700 million bushels.

Wheat crop estimates include 714,148,000 bushels of winter wheat compared with 529,606,000 last year and 320,637,000 bushels of spring wheat compared with 306,692,000 last year.

Forecasts for other grain crops included: Oats, 1,193,410,000 bushels compared with 1,143,867,000 last year; rye, 31,608,000 compared with 30,781,000 last year, and barley, 299,533,000, compared with 322,187,000 last year.

Area Prospects Vary.

The department said crop prospects, altho good for the nation as a whole, vary sharply among areas. A large acreage remained to be planted on June 1, particularly in wet areas of Minnesota, Missouri, and Iowa. A few areas in the far west have been affected by dry weather and sections of the south have been hindered by excessive rainfall.

The condition of pastures, spring and early summer source of feed for dairy and beef cattle, was said to be the best for this time of year since 1922.

Peach production is expected to total 67,427,000 bushels compared with last year's short crop of 42,180,000 bushels. Pear production was forecast at 27,825,000 compared with 24,585,000 last year. The department said total fruit production seems likely to be near record size.

Meat Animal Slaughter at New May High

Slaughtering of meat animals last month established a record high for May, the department of agriculture disclosed yesterday. New May records were set in all the principal classes, cattle, hogs, and sheep. Calf slaughtering set a seven year May record and was the third highest on record for the month.

Federally inspected packing plants thruout the entire country slaughtered 989,457 cattle, compared with 938,708 in April and 774,474 a year ago. The five month cattle total was 5,168,315 against 4,274,762 a year ago. Calves totaled 541,341 last month, 555,083 in April, and 327,606 a year ago.

Hog Slaughter Soars.

The month's hog slaughter soared to 6,642,616, compared with 6,289,588 in April and 5,357,261 a year ago. In the five months packers slaughtered 35,316,846 hogs, against 24,247,343 a year ago. Sheep and lambs totaled 1,693,888 in May, 1,378,388 in April, and 1,622,078 a year ago. The five month totals were 8,043,824 this year and 7,798,181 last year.

Chicago packers paid steady prices for hogs yesterday, but left about 13,000 unsold at the close of trading. Both the top and average prices were unchanged at $13.75 and $12.55, respectively. The average equaled the lowest level since February, 1942.

Receipts were smaller at most of the large packing centers. Arrivals in Chicago were 14,000, including direct shipments to packers, compared with 20,451 Friday of last week.

Top Price Paid Is $13.75.

Packers paid the $13.75 a hundred pounds top for part of the "government weights" offered, and paid $11.75 to $12 for a large part of the 275 to 300 pounders.

The light supply of cattle sold at mostly steady prices. No highly finished steers were offered, the best selling at $15.50.

HOUSE FINISHED EACH 40 MINUTES FOR ARMY USE

Toledo, Ore., June 9 (AP).—Houses—complete to linoleum, furniture, range, and refrigerator—are speeding off assembly lines here to the army at the rate of one every 40 minutes.

Lifting of army secrecy today permitted disclosure of what the Prefabricated Engineering company says is a record in mass prefabrication of houses.

The houses have one to three bedrooms and are delivered in sections.

NATIONAL BISCUIT.

I would appreciate information regarding the trend of earnings on National Biscuit company common stock. F. N.

Answer: Profits of the company, largest organization in the cracker and cooky baking industry, have shown a tendency to stabilize during the last year or so. Previously a gradual decline in net income had been in evidence from year to year since 1938, despite an annual expansion in sales.

Altho for 1943 net income again declined after all deductions, the comparison with 1942 would have been favorable except for increases in special write-offs of property and intangibles and in reserve for post-war contingencies. For the first quarter of 1944, a small gain in net income resulted in per share earnings of 36 cents for the common stock, compared with 35 cents a year ago.

For the four year decline in profit prior to 1943, the increase in income taxes was largely responsible. The ratio of profit to gross sales, which had amounted to 14.2 per cent in 1938, had slipped to 6 per cent in 1942. For 1943, after the increases in special deductions, the profit margin fell to 4.3 per cent on the largely increased sales volume.

Earnings per share on the common for 1943 were $1.10, compared with $1.19 in 1942, $1.37 in 1941, $1.43 in 1940, $1.62 in 1939, and $1.64 in 1938.

People and Events

Clifton E. Morris has been appointed trust officer of the La Salle National bank, President C. Ray Phillips announced last night. Morris formerly was associated with the Geneva Trust company in New York.

Clifton E. Morris.

ORDER ALCOHOL DISTILLERS TO USE 10 PCT. RYE

WPB Reluctant on WFA Request.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 9.—The war production board, under the urging of the war food administration, tonight issued an order effective July 1, that distillers using grain in making industrial alcohol must use rye to the extent of at least 10 per cent. WFA had asked WPB to use at least a million bushels of rye each month for alcohol production to reduce supplies now in terminal storage and to conserve other grains.

Altho no spokesman for the WPB would go beyond the statement that the change was made at the request of WFA, it was learned that WPB officials were extremely reluctant to issue the order. They argued that the program, under which no alcohol may be diverted for beverage purposes, already is running behind requirements and that it is extremely important in the work effort.

Objections to Plan.

Use of rye, besides slowing down the rate of production, which already had been running millions of gallons behind the estimated requirements for 1944, will hike the cost of the product to the government, which is the chief purchaser, it was said.

In some quarters, it was said the order could "bail out" speculators who had bought rye earlier in hope that such a directive would force the market up. July rye at Chicago is quoted about 25 cents a bushel below the high time in May.

Reflecting the WPB's position on the matter was a report that the agency would issue notice that if the order increasing the use of rye in making alcohol results in increasing the market price of rye the order will be rescinded. A large part of the rye in terminal markets is held in Chicago elevators.

Storage Room Needed.

WFA representatives were understood to have argued that rye, piled up in terminal markets such as Chicago, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, and Kansas City, must be moved out to make room for the expected flood of wheat and later of corn.

Total alcohol requirements for 1944 are estimated at 633,900,000 gallons and estimated production will be 612,400,000 gallons, WPB announced yesterday before the order to use rye was issued. The principal user of the alcohol is the synthetic rubber program which will require 365 million gallons. The rest of the alcohol is used for direct military and lend-lease purposes, indirect military and civilian uses and anti-freeze.

WHEAT TURNS HIGHER

Discovery of black rust, a wheat disease, in parts of the Texas panhandle and eastern Kansas, encouraged sufficient buying of futures yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade to give the market a firm undertone. Prices held within narrow limits and closed ¼ to ⅝ cent a bushel higher.

Liquidation developed in rye early, July sold off 1½ cents to $1.03⅛, or within ⅛ cent of the seasonal low, and the deferred deliveries went to a new low. Prices rallied 1¼ cents from the low with the finish ⅛ to ⅛ cent down. Oats closed ½ cent higher to ⅝ cent lower and barley was ⅛ to ¼ cent lower.

July oats were firm because wet weather was expected to slow up harvesting in southern states.

CIVILIANS TO GET SMALL SHARE OF DRIED FOOD PACK

Only five per cent of the 1944-'45 supply of dehydrated vegetables will be allotted to civilians by the war food administration, E. O. Pollock, WFA regional director of food distribution, said yesterday. Most of the civilian supply will go into soups, he said.

About 70 per cent will go to United States military branches and the remainder will go to Great Britain and Russia, with a reserve for liberated regions and other exports. Slightly more than 246 million pounds of vegetables are expected to be processed during the year beginning July 1, an increase of 40 per cent over 1943-'44.

STEEL INGOTS' PRODUCTION IS HIGHER IN MAY

New York, June 9 (AP).—Production of steel ingots in May totaled 7,680,472 tons, an increase of about 131,000 tons above a year ago, and the second highest monthly total this year, the American Iron & Steel institute reported today. Output in April totaled 7,568,530 tons.

Production in the first five months this year was 37,844,642 tons, an increase of almost 1,000,000 above a year earlier. Steel mill operations averaged 96.8 per cent of capacity in May against 98.5 per cent in April and 98.4 per cent in May last year.

FRENCH WOMAN WELCOMES CANADIAN PARACHUTE TROOPS.

[Associated Press Wirephoto: From Signal Corps.]

Long lines of American soldiers march inland on the French invasion coast (background), as additional men, armament and supplies follow them ashore. Half-tracks and an amphibious "duck" already have made shore from the landing craft in the first thrust against the Germans.

[Associated Press Wirephoto: From Army Air Forces.]

[Associated Press Wirephoto: From Signal Corps.]

Survivors of a landing craft which was sunk during the opening phase of the invasion of France arrive in a British port and depart for station hospital to receive medical attention.
